IMPARTIAL HEARING CALLED DESIRABLE

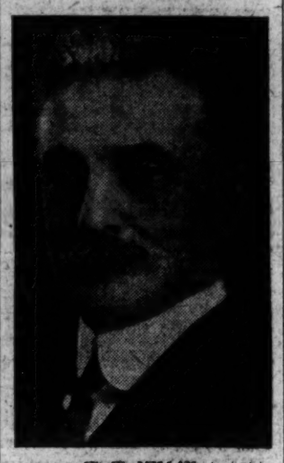
DISTRICT OFFICIALS ARE QUITE SATISFIED

Regard Hospital as Having Clean Slate, Taliaferro Tells Questioner.



W. W. MILLAN.

The Board of Public Welfare submitted its final report on conditions at Gallinger Municipal Hospital to the District Commissioners yesterday, after an investigation lasting three weeks, during which about 70 witnesses were interrogated.

As predicted in The Post, the report, signed by John Joy Edson, chairman, was a complete exoneration for the institution, practically all of the charges made by The Post, Judge Kathryn Sellers, of Juvenile Court, and other critics being denied flatly.

The report has been accepted without question by the Commissioners, and so far as they are concerned Gallinger has a clean slate and the investigation is ended and closed, it was stated by Commissioner Sidney F. Taliaferro.

No Action Planned.

Asked what action, if any, the Commissioners might take with regard to Gallinger, Commissioner Taliaferro said:

"We do not plan to take any action. The report speaks for itself; we think it is a very good report, and accept it as such."

In its report the committee stated that it has addressed letters to the surgeon general of the Army, the surgeon general of the Navy, the surgeon general of the Public Health Service and the superintendent of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, requesting each of these officials to designate an officer of high rank to form a committee for the purpose of making an examination and inspection of the equipment and conduct of the hospital, with view to having a report from competent experts not in any way connected with the administration of the hospital or with the District government.

Report as Made by Board.

Following is the report in full as submitted by the Board of Public Welfare to the District Commissioners:

To the Honorable, the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia:

Recently there appeared in one or more newspapers of the City of Washington articles containing certain statements alleged to have been made by the judge of the Juvenile Court of the District of Columbia, from the bench, severely criticising Gallinger Hospital, particularly with reference to certain specified cases, and avowing it to be the purpose of the judge to send no more wards of that court to said hospital under any circumstances.

About the same time there appeared in one of said newspapers a series of articles, in which a reporter of said paper, who had obtained admission to the psychopathic department of the hospital by feigning amnesia, gave a detailed account of what purported to be his experiences, observations and treatment while an inmate, which account was likewise severely critical.

Board Controls Hospital.

Gallinger Hospital is one of the institutions under the control of the Board of Public Welfare, and the board, because of the gravity of the charges, and, especially because of the high source from which the first-mentioned criticisms emanated, at once took up the question of an investigation of the hospital in all its departments. It was decided to make such investigation and the committee on medical service was directed to take up the task for the board. It should be stated here, for information, that the extended character of the board's duties makes it imperative to operate through committees. Each member of the board serves on at least two committees. The committee on medical service has for its chairman, one of the medical members of the board. One of the regular members of the committee has been absent from the city during the entire period of the investigation. His place was filled by appointment of the other medical member of the board. The vice chairman, not a regular member, was directed to assist the committee. The investigation has thus been conducted by

$200,000 JAIL THEFT CHARGED BY COUNT

DEPORTATION IS FOUGHT

New York, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—Count Albert Sichofsky, Polish adventurer, today obtained a writ of habeas corpus in an effort to gain release from Ellis Island, where he is held for deportation, and go back to California and prosecute claims for more than $200,000, of which he charges he was deprived while under investigation and in prison there for the last nine years.

In support of his application for a writ, the count through his attorney made sensational charges against the district attorney's and sheriff's offices in Los Angeles and against one whom he described as "a Mr. Gannon, warden of Folsom Prison."

The count charges that on Gannon's advice while in Folsom Prison he paid out $16,680, which he was informed was the verdict and costs of a civil action against him, and that subsequently he found out that $12,680 of it went to Gannon.

Count Sichofsky knew of the plaintiff in the civil action only as "a Mr. Emanuel" and never found out what the suit was all about or why it was brought against him.

The count also, his attorney said, charges that after a Sacramento newspaperman had interested himself in his behalf, he was spirited out of Folsom Prison several days before his sentence expired last June, taken in an automobile under guard and incommunicado to San Francisco, and placed aboard a train for Ellis Island.

Count Sichofsky, an internationally known gambler, regarded by the United States Labor Department as one of the most dangerous criminals who ever entered this country, according to his attorney, further charges that the district attorney's office in Los Angeles owes him $14,021.22.

Of this the attorney, William Owen Van Keegan, said the district attorney's office took away $4,200 from him when he was first arrested there on an embezzlement charge in November, 1920. The rest of the $14,021.22, the count charges, was with-

Naval Committee Plans Inquiry Into Work of Shearer.

PRESIDENT'S VIEWS ACCORDED SUPPORT

SHIPBUILDERS HIT BY IDAHO SENATOR

Alleges Geneva Activity Was Prejudicial to United States Interests.

(Associated Press.)

Supported by President Hoover, the Senate naval committee moved yesterday to sift to the bottom reports and charges that propogandists and American shipbuilding corporations had sought to influence the trend of the unsuccessful 1927 Geneva naval limitations conference.

The decision of the committee was unanimous. At the White House subsequetly the President publicly announced that the use of propaganda to obstruct the administration's program for naval limitation was "so obviously evident" as to necessitate an inquiry into this matter.

Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, who first called attention of the Senate to a statement by William B. Shearer, self-styled naval expert, that he had represented American ship builders at the Geneva fiasco, took a leading part in bringing about the committee action.

Borah a Witness.

Appearing as a witness, he said the activities of Shearer at Geneva in behalf of the ship builders amounted to a "criminal conspiracy against the interests of the people of the United States and the Government."

Later, the Idaho senator introduced a resolution to carry out the committee's decision. This is expected to be approved by the Senate prior to another committee meeting called for Monday.

The resolution was prefaced by two declarations. One was that Shearer had filed suit against "certain shipbuilding corporations, alleging services rendered" at Geneva, and the other said that some of the companies "have been seeking, or have secured, contracts with the Government of the United States for building certain vessels, or ships, to be used by the American Navy."

All Will Be Called.

Chairman Hale and Borah both expressed a belief that Shearer, representative of the shipbuilders, and American naval officials would be called for testimony.

At the White House, the President's comment on the situation was made at the customary Tuesday press conference. Later, a transcript of his remarks was issued. It read:

"The disclosure of interference with and propaganda against the efforts of the Government in its negotiations of international agreement for reduction of naval armament are already so evident as to require that these matters should be gone into to the very bottom."

Earlier the White House made public a letter from E. G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel Corpora-

M'DONALD TO COME TO U. S. OCTOBER 4

Definite Date Is Fixed for British Premier's Visit on Arms Cut.

MAY ADDRESS CONGRESS

New York, Sept. 10 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Ramsay MacDonald, prime minister of Great Britain, will arrive in the United States October 4 to confer with President Hoover on disarmament and to decide upon the program and problems to be considered at the disarmament conference tentatively scheduled to be held in London next December.

All arrangements for the visit of the British premier have been completed by his principal private secretary, Sir Robert Vansittart, who is returning to London tomorrow on the steamship Aquitania.

The premier will be accompanied by his daughter and official hostess, Miss Ishbel MacDonald. They will occupy the Prince of Wales' suite on the Berengaria, and on their arrival will be met by representatives of President Hoover, who will escort them to Washington.

Highest official honors will be accorded the visiting British statesmen. Details of the arrangements have not been made public, but it is believed an invitation will be extended to him to address Congress after his conferences with the President. Precedent for this is found in the speech several years ago of Lord Balfour, who was accorded the privilege.

Arrangements for the visit of the premier have been conducted with the greatest privacy. Sir Vansittart arrived here ten days ago on the Mauretania. He went at once to the British Embassy in Washington to make the necessary arrangements with White House officials.

As principal private secretary to the prime minister, Sir Robert never gives interviews or makes public statements. He was not available to newspaper men tonight and final details of the plans for the forthcoming visit will not be given out officially until he has reported privately to the prime minister.

It is believed in official circles, however, that President Hoover has conveyed through him an invitation to the prime minister to be a guest at the White House during his stay in Washington. The premier may accept this invitation or may choose to live at the British Embassy as the guest of Sir Esme Howard.

Many Messages Exchanged.

The visit of the principal private secretary was preceded by a long series of private exchanges between Washington and London. His visit served to confirm the arrangements discussed in these exchanges and to make known the personal wishes of the prime minister as to them.

London, Sept. 10 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The premier's secretary would not say definitely today whether or not MacDonald would sail for the United States September 28 on the Berengaria. He admitted that provisional arrangements had been made, because if the premier decided to go at the last moment it would be necessary to have made the reservations for himself and his daughter, Ishbel, in advance on account of the heavy tourist travel at this time of year.

There is reason to believe that the United States is still hoping Britain will cut her cruiser strength below the figure of 340,000 tons, which MacDonald has set as the minimum.

Relative Failure Hinted.

Unless Britain makes further reductions it is probable Dawes will tell MacDonald that the United States will have to build all fifteen of the cruisers now authorized, and that American opinion would regard this situation as a relative failure in view of Hoover's insistence on not mere limitation but reduction.

MacDonald is likely to reply to Dawes, if he has not already done so, that he has already driven the board of admiralty to the verge of resignation and that to push reduction too war would be to court disaster in Parliament and in the country. Although there are other considerations the question boils itself down to whether the United States will build five cruisers or Britain scrap five. If the cruiser question remans unsettled beyond the first of next month MacDonald will not go, because he is unwilling to permit Parliament to reassemble on October 28 without being on the front porch.

RANKS OF G.O.P. ARE BROKEN IN TEST ON TARIFF

VOTE RUNS 51 TO 27 ON HIS RESOLUTION

Disposition on Norris' Move for Vare Case Action Now Awaited.

REPUBLICANS SEEK DELAY ON MATTER

Backers of Tax Resolution Deny They Intned to Kill Bill.

BY CARLISLE BARGERON.

The Senate Democratic-Progressive coalition broke into the ranks of the regular Republicans yesterday in the first skirmish on the tariff when the Simmons resolution to make income-tax returns public in connection with the tariff discussion was adopted, 51 to 27. The regulars were able to hold only the hidebound members of their group, such conservatives as Senators Glenn, of Illinois; Capper, of Kansas, and Jones, assistant leader, voting with the coalition.

Those voting for the Simmons resolution were:

Voting Against It.

Again the resolution:

Republicans—Allen, Bingham, Dale, Edge, Fess, Gillett, Goff, Goldsborough, Gould, Greene, Hale, Hastings, Hatfield, Hebert, Kean, Keyes, Metcalf, Moses, Patterson, Phipps, Shortridge, Smoot, Townsend, Walcott, Warren, Waterman, and Watson.—27.

Democrats—None.

With the resolution disposed of, the tariff was laid aside until the disposition of Senator Norris' move to take up the case of Senator-elect Vare, of Pennsylvania. The impression was given by the some two hours' debate on this that it is entirely within the generosity of Senator Norris whether there is to be a showdown on this question now or not.

Senator Watson, the Republican leader, moved that the Vare case be deferred until the December session. He pleaded Vare's illness, the fact that the President called the extra session for the tariff and asserted that the Waterman committee which heard the contest against Vare, brought by W. B. Wilson, would report in two or three weeks.

Reed Makes Appeal.

There were some indications after Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, had made an emotional appeal to Norris' sympathy, his most vulnerable spot, that the Nebraskan was weakening, at least to a postponement of a week or so, a delay that would encompass the election in Philadelphia Tuesday, when it will be determined whether Vare is to remain as boss or be shorn of his power.

The Simmons resolution provides that either the majority or minority members of the finance committee may call upon the Treasury for tax returns of any one concerned in the tariff. As amended by Senator Blaine, of Wisconsin, the profits of a company, its losses, wages, officers' salaries, cost of production and other related information would be available. Senator Couzens, of Michigan, amended the resolution to embrace the returns of importers.

The vote can not be taken as the line-up on the rates of the bill, but it does show how badly the Republican ranks are split.

Blow at Tariff Denied.

Proponents of the resolution devoted their speaking time to denying charges of Republican leaders that it was intended to kill the tariff bill. They gave assurances that the publicity privilege would not be abused but would only be used when necessary in connection with discussions of whether a rate should be increased or lowered.

Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, asserting that no injustice was intended to any corporation, declared that the country was tired of the "secrecy" with which the House bill was prepared. He again demanded that the votes of the finance committee be made public.

"They won't look as well to some of you when some of these rates are

ALLEGED MASTER MIND OF NUMBERS GAMBLING SEIZED IN AUTO CHASE

Gaming Den Owners Are Warned by Rover

United States Attorney Sends Letters to Landlords of Suspected Places Listed In Police Survey; Camalier to Head Campaign.

A sweeping campaign against gambling in the District of Columbia was launched yesterday by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover.

The campaign, expected to be far-reaching in scope and result, has been placed under the direction of Assistant United States Attorney Renah F. Camalier, who, while assigned to the Police Court, made a record in prosecution of prohibition law cases.

Camalier was transferred last week from the Police Court to the District Supreme Court, and the gambling campaign assignment is the first intimation as to his new duties.

Rover, in a statement, declared the campaign has been launched with the dispatch of letters to 289 owners of premises where gaming is alleged, threatening them with prosecution unless they rid their premises of the violators of the gambling laws. The United States attorney calls attention to District laws which provide penalties for persons conniving at an offense or aiding and abetting the violator.

The campaign has been under way for some time and is not a result of criticism directed at the United States attorney's office by Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police. In fact, the crusade has been under way for several months and is being carried on with the full cooperation of the Police Department. Rover several months ago called on the police to furnish his office with addresses of premises where numbers games and other gaming activities were carried on.

This list has been furnished to him, after a careful and exhaustive survey by the police, and as a result the letters now are going out from the United States attorney's office.

Rover's statement follows:

"As a result of a very careful and exhaustive survey made by members of the Metropolitan Police Department, under the direction of the major and superintendent, Henry G. Pratt, of the places in this city where arrests for violations of the gambling laws have occurred in the past year, and where it is thought violations are continuing, my office is addressing a letter to the owners of the various premises where violations have occurred, calling their attention to those sections of the code being violated and requesting their cooperation in ridding their premises of violators of the gambling laws. The attention of the property owners has likewise been

J. W. CARTER POSTS $2,000 BAIL HERE

PRATT CITES LAWS FOR ARREST BASIS

Heavy Bonds to Be Asked for Persons Taken in City Raids.

Yesterday's developments in an extensive drive on gambling, especially the game of numbers, were:

United States Attorney Leo A. Rover launched a clean-up campaign by sending letters to 289 owners of alleged gaming houses, warning them that prosecution will follow unless they rid their premises of gambling law violators.

Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, issued an order to precinct officers to demand $100 cash bond from participants in numbers games and $1,500 from operators of the gambling device.

Two defendants each forfeited $50 collateral and another was convicted in Police Court on charges of permitting gaming, viz., numbers.

John W. Carter, alleged master mind of the "numbers" game, was caught by police yesterday after a spectacular automobile chase that at times reached a speed of 85 miles an hour.

With [illegible] of Carter, whose home w[illegible]n is 1222 Girard street northwest, [illegible] Oscar Letterman, head of th[illegible] squad, declared his belief that [illegible] is on the verge of breaking up, [illegible]at is said to be the most extens[illegible]ly played gambling game in Washington.

Tipped off that Carter and an accompanying car were on their way to Ardmore, Md., Sergt. Letterman and his squad lay in wait at the end of the Pennsylvania Avenue Bridge. A second police car was planted far up on the Good Hope road hill.

Police Block Auto.

Carter espied the police before they could swing into action. He sped toward the Maryland line at a terrific rate of speed, only to have the "planted" police machine run directly across the road, effectually blocking it.

In the car with Carter were three girls, none of whom was held. All were taken to the Eleventh Precinct Station House for questioning. Carter was charged with violation of section 865 of the District of Columbia Code and was released on $2,000 bail—one of the heaviest yet required.

Police are confident they are closing in on controlling gang members. They have located a sumptuously equipped plant near Ardmore, Md., where Sergt. Letterman asserted bookkeepers, clerks and others are required to handle the business. A staff of some 40 people is employed there, police charge.

More Arrests Expected.

Identity of three others who are termed partners of Carter is known to police, and additional arrests are expected. The business, running to as high as $5,000 to $8,000 a day, is said by police to have made all the partners wealthy men.

The order to "lay low" has been passed out to subscription men, it was declared. That has stopped a large portion of the syndicate's business, most of it being now conducted on street corners, police say.

It has been the practice of the Ardmore syndicate to haul employes and valuable papers to and from the plant

GOVERNOR WITNESS IN TEXTBOOK QUIZ

ELECTION-PLEDGE ECHO

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 10 (A.P.).—For 2 hours and 40 minutes today Gov. Flem D. Sampson was questioned by the Franklin County grand jury, which for three days has been examining the affairs of the State textbook commission. When he was excused late this afternoon the governor was instructed to report at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning for further questioning.

There was understood to be a probability that the investigation would extend through Thursday. Other witnesses in addition to Gov. Sampson and the sixteen already questioned may be called.

During the morning session the jury questioned three members of the textbook commission and one representative of a publishing firm that bid on books to be adopted for use in the public schools.

In a Labor Day speech at Louisville, Gov. Sampson said "one big book company" was approaching nominees for the 1930 General Assembly in hope of "using them for corrupt purposes." He also said the same company had been trying "in the most damnable fashion to corrupt certain members of the textbook commission," and that "lobbyists of

KIDNAPED, BEATEN, SAYS 'REDS' LEADER

FREED, HE COLLAPSES

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 10 (A.P.).—Charges that he was knocked unconscious when he told one of his kidnapers "not to be ridiculous" and that a "Mr. Thompson and a Mr. Moorehead" of the Loray cotton mill were among those said to have seized him and two other men in Gastonia, were made here late today by Ben Wells, communist and organizer for the National Textile Workers Union, who was carried to a point north of Concord and flogged late last night.

Wells, a native of Great Britain, gave out a signed statement tonight. He said that at about 9:15 o'clock last night he was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Lodge, where he had been boarding, with C. M. Leil and C. D. Saylor. He said that the people in the house told him about 100 cars had just passed and that the occupants were jeering and asserting that they were going to destroy the Union Hall and then go to Bessemer City and the strikers' tent colony.

"Within a couple of minutes," he said, "a stream of cars stopped outside of the house and the occupants started marching toward the front door. We all went into the front room and sat down.

German Does 'Impossible' By Dividing Hydrogen Gas

Scientist, Who Fought for Kaiser in Front-Line Trenches, Achieves Miracle by Feat; Complete Change in Chemistry Thesis to Result.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 10 (A.P.).—Splitting of a supposedly indivisible element, hydrogen gas, in two substances was demonstrated to the American Chemical Society today.

It was called the "greatest scientific discovery of 1929" by Dr. Hugh S. Taylor, of Princeton University, chairman of the session.

Dr. K. F. Bohnhoeffer, a shy, blond young German, who was a 17-year-old infantryman in front-line trenches at the close of the World War, is the discoverer.

Dramatically he set his proof before the eyes of the chemists in a spot of light upon the wall of a University of Minnesota lecture room. Like a moving finger it wrote the forecast of a revolution in physical chemistry. This revolution was described enthusiastically by Dr. Taylor, an older man.

"It is the first tangible proof of existence in supposedly indivisible molecules of what we may call a different kind of molecule," he said. "It opens up the way to finding an entire new species of molecule. It is the first proof of something forecast mathematically by the new wave-mechanics. It means that our text books on physical chemistry will have to be rewritten."

Dr. Bohnhoeffer passed some ordinary hydrogen gas over charcoal chilled to the intense cold of liquid air. This process converted it into the new form which he called parahydrogen.

He pumped this parahydrogen over a hot wire where it interfered with the flow of heat through the wire. This heat flow was indicated by a spot of light on the wall. Next he converted some parahydrogen back into ordinary hydrogen, and when it passed over the wire the spot of light changed its position. This demonstrated, he said, that the two hydrogen gases are different physically, one making the heat flow faster than the other.

The two also have different boiling and different freezing points. But Dr. Bohnhoeffer said he has not found

Flying Police Are Sought By Whalen on Air Traffic

New York Police Commissioner Wants to Prevent Recurrence of Coney Island and Rockaway Beach Tragedies; $100,000 Is Asked.

New York, Sept. 10 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The first step in Police Commissioner Whalen's program to organize a squad of flying cops to regulate air traffic will be a request to Mayor Walker to send an emergency message to the board of estimates for an appropriation of $100,000 to purchase a number of amphibians for the new air traffic force.

In making the announcement, Commissioner Whalen said he intends to ask the mayor to hold a public hearing for enacting sky ordinances regulating flying over the metropolitan area.

"Without attempting to interfere at all with the Federal authorities," said Whalen, "we still believe that each municipality has the right to protect its women and children against the possibility of a recurrence of accidents such as happened over the week-end at Coney Island and Rockaway Beach.

"The time is coming when we will have taxi planes and 'fly-it-yourself' airplanes, and it is just as essential to have some form of municipal jurisdiction over air traffic as it is over street traffic."

District Attorney Richard S. Newcombe, of Queens, today joined the list of city officials who have come out in favor of policing the air.

Assistant District Attorney Higgins continued his investigation in Long Island City today into the crash between the seaplane and the motor boat in Jamaica Bay Sunday, killing one and seriously injuring another. Frederick Ackerleigh, of Glendale, testified that contrary to previous reports there was no fog in the bay Sunday morning, and that the visibility was about 2 miles. He said he had to go 160 feet out of his way to escape being hit by the seaplane.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

GATES OPEN TODAY AT MARLBORO FAIR

Most of Exhibits Already Placed for Exposition in Prince Georges.

COUNTY SCHOOLS START

The Marlboro fair of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Fair Association will open today at the fair grounds in Upper Marlboro with the largest array of live stock, agricultural and home exhibits in its history. The air grounds have been thoroughly renovated and the road approaching from the Marlboro pike has been improved.

Most of the exhibits are in place, with the balance to be arranged today. The office of William G. Brooke, secretary of the association, has been inundated with entries for the last several weeks and he expects the exhibits this year to be far in excess of those exhibited last year, both in quantity and quality.

The usual racing program will feature each afternoon during the five days of the fair. Three sets of the new starting stalls, which make starting much easier than the old-time tape method, will be used for the first time on a half-mile track in Maryland.

Judges have been appointed by the extension service of the University of Maryland as follows: F. W. Oldenburg, specialist in agronomy, to judge farm crops other than tobacco; K. A. Clark, live stock; W. H. Rice, poultry, and F. W. Geise, floriculturist, to judge home gardens and garden exhibits. Louis P. Ranst, of the Tobacco Growers Association, will judge the tobacco exhibits and the 4-H Boys Club teams judging contest.

Judges in the women's exhibits, to include clothing, fancy work, canned goods and general house needs, have been named by the Prince Georges County Federation of Women's Clubs on the recommendation of Miss Venia M. Kellar, of the extension service, as follows:

Miss Margaret McPhetters, nutrition specialist; Miss Catherine Cowsill, Mrs. Georgiana Linthicum, county agent of Anne Arundel County, and Miss Maude Burklin. The women's clubs are vying with each other in presenting exhibits in the general federation hall and two members from each club will remain as hostesses at their club booth each day. The federation also will have a booth for the first time this year.

While the exhibition halls are closed Wednesday for the judging of the exhibits, the federation will hold a picnic on the fair grounds, according to Mrs. Rudolph S. Allen, county president. Mrs. John Alcock, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, is expected to attend the picnic and speak.

Approximately 12,000 children yesterday forsook the delights of summer vacation and plodded their way to the goals of education in Prince Georges County to resume the study of the three Rs. An additional 1,000 are expected to report when the fall harvesting is done.

Several of the schools will suffer from overcrowded conditions for a short while until additional buildings are completed to care for the increase, especially in the Bradbury Heights and Riverdale Schools.

The county board of education will meet today at Upper Marlboro to deal with problems arising with the opening of school, one of the most important of which will be transportation. The contract for carrying children to the Surrattsville School probably will be awarded as well as several other projected bus routes.

The board also will discuss the possibility of providing free trasportation for high school children from rural sections, in order that they may receive as high a decree of education as their brothers in the urban centers. Sentiment in the county is strongly in favor of such a move, especially in the rural sections.

The board will view the several projected sites for the Bradbury Heights School and possibly will decide upon the site for the school and will confirm the recent appointments of teachers.

Another important subject to be discussed is the disposition of the issue of bonds amounting to $265,000 for school construction. The board has kept the bonds from the market because of unfavorable conditions, but is anxious to dispose of them as quickly as possible in order that construction work can be started to care for the increase in school population.

Among the projects to be financed by the issue are the following: Addition to the Riverdale Elementary School, $30,000; Hyattsville Elementary addition, $18,000; Mount Rainier High School, $90,000; Decatur Heights Junior High, $50,000; Bradbury Heights Elementary, $50,000; Cheverly-Tuxedo Elementary, 13,000; Mitchellville Colored Elementary, $4,000; Holly Grove Colored Elementary, $4,000.

The county commissioners today again will consider the application of John B. Cochrane, Washington banker, for permits to erect two signboards on his property just beyond Paint Branch Bridge, College Park, on the Baltimore Boulevard. They refused to issue the permits last week, claiming that they had been hoodwinked into granting rezoning of the property from residential to commercial.

The commissioners postponed action on the applications until today in order to confer with the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission and the counsel to the county commissioners, M. Hampton Magruder, to see if there was any way they could refuse. It is understood that the commissioners have been informed that they must grant the petition as there are no legal grounds for refusal, inasmuch as the property is zoned commercial.

The commissioners have issued an order, however, that in the future all requests for rezoning must be accompanied by a sworn statement declaring the purposes to which the property is to be put under the new classification. Cochrane filed petition for rezoning and then asked for the permits after the petition had been granted. The signs in question, however, are not exactly new signs but have been half completed, the crews working on them having been arrested in the recent campaign against the erection of signboards in residential areas.

Flower Show Arranged By Hamilton Book Club

Special to The Washington Post.

Hamilton, Va., Sept. 9.—The Hamilton Book Club will hold a flower show at the home of Mrs. J. P. Hatcher Tuesday, September 12, beginning at 2 p. m. The classes are as follows: Best collection of roses, dahlias, asters, marigolds, zinnias; best collection of mixed flowers, color scheme to count 50.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Sept. 9.—The Rev. John B. Winn, D. D., pastor of Mount Vernon Methodist Church, last night assailed the alleged bucket shop activities of "one of the highest officials of our church," and when asked today to whom he made the pulpit allusion, he said he meant Bishop James J. Cannon, jr. During the sermon no names were mentioned, but members of the congregation apparently drew their own inferences.

Dr. Winn said in part: "The fact that it has been discovered that one of the highest officials of our church has been trading extensively in the stock market; the further fact that the house with which he did his trading was an alleged bucket shop and now is under indictment in the Federal courts charged with fraudulent use of the mail, together with the extent and character of his trading, as revealed by published documentary evidence and sworn testimony, have stirred the church as few things have in its history. It is true that this official claims that he has done nothing legally or morally wrong. He says that he will ask for investigation and asks for a suspension of judgment until the investigation can be had. That request seems reasonable enough, and I am willing to abide by it.

"I am sorry, however, that after having asked for the confidence of the church until an investigation could be made, he had seen fit to flood it with an ex parte statement before the investigation has been made. I am sure the church can rest satisfied that full justice will be done, both to the man and to the church. I hope that we may wait the issue in quietness and peace."

The Rev. Dr. Winn then proceeded to draw a distinction between bucket shop speculation, buying stock on the installment plan and by outright purchase. He said gambling is nothing more than "getting something for nothing," and that it is as degenerating as any other vice.

Railroad Terminal In North End Sure

Assurance was given yesterday that a large railroad terminal for north Washington will be erected between the tracks of the Metropolitan branch of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad and Sixteenth street, and south of the new highway between Silgo and Bethesda, Md.

Railroad officials, real estate operators and county leaders interested in the development have held a number of conferences during the past few weeks and the belief was expressed that a definite announcement would soon be made. The purposed terminal would make it possible for westbound passengers and those from the West to leave the trains at this point, instead of going the remainder of the distance to the Union Station here.

Consideration also is being given to the establishment of a freight delivery terminal. These will be directly on the new highway. Plans some time ago were formulated for the construction of an industrial terminal in the area between Georgia avenue and the railroad tracks, when the section was ordered rezoned for industrial purposes, and permission granted to run certain railroad sidings across certain streets.

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., Sept. 9.—John W. Young, 75, negro, who fell dead while at work on a farm north of this city this morning, was found to have $1,059.80 in cash in a wallet in a hip pocket. Friends and employers knew he had an aversion to banks and carried his cash on his person, but it was not generally understood he had saved that much. He is also known to have carried a life insurance policy. He has no immediate survivors.

Death was due to heart failure. Young came of slave stock, his father having worked with the Porterfield, Cunningham and other old families in the section where the son died today.

LOUISIANAN TO HEAD MIDSHIPMAN CORPS

Andrew B. Jackson, Jr., Will Be Regimental Leader at Annapolis.

CAPITAL YOUTH HONORED

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 9.—A Louisianan will have the honor of leading the regiment of midshipmen during the coming academic term. He is Andrew B. Jackson, jr., of Baton Rouge. His appointment as regimental commander has just been announced by Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robison, superintendent of the Naval Academy, along with the rest of the organization of the regiment. Jackson is among the "star" members of the class of 1930 in scholastic work. He is a member of the Fourth Company.

The ranking regimental staff officers are:

Subcommander, William C. Ennis, Lansing, Mich.; lieutenant and adjutant, Donald W. Gladney, jr., Louisville, Ark.; lieutenant and signal officer, Lieut. Ensey, Jacksonville, Fla.; lieutenant and commissary, Richard D. C. Hunt, jr., Pennsylvania.

First battalion—W. E. Gentner, San Pedro, Calif., and L. S. Mulit, San Francisco.

Second battalion—P. Moret, Jackson, Mich., and David L. Whelchel, Washington, D. C.

Fourth battalion—J. S. Dorsey, Jacksonville, Fla.; R. L. Moore, jr., Jessup, Md.

The eight midshipmen lieutenants who will command the respective companies are:

Of the appointees several are outstanding in scholastic work and have demonstrated their prowess in one or more branches of athletics. Gentner is captain and center fielder of the baseball team; Moret is end on the football team and a heavyweight boxer.

Dave Whelchel, Washington boy, was quarter back of last year's football team, but is ineligible this year because of the three-year rule. Peterson is a back field man on this year's squad.

Officers Reelected By Lincoln W. C. T. U.

Special to The Washington Post.

Lincoln, Va., Sept. 9.—The annual election of officers of the Lincoln W. C. T. U. resulted in the reelection of Mrs. Howard M. Hoge, president; Miss Mozelle Breckenridge, vice president; Miss Elizabeth Nichols, corresponding secretary; Miss Laura Gregg, recording secretary, and Mrs. Mabel A. Taylor, treasurer.

Miss Mozelle Breckenridge, Mrs. Mabel A. Taylor, Mrs. Bertha Brown and Mrs. Mary S. Nichols were elected delegates to the convention to be held in Charlottesville. Plans were made for a visit from Mrs. Howland and for a reception to the teachers to be held October 4.

Rain Checks Drought That Menaced Crops

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Sept. 9.—Rains today and late yesterday broke a drought which had become menacing to farm and orchard crops in the Shenandoah Valley, but farmers and fruit growers said much more rain was needed to materially benefit vegetation. Many already have cut dried-up corn stalks to use them for fodder, as corn ears were too small to mature.

Commercial apple orchards are showing the effects of the long drought with undersized fruit and some varieties lacking proper color. Only one and nine-tenths inches of rain fell in August, compared with an August average of 3½ inches.

Apartment hunting is far from a pleasant task. Why not look in the classified columns of The Washington Post. Perhaps the very place you are looking for is advertised today.

TREND TO STANDARD VOCATIONS IS SEEN

MANY STILL UNDECIDED

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Sept. 9.—A definite trend toward vocational standardization is evidenced in a comparison of the occupations of the parents of University of Virginia students in the 1928-29 session with the chosen fields of work held in view by the students themselves, according to statistics compiled by Miss Virginia E. Moran, registrar, and made public today.

Registration data show that the parents represent 91 vocations, while the student body expresses a preference for only 51. This information was gathered from the registration of 2,166 students. Of this number, 1,863 have definitely chosen a field of work, 60 are still undecided, and 243 gave no choice.

In keeping with the Jeffersonian ideals of the institution, the survey shows, the student body represents almost every social and economic level; parents are politicians and plumbers, college presidents and barbers, authors and blacksmiths, capitalists and caretakers, diplomats and farmers. The report indicates that a minority of the student body will represent fields almost as varied, but the majority will become lawyers, doctors, teachers, or business men. Yet, a few hope to be farmers, journalists, missionaries, housewives, tobacconists and writers.

Merchants, lawyers, physicians and farmers, in the order named, represent the majority of parents. Of these, 160 are farmers, but the report discloses that in the student body only two expressed a desire to follow agricultural pursuits. On the other hand, 177 of the parents are lawyers, while 545 of the students intend to become barristers.

Following are the fields of work chosen by the student body: Accountancy and auditing 18, advertising 4, architecture 62, art 3, aviation 4, banking 27, biologist 1, broker 13, builder-contractor 4, business 133, chemist 31, commerce 15, cruising 1, dentist 6, diplomatic service 11, dramatic work 5, engineering 66, aeronautical engineering 1, chemical engineering 25, civil engineering 19, electrical engineering 36, mechanical engineering 10, mining engineering 3, farming 2, forestry 1, geologist 8, hotel business 2, housewife 1, insurance 5, journalism 30, library work 2, lumber business 1, manufacturing 12, merchant 10, ministry 25, missionary 1, nursing 2, pharmacy 1, law 545, rancher 3, railroading 4, real estate 4, salesman 1, scientific research 13, social service work 5, steel business 1, surgery and medicine 453, teaching 214, textile business 4, tobacconist 2, traffic 1, writing 12, undecided 60, information lacking 243.

Culpeper Schools Reopen Thursday

County Teachers' Institute Will Hold Sessions Tomorrow Morning.

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpeper, Va., Sept. 9.—The public schools of Culpeper County will open Thursday morning. The teachers institute will be held at Culpeper High School building on Wednesday morning. At the morning session will be discussed public school music and opportunities through extension work. Vaccination requirements also will be a subject later. The County Education Association will hold its session.

The public school enrollment in the county for this session will be 2,700. All of the schoolhouses have been freshened with whitewash or paint.

Maryland Woman, 55, Buried in Baltimore

Special to The Washington Post.

Betterton, Md., Sept. 9.—The funeral of Miss Lydia Bond, 55, who died near here yesterday at the home of her sister, Mrs. Eugene Boniwill, was held in Baltimore this afternoon at the home of her brother, Emory Boniwill.

She had made her home here for the last several years and has no other surviving relatives.

New Rural Supervision Takes Post in Loudoun

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., Sept. 9.—Miss Harriett Wharton, of North Carolina, has arrived in Loudoun to assume the duties of rural supervisor for the public schools of this county. Last year Miss Wharton held a similar position in Bedford County, Va.

She succeeds Mrs. Hannah T. Harbert, who has retired from work in the public schools.

Plowing to Kill Wild Garlic Urged

System Must Be Followed Three Years for Results, Says Department.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 9 (A. P.).—Timely plowing late each fall and again early in the spring, followed by the growing of thoroughly cultivated row crops, are essential steps in the so-called cultural method of controlling wild garlic, says the Department of Agriculture. In most places this system must be followed for at least three years in order to obtain a satisfactory clean-up of the weed.

Grazing with livestock, especially sheep, for several seasons, as closely as may be safe without serious injury to the pasture, aids in keeping down the growth of garlic in steep, rocky, or wooded pastures that cannot be plowed.

When dairy cows are pastured in garlicky fields, it is necessary to remove them from the pasture four to seven hours before milking to eliminate entirely the garlic flavor and odor from the milk. Milk cows should not be turned into such pastures in the spring until suitable forage plants are large enough to furnish good grazing, it is stated in a department leaflet on the subject.

FREDERICK IS HOST TO STATE DENTISTS

Extensive Sports Program Arranged to Amuse Delegates.

CLINICS ARE CONDUCTED

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., Sept. 9.—The sixth semiannual meeting of the Maryland State Dental Association convened at the Francis Scott Key Hotel today and will remain in session two days. About 100 dentists, many accompanied by their wives and guests including members of the Washington, D. C. Dental Association, are registered.

The first business meeting was held at 9 o'clock this morning presided over by Dr. Wiley W. Smith, Baltimore, president. After invocation by Dr. G. Ellis Williams, pastor of Calvary Methodist Episcopal Church, an address of welcome was made by Dr. A. Atlee Radcliff, president of the Frederick Society, with response by Dr. V. B. Ames, Baltimore, vice president of the Maryland Association.

Clinics Are Held.

Following a meeting of the board of governors in the afternoon, clinics were held under the direction of Dr. Trail, Dr. Farinhold, Dr. Watkins and Dr. Heintz. Dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock and a dance followed in the ballroom.

Entertainment for the women this afternoon included an automobile sight-seeing tour to the home of Barbara Fritchie; monument and grave of Francis Scott Key, author of the "Star-Spangled Banner" in Mount Olivet Cemetery; Hood College; Braddock Heights, and other points of interest, followed by a tea at the home of Mrs. Radcliff. Tomorrow afternoon the women will be given a luncheon and bridge party at the Peter Pan Inn near this city.

An extensive program of sports has been arranged for tomorrow, including the annual tennis tournament for which the association offers a trophy. The sixth annual 36-hole golf tournament for which a trophy is also offered and the county society offers a prize for the low net score, will be played on the links of the Catoctin Country Club.

Trap Shooting Contest.

A trap shooting contest will take place on the Orth farm. Prizes are offered by Admiral Schley Chapter Nimrods of America and the County Society.

Officers of the association are Wiley W. Smith, Baltimore, president; Dr. Karl P. Heintz, Cumberland, president-elect; Dr. V. B. Ames, Baltimore, vice president; Dr. Norval H. McDonald, Baltimore, secretary; Dr. Walter T. Green, Baltimore, treasurer, and Dr. M. S. Aisenberg, Baltimore, editor.

Col. Porter to Be Unopposed.

Orange, Va., Sept. 9 (Special).—Col. Daniel L. Porter, candidate for reelection to the House of Delegates from Orange and Madison Counties, will be unopposed in the general election this fall, no other candidate having qualified through Friday, the last day for filing notice of candidacy.

Baptists to Meet In Sussex County

Petersburg Association to Hold Two-Day Session at Antioch Church.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., Sept. 9.—The twenty-third annual convention of the Petersburg Baptist Association, which is composed of the Baptist Churches of Petersburg, Hopewell and the counties of Southside, Va., will convene for a two-day session Wednesday at Antioch Baptist Church in Sussex County, and is expected will draw a large attendance. D. T. Gornto, of Hopewell, will present the report on missions and the Rev. W. S. Leake, pastor of the First Baptist Church at Hopewell, will deliver an address on "The Relief and Annuity Board."

The first meeting of the association was held at Antioch Baptist Church in 1907. At that time 24 churches with a membership of 3,492 composed the association. At the meeting last year 34 churches, with a combined membership of 7,053, were reported members to the association.

Before 1907 the Petersburg district was affiliated with the Portsmouth association but at the annual meeting held in 1906 the association was divided into two separate organizations.

Lightning Destroys Barn on Stud Farm

Special to The Washington Post.

Berryville, Va., Sept. 9.—Yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock lightning struck and destroyed the 12-stall brood mare barn at Page Brook, Capt. P. M. Walker's thoroughbred stud farm in Clarke County, killing one mare and two foals. The other 11 mares, with their foals, were led to safety by George Pollard, who was in charge of that barn. No fire company was called, as it burned so quickly, owing to the extreme dryness. The building was partially insured.

Capt. Walker is the pioneer thoroughbred race horse breeder of Clarke County, having started his stud farm in a small way some years ago, soon after resigning from the Army.

Negro Death Rate Twice White Total

Disparity in Races Shown by Virginia Health Department.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 9 (A.P.).—The disparity between the birth and death rates for white and negro citizens of Virginia continues, according to the current report of the State Health Department now being prepared for publication.

"The birth rates are fast approaching a parity, while death rates continue widely apart," says the report. "In 1928, for the first time, the difference between the birth rates for white and colored was less than two per cent per thousand—21.3 for whites and 23.31 for colored.

"For the same year the death rates were 9.89 for whites and 18.50 for negroes.

"Last year we had 37 less deaths from pulmonary tuberculosis than we had in the preceding year, but the decline was not uniform. Forty-seven less white citizens died, but there were ten more colored victims. Since the State makes no discrimination in the service it gives this condition is stranger."

School Need Seen In Charlottesville

Heavy Enrollment Marks Second Week of New Term.

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Sept 9.—The public schools of the city started upon their second week with a largely increased enrollment at several of the buildings. The enrollment by departments and buildings is as follows: High school departments at Midway, 563; grammar grades at Midway, 486; McGuffey School, 795; Venable School, 705; total in white schools 2,549; total in colored schools, 841; total in all schools, 3,390. Total increase in all schools over last year, 148.

The need of another school building to relieve the distressing conditions at Midway School and to ease up the strain on McGuffey School, is one of the outstanding problems confronting the school board, the city council and the people. Some definite steps must be taken to give relief to a situation that grows more serious every year. The increased enrollment in the city schools must be taken care of or Charlottesville will rapidly lose her prestige in the quality of instruction given her children.

ORANGE FAIR LISTS ARE NOW OFF PRESS

EVENT IS RATED HIGH

Special to The Washington Post.

Orange, Va., Sept. 9.—The official catalogue of the nineteenth annual exhibition of the Orange County Fair Association, now the recognized district fair of Orange, Louisa, Madison, Greene and parts of Albemarle, Culpeper and Spotsylvania Counties, is just off the press and will be distributed within the next week or ten days.

The exhibit will be held on the fair grounds just outside the corporate limits of Orange, adjoining the Horse Show Grounds, October 22-25, inclusive.

The Orange County Fair, from an exhibit standpoint, probably heads the list of Virginia county fairs and by many is considered in quality of exhibits to be equal to the State fair.

The Industrial Building houses 43 commercial exhibits and a large dance floor, something distinctly different in county fairs, being the only one in Virginia.

Officers of Association.

Its board of directors, composed of some of the county's most substantial citizens, follows: J. W. Dulin, C. I. Brown, W. C. Williams, E. M. Harnsberger, Mrs. T. H. Somerville, E. E. Wambersie, J. F. Vanderhoof, B. F. Selby, jr., H. O. Lyne, F. J. Coleman, R. A. Graves, C. T. Neale, W. L. Bradbury, R. G. Cowherd, A. C. Wambersie, R. D. Stewart, E. V. Huffman, Mrs. A. T. Burgess, F. S. Two Youths Face Mann Act Counts

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Sept. 9.—The Federal Grand Jury here this afternoon returned indictments against Ernest Neff and Taylor Mosley, Danville youths, under the Mann act. They are accused by Martha Lee Gardner, 18, of Baltimore, and Kathleen Vaughan, 16, of Clarksville, both students at Everett College, who claim to have been kidnaped from the college last May.

When the girls entered the grand jury room to relate their experiences, they found that three of the grand jurors were negroes.

The youths are under bonds of $1,000 each for appearance. District Attorney Lee Paul said the cases probably would be reached on Wednesday.

One of the indictments returned today was against G. W. Todd, of Grayson County, described as a notary public, who is charged with accepting a fee of $10 for service in aiding a World War veteran to secure Government compensation. The offense is punishable by fine or jail.

Hartman Quits Martinsburg "Y."

Martinsburg, W. Va., Sept. 9 (Special).—Frank G. Hartman, of Lancaster, Pa., has resigned as boys' secretary at the Y. M. C. A. here, to become associated with the Pennsylvania State Highway Department. No successor has been named.

New Rockville Police Justice Is Held Ineligible to Fill Two Posts.

BOND ISSUE IS PRINTED

The resignation as counsel to the Montgomery County commissioners of the law firm of Woodward and Cissel, of Rockville, is expected to be presented at the meeting of the county commissioners today in Rockville courthouse. Charles W. Woodward, a member of the firm, has been appointed police justice at Rockville Police Court and is ineligible to continue to serve as counsel.

It is expected that the resignation will be accepted after which Capt. Joseph C. Cissel will be reappointed as counsel to the commissioners. Capt. Woodward probably will present his credentials today and be sworn in by the clerk of the Circuit Court, Preston B. Ray.

The bond issue for school construction in the county amounting to $336,000, which has been sold to the National City Co., of New York City, has been printed and delivered to Berry E. Clark, clerk to the county commissioners. Dr. Benjamin C. Perry, president of the board, and Mr. Clark will sign the bonds today, preparatory to turning them over to the successful bidders.

The school teachers of Montgomery County met yesterday at Rockville High School for the annual organization meeting in preparation for the opening of schools. The white schools will open tomorrow and the colored schools will open today.

Superintendent of Schools Edwin W. Broom was in charge of both the white and colored meetings. Assisting at the meeting of the white teachers were the county supervisors, Thomas W. Croxall, Miss Huldah Brust, Miss Kristine Nillson and Miss Elizabeth Meany. Edward Taylor, supervisor of colored schools, assisted at the other meeting.

Funeral services for Mrs. Eliza V. Harris, widow of John Henry Harris, of Rockville, who died Sunday at the Sandy Spring General Hospital, will be held this afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Harris at Olney. Burial will be in Rockville Union Cemetery.

Mrs. Harris was 79 years old. She was formerly a Miss Shaw and had been a lifelong resident of Rockville and vicinity. She is survived by two sons, Eugene Harris, of Olney, and Raymond Harris, of Washington, and a brother, George Shaw, of Rockville.

The county commissioners will receive bids today for improvements in the Silver Spring area. They include the paving of Grove street for a distance of three blocks; paving of one block of Easly street, between Grove and Fenton streets, and two blocks of sidewalk on Silver Spring avenue.

WELFARE BODY ASKS NEW QUIZ AT GALLINGER

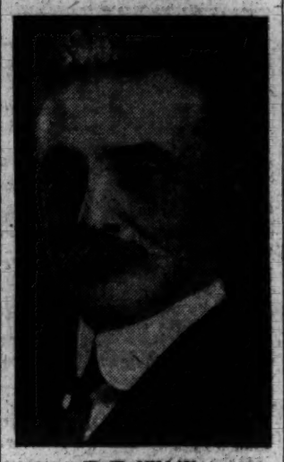
DISTRICT OFFICIALS ARE QUITE SATISFIED

Regard Hospital as Having Clean Slate, Taliaferro Tells Questioner.



W. W. MILLAN.

The Board of Public Welfare submitted its final report on conditions at Gallinger Municipal Hospital to the District Commissioners yesterday, after an investigation lasting three weeks, during which about 70 witnesses were interrogated.

As predicted in The Post, the report, signed by John Joy Edson, chairman, was a complete exoneration for the institution, practically all of the charges made by The Post, Judge Kathryn Sellers, of Juvenile Court, and other critics being denied flatly.

The report has been accepted without question by the Commissioners, and so far as they are concerned Gallinger has a clean slate and the investigation is ended and closed, it was stated by Commissioner Sidney P. Taliaferro.

No Action Planned.

Asked what action, if any, the Commissioners might take with regard to Gallinger, Commissioner Taliaferro said:

"We do not plan to take any action. The report speaks for itself; we think it is a very good report, and accept it as such."

In its report the committee stated that it has addressed letters to the surgeon general of the Army, the surgeon general of the Navy, the surgeon general of the Public Health Service and the superintendent of St. Elizabeth's Hospital, requesting each of these officials to designate an officer of high rank to form a committee for the purpose of making an examination and inspection of the equipment and conduct of the hospital, [illegible] view to having a report from competent experts not in any way connected with the administration of the hospital or with the District government.

Report as Made by Board.

Following is the report in full as submitted by the Board of Public Welfare to the District Commissioners:

To the Honorable, the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia:

Recently there appeared in one or more newspapers of the City of Washington articles containing certain statements alleged to have been made by the judge of the Juvenile Court of the District of Columbia, from the bench, severely criticizing Gallinger Hospital, particularly with reference to certain specified cases, and avowing it to be the purpose of the judge to send no more wards of that court to said hospital under any circumstances.

About the same time there appeared in one of said newspapers a series of articles, in which a reporter of said paper, who had obtained admission to the psychopathic department of the hospital by feigning amnesia, gave a detailed account of what purported to be his experiences, observations and treatment while an inmate, which account was likewise severely critical.

Board Controls Hospital.

Gallinger Hospital is one of the institutions under the control of the Board of Public Welfare, and the board, because of the gravity of the charges, and, especially because of the high source from which the first-mentioned criticisms emanated, at once took up the question of an investigation of the hospital in all its departments. It was decided to make such investigation and the committee on medical service was directed to take up the task for the board. It should be stated here, for information, that the extended character of the board's duties makes it imperative to operate through committees. Each member of the board serves on at least two committees. The committee on medical service has for its chairman, one of the medical members of the board. One of the regular members of the committee has been absent from the city during the entire period of the investigation. His place was filled by appointment of the other medical member of the board. The vice chairman, not a regular member, was directed to assist the committee. The investigation has thus been conducted by

$200,000 JAIL THEFT CHARGED BY COUNT

DEPORTATION IS FOUGHT

New York, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—Count Albert Sichofsky, Polish adventurer, today obtained a writ of habeas corpus in an effort to gain release from Ellis Island, where he is held for deportation, and go back to California and prosecute claims for more than $200,000, of which he charges he was deprived while under investigation and in prison there for the last nine years.

In support of his application for a writ, the count through his attorney made sensational charges against the district attorney's and sheriff's offices in Los Angeles and against one whom he described as "a Mr. Gannon, warden of Folsom Prison."

The count charges that on Gannon's advice while in Folsom Prison he paid out $16,880, which he was informed was the verdict and costs of a civil action against him, and that subsequently he found out that $12,880 of it went to Gannon.

Count Sichofsky knew of the plaintiff in the civil action only as "a Mr. Emanuel" and never found out what the suit was all about or why it was brought against him.

The count also, his attorney said, charges that after a Sacramento newspaperman had interested himself in his behalf, he was spirited out of Folsom Prison several days before his sentence expired last June, taken in an automobile under guard and incommunicado to San Francisco, and placed aboard a train for Ellis Island.

Count Sichofsky, an internationally known gambler, regarded by the United States Labor Department as one of the most dangerous criminals who ever entered this country, according to his attorney, further charges that the district attorney's office in Los Angeles owes him $14,021.22.

Of this the attorney, William Owen Van Keegan, said the district attorney's office took away $4,200 from him when he was first arrested there on an embezzlement charge in November, 1920. The rest of the $14,021.22, the count charges, was with-

Naval Committee Plans Inquiry Into Work of Shearer.

PRESIDENT'S VIEWS ACCORDED SUPPORT

SHIPBUILDERS HIT BY IDAHO SENATOR

Alleges Geneva Activity Was Prejudicial to United States Interests.

(Associated Press.)

Supported by President Hoover, the Senate naval committee moved yesterday to sift to the bottom reports and charges that propogandists and American shipbuilding corporations had sought to influence the trend of the unsuccessful 1927 Geneva naval limitations conference.

The decision of the committee was unanimous. At the White House subsequently the President publicly announced that the use of propaganda to obstruct the administration's program for naval limitation was "so obviously evident" as to necessitate an inquiry into this matter.

Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, who first called attention of the Senate to a statement by William B. Shearer, self-styled naval expert, that he had represented American ship builders at the Geneva fiasco, took a leading part in bringing about the committee action.

Borah a Witness.

Appearing as a witness, he said the activities of Shearer at Geneva in behalf of the ship builders amounted to a "criminal conspiracy against the interests of the people of the United States and the Government."

Later, the Idaho senator introduced a resolution to carry out the committee's decision. This is expected to be approved by the Senate prior to another committee meeting called for Monday.

The resolution was prefaced by two declarations. One was that Shearer had filed suit against "certain shipbuilding corporations, alleging services rendered" at Geneva, and the other said that some of the companies "have been seeking, or have secured, contracts with the Government of the United States for building certain vessels, or ships, to be used by the American Navy."

All Will Be Called.

Chairman Hale and Borah both expressed a belief that Shearer, representative of the shipbuilders, and American naval officials would be called for testimony.

At the White House, the President's comment on the situation was made at the customary Tuesday press conference. Later, a transcript of his remarks was issued. It read:

"The disclosure of interference with and propaganda against the efforts of the Government in its negotiations of international agreement for reduction of naval armament are already so evident as to require that these matters should be gone into to the very bottom."

Earlier the White House made public a letter from E. G. Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel Corpora-

M'DONALD TO COME TO U. S. OCTOBER 4

Definite Date Is Fixed for British Premier's Visit on Arms Cut.

MAY ADDRESS CONGRESS

New York, Sept. 10 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Ramsay MacDonald, prime minister of Great Britain, will arrive in the United States October 4 to confer with President Hoover on disarmament and to decide upon the program and problems to be considered at the disarmament conference tentatively scheduled to be held in London next December.

All arrangements for the visit of the British premier have been completed by his principal private secretary, Sir Robert Vansittart, who is returning to London tomorrow on the steamship Aquitania.

The premier will be accompanied by his daughter and official hostess, Miss Ishbel MacDonald. They will occupy the Prince of Wales' suite on the Berengaria, and on their arrival will be met by representatives of President Hoover, who will escort them to Washington.

Highest official honors will be accorded the visiting British statesman. Details of the arrangements have not been made public, but it is believed an invitation will be extended to him to address Congress after his conferences with the President. Precedent for this is found in the speech several years ago of Lord Balfour, who was accorded the privilege.

Arrangements for the visit of the premier have been conducted with the greatest privacy. Sir Vansittart arrived here ten days ago on the Mauretania. He went at once to the British Embassy in Washington to make the necessary arrangements with White House officials.

As principal private secretary to the prime minister, Sir Robert never gives interviews or makes public statements. He was not available to newspaper men tonight and final details of the plans for the forthcoming visit will not be given out officially until he has reported privately to the prime minister.

It is believed in official circles, however, that President Hoover has conveyed through him an invitation to the prime minister to be a guest at the White House during his stay in Washington. The premier may accept this invitation or may choose to live at the British Embassy as the guest of Sir Esme Howard.

Many Messages Exchanged.

The visit of the principal private secretary was preceded by a long series of private exchanges between Washington and London. His visit served to confirm the arrangements discussed in these exchanges and to make known the personal wishes of the prime minister as to them.

London, Sept. 10 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The premier's secretary would not say definitely today whether or not MacDonald would sail for the United States September 28 on the Berengaria. He admitted that provisional arrangements had been made, because if the premier decided to go at the last moment it would be necessary to have made the reservations for himself and his daughter, Isbel, in advance on account of the heavy tourist travel at this time of year.

There is reason to believe that the United States is still hoping Britain will cut her cruiser strength below the figure of 340,000 tons, which MacDonald has set as the minimum.

Relative Failure Hinted.

Unless Britain makes further reductions it is probable Dawes will tell MacDonald that the United States will have to build all fifteen of the cruisers now authorized, and that American opinion would regard this situation as a relative failure in view of Hoover's insistence on not mere limitation but reduction.

MacDonald is likely to reply to Dawes, if he has not already done so, that he has already driven the board of admiralty to the verge of resignation and that to push reduction too far would be to court disaster in Parliament and in the country. Although there are other considerations the question boils itself down to whether the United States will build five cruisers or Britain scrap five. If the cruiser question remains unsettled beyond the first of next month MacDonald will not go, because he is unwilling to permit Parliament to reassemble on October 28 without being on the front porch.

RANKS OF G.O.P. ARE BROKEN IN TEST ON TARIFF

VOTE RUNS 51 TO 27 ON HIS RESOLUTION

Disposition on Norris' Move for Vare Case Action Now Awaited.

REPUBLICANS SEEK DELAY ON MATTER

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The Senate Democratic-Progressive coalition broke into the ranks of the regular Republicans yesterday in the first skirmish on the tariff when the Simmons resolution to make incometax returns public in connection with the tariff discussion was adopted, 51 to 27. The regulars were able to hold only the hidebound members of their group, such conservatives as Senators Glenn, of Illinois; Capper, of Kansas, and Jones, assistant leader, voting with the coalition.

Those voting for the Simmons resolution were:

Voting Against 17.

Again the resolution:

Republicans—Allen, Bingham, Dale, Edge, Fess, Gillett, Goff, Goldsborough, Gould, Greene, Hale, Hastings, Hatfield, Hebert, Kean, Keyes, Metcalf, Moses, Patterson, Phipps, Shortridge, Smoot, Townsend, Walcott, Warren, Waterman, and Watson.—27.

Democrats—None.

With the resolution disposed of, the tariff was laid aside until the disposition of Senator Norris' move to take up the case of Senator-elect Vare, of Pennsylvania. The impression was given by the some two hours' debate on this that it is entirely within the generosity of Senator Norris whether there is to be a showdown on this question now or not.

Senator Watson, the Republican leader, moved that the Vare case be deferred until the December session. He pleaded Vare's illness, the fact that the President called the extra session for the tariff and asserted that the Waterman committee which heard the contest against Vare, brought by W. B. Wilson, would report in two or three weeks.

Reed Makes Appeal.

There were some indications after Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, had made an emotional appeal to Norris' sympathy, his most vulnerable spot, that the Nebraskan was weakening, at least to a postponement of a week or so, a delay that would encompass the election in Philadelphia Tuesday, when it will be determined whether Vare is to remain as boss or be shorn of his power.

The Simmons resolution provides that either the majority or minority members of the finance committee may call upon the Treasury for tax returns of any one concerned in the tariff. As amended by Senator Blaine, of Wisconsin, the profits of a company, its losses, wages, officers' salaries, cost of production and other related information would be available. Senator Couzens, of Michigan, amended the resolution to embrace the returns of importers.

The vote can not be taken as the line-up on the rates of the bill, but it does show how badly the Republican ranks are split.

Blow at Tariff Denied.

Proponents of the resolution devoted their speaking time to denying charges of Republican leaders that it was intended to kill the tariff bill. They gave assurances that the publicity privilege would not be abused but would only be used when necessary in connection with discussions of whether a rate should be increased or lowered.

Senator Harrison, of Mississippi, asserting that no injustice was intended to any corporation, declared that the country was tired of the "secrecy" with which the House bill was prepared. He again demanded that the votes of the finance committee be made public.

"They won't look as well to some of you when some of these rates are

United States Attorney Sends Letters to Landlords of Suspected Places Listed In Police Survey; Camalier to Head Campaign.

A sweeping campaign against gambling in the District of Columbia was launched yesterday by United States Attorney Leo A. Rover.

The campaign, expected to be far-reaching in scope and result, has been placed under the direction of Assistant United States Attorney Renah F. Camalier, who, while assigned to the Police Court, made a record in prosecution of prohibition law cases.

Camalier was transferred last week from the Police Court to the District Supreme Court, and the gambling campaign assignment is the first intimation as to his new duties.

Rover, in a statement, declared the campaign has been launched with the dispatch of letters to 289 owners of premises where gaming is alleged, threatening them with prosecution unless they rid their premises of the violators of the gambling laws. The United States attorney calls attention to District laws which provide penalties for persons conniving at an offense or aiding and abetting the violator.

The campaign has been under way for some time and is not a result of criticism directed at the United States attorney's office by Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police. In fact, the crusade has been under way for several months and is being carried on with the full cooperation of the Police Department. Rover several months ago called on the police to furnish his office with addresses of premises where numbers games and other gaming activities were carried on.

This list has been furnished to him, after a careful and exhaustive survey by the police, and as a result the letters now are going out from the United States attorney's office.

Rover's statement follows:

"As a result of a very careful and exhaustive survey made by members of the Metropolitan Police Department, under the direction of the major and superintendent, Henry G. Pratt, of the places in this city where arrests for violations of the gambling laws have occurred in the past year, and where it is thought violations are continuing, my office is addressing a letter to the owners of the various premises where violations have occurred, calling their attention to those sections of the code being violated and requesting their cooperation in ridding their premises of violators of the gambling laws. The attention of the property owners has likewise been

J. W. CARTER POSTS $2,000 BAIL HERE

PRATT CITES LAWS FOR ARREST BASIS

Heavy Bonds to Be Asked for Persons Taken in City Raids.

Yesterday's developments in an intensive drive on gambling, especially the game of numbers, were:

United States Attorney Leo A. Rover launched a clean-up campaign by sending letters to 289 owners of alleged gaming houses, warning them that prosecution will follow unless they rid their premises of gambling law violators.

Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, issued an order to precinct officers to demand $100 cash bond from participants in numbers games and $1,500 from operators of the gambling device.

Two defendants each forfeited $50 collateral and another was convicted in Police Court on charges of permitting gaming, etc., numbers.

John W. Carter, alleged master mind of the "numbers" game, was caught by police yesterday after a spectacular automobile chase that at times reached a speed of 85 miles an hour.

With the arrest of Carter, whose home was given as 1222 Girard street northwest, Sergt. Oscar Letterman, head of the vice squad, declared his belief that he is on the verge of breaking up what is said to be the most extensively played gambling game in Washington.

Tipped off that Carter and an accompanying car were on their way to Ardmore, Md., Sergt. Letterman and his squad lay in wait at the end of the Pennsylvania Avenue Bridge. A second police car was planted far up on the Good Hope road hill.

Police Block Auto.

Carter espied the police before they could swing into action. He sped toward the Maryland line at a terrific rate of speed, only to have the "planted" police machine run directly across the road, effectualy blocking it.

In the car with Carter were three girls, none of whom was held. All were taken to the Eleventh Precinct Station House for questioning. Carter was charged with violation of section 865 of the District of Columbia Code and was released on $2,000 bail —one of the heaviest yet required.

Police are confident they are closing in on controlling gang members. They have located a sumptuously equipped plant near Ardmore, Md., where Sergt. Letterman asserted bookkeepers, clerks and others are required to handle the business. A staff of some 40 people is employed there, police charge.

More Arrests Expected.

Identity of three others who are termed partners of Carter is known to police, and additional arrests are expected. The business, running to as high as $5,000 to $8,000 a day, is said by police to have made all the partners wealthy men.

The order to "lay low" has been passed out to subscription men, it was declared. That has stopped a large portion of the syndicate's business, most of it being now conducted on street corners, police say.

It has been the practice of the Ardmore syndicate to haul employes and valuable papers to and from the plant

GOVERNOR WITNESS IN TEXTBOOK QUIZ

ELECTION-PLEDGE ECHO

Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 10 (A.P.).—For 2 hours and 40 minutes today Gov. Flem D. Sampson was questioned by the Franklin County grand jury, which for three days has been examining the affairs of the State textbook commission. When he was excused late this afternoon the governor was instructed to report at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning for further questioning.

There was understood to be a probability that the investigation would extend through Thursday. Other witnesses in addition to Gov. Sampson and the sixteen already questioned may be called.

During the morning session the jury questioned three members of the textbook commission and one representative of a publishing firm that bid on books to be adopted for use in the public schools.

In a Labor Day speech at Louisville, Gov. Sampson said "one big book company" was approaching nominees for the 1930 General Assembly in hope of "using them for corrupt purposes." He also said the same company had been trying "in the most damnable fashion to corrupt certain members of the textbook commission," and that "lobbyists of

FREED, HE COLLAPSES

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 10 (A.P.).—Charges that he was knocked unconscious when he told one of his kidnapers "not to be ridiculous" and that a "Mr. Thompson and a Mr. Moorehead" of the Loray cotton mill were among those said to have seized him and two other men in Gastonia, were made here late today by Ben Wells, communist and organizer for the National Textile Workers Union, who was carried to a point north of Concord and flogged late last night.

Wells, a native of Great Britain, gave out a signed statement tonight. He said that at about 9:15 o'clock last night he was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Lodge, where he had been boarding, with C. M. Lell and C. D. Saylor. He said that the people in the house told him about 100 cars had just passed and that the occupants were jeering and asserting that they were going to destroy the Union Hall and then go to Bessemer City and the strikers' tent colony.

"Within a couple of minutes," he said, "a stream of cars stopped outside of the house and the occupants started marching toward the front door. We all went into the front room and sat down.

German Does 'Impossible' By Dividing Hydrogen Gas

Scientist, Who Fought for Kaiser in Front-Line Trenches, Achieves Miracle by Feat; Complete Change in Chemistry Thesis to Result.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 10 (A.P.).—Splitting of a supposedly indivisible element, hydrogen gas, in two substances was demonstrated to the American Chemical Society today.

It was called the "greatest scientific discovery of 1929" by Dr. Hugh S. Taylor, of Princeton University, chairman of the session.

Dr. K. F. Bonnhoeffer, a shy, blond young German, who was a 17-year-old infantryman in front-line trenches at the close of the World War, is the discoverer.

Dramatically he set his proof before the eyes of the chemists in a spot of light upon the wall of a University of Minnesota lecture room. Like a moving finger it wrote the forecast of a revolution in physical chemistry. This revolution was described enthusiastically by Dr. Taylor, an older man.

"It is the first tangible proof of existence in supposedly indivisible molecules of what we may call a different kind of molecule," he said. "It opens up the way to finding an entire new species of molecule. It is the first proof of something forecast mathematically by the new wave-mechanics. It means that our text books on physical chemistry will have to be rewritten."

Dr. Bonnhoeffer passed some ordinary hydrogen gas over charcoal chilled to the intense cold of liquid air. This process converted it into the new form which he called parahydrogen.

He pumped this parahydrogen over a hot wire where it interfered with the flow of heat through the wire. This heat flow was indicated by a spot of light on the wall. Next he converted some parahydrogen back into ordinary hydrogen, and when it passed over the wire the spot of light changed its position. This demonstrated, he said, that the two hydrogen gases are different physically, one making the heat flow faster than the other.

The two also have different boiling and different freezing points. But Dr. Bonnhoeffer said he has not found

Flying Police Are Sought By Whalen on Air Traffic

New York Police Commissioner Wants to Prevent Recurrence of Coney Island and Rockaway Beach Tragedies; $100,000 Is Asked.

New York, Sept. 10 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The first step in Police Commissioner Whalen's program to organize a squad of flying cops to regulate air traffic will be a request to Mayor Walker to send an emergency message to the board of estimates for an appropriation of $100,000 to purchase a number of amphibians for the new air traffic force.

In making the announcement, Commissioner Whalen said he intends to ask the mayor to hold a public hearing for enacting sky ordinances regulating flying over the metropolitan area.

"Without attempting to interfere at all with the Federal authorities," said Whalen, "we still believe that each municipality has the right to protect its women and children against the possibility of a recurrence of accidents such as happened over the week-end at Coney Island and Rockaway Beach.

"The time is coming when we will have taxi planes and 'fly-it-yourself' airplanes, and it is just as essential to have some form of municipal jurisdiction over air traffic as it is over street traffic."

District Attorney Richard S. Newcombe, of Queens, today joined the list of city officials who have come out in favor of policing the air.

Assistant District Attorney Higgins continued his investigation in Long Island City today into the crash between the seaplane and the motor boat in Jamaica Bay Sunday, killing one and seriously injuring another. Frederick Ackerleigh, of Glendale, testified that contrary to previous reports there was no fog in the bay Sunday morning, and that the visibility was about 2 miles. He said he had to go 160 feet out of his way to escape being hit by the seaplane.

Pratt Issues Orders.

Having received advice from the District attorney's office that convictions for participation in the "numbers" game probably can be found in two sections of the District Code of Law, Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, took steps to clamp down tight on "numbers" players.

In a general order issued to all commanding officers of the Metropolitan Police Department, Maj. Pratt said:

"The District attorney advises this department that in his opinion section 866 of the Code of Law of the District of Columbia covers transactions of participants in the 'numbers game' Except in large transactions, prosecutions may be had under section 863 of the District code.

"In the future you will demand a minimum collateral of $100 cash or a real estate bond of $500 where the charge is a violation of section 866. In cases where the charges preferred are a violation of section 863 a minimum bond of $1,500 should be asked."

Two Forfeit Bonds.

Judge Gus A. Schuldt in Police Court yesterday added two more to the long list of forfeitures in number game cases yesterday when he permitted Lillian Owens, colored, of 317 C street southeast, and Edward Johnson, colored, of 2421 Nichols avenue, to forfeit $50 collateral each on charges of permitting gaming. Both were charged with conducting numbers games.

One conviction on a charge of permitting gaming as a result of operation of a numbers game was chalked up during the day by Assistant United States Attorney Ernest Davis when Macie Marlow, of 909 C street southeast, pleaded guilty. She was sentenced by Judge Schuldt to pay a fine of $50 or serve 60 days in jail.

Following criticism by Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, that the United States attorney's office was lax in prosecuting numbers cases, United States Attorney Leo A. Rover Monday issued figures on the number of cases involving numbers games which had come to his office and the disposition made of them. These figures showed that since June 1, 28 convictions had been obtained while Police Court judges had permitted forfeitures in 167 cases.

Two policemen of the Second Precinct, F. W. Bauer and E. L. Gibbon, raided a place in the 1500 block of Seventh street northwest yesterday morning and arrested Robert Scott, 20 years old, of 1716 Kalorama road northwest, on charges of permitting gaming, viz., numbers. As Maj. Pratt's order had not been received at the time, only $25 collateral was required.

GALLINGER INQUIRY BY SENATE URGED

WHITWASH IS ATTACKED

W. E. Ryan, former representative well known in local governmental and civic circles, last night mailed the following letter to Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, chairman of the Senate District of Columbia committee:

Hon. Arthur Capper, Chairman, Senate District of Columbia Committee.

Dear Senator:

In view of the investigation (so-called) of Gallinger Hospital by a subcommittee of the Welfare Board of the District, and the report made to the District Commissioners by said District Welfare Commission (both hearings and report being a Simon-pure whitewash), I respectfully submit that in as much as Congress appropriates a part of the funds for Gallinger Hospital's upkeep, you name a subcommittee of the Senate District Committee to make a thorough nonpartial investigation of past and present conduct, management, qualifications, professional or lay, of the hospital's personnel. I also respectfully suggest, that in as much as Senator Royal S. Copeland is a member of the Senate District committee, former health officer of New York City, and a physician of national reputation, that you appoint Senator Copeland chairman of the subcommittee I have suggested.

This so-called investigation of Gallinger Hospital was a whitewash by the subcommittee making it, abetted and aided by at least two Washington newspapers. Proceedings of the subcommittee and the report to the District Commissioners (which I venture the statement the Commissioners will approve) are a public scandal.

Respectfully, W. E. RYAN,
3126 Sixteenth street northwest,
Washington, D. C.

called to the provisions of section 908 of the Code of Laws of the District of Columbia, providing that persons conniving at an offense or aiding or abetting the violator, may be prosecuted, together with the actual violator.

Nine Are Convicted.

"From June 1, 1928, to June 15, 1929, nine convictions have been had in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, and sentences totaling 26 years and 6 months and, in addition thereto, a fine of $7,500 was imposed on one defendant.

"This office confidently expects the earnest cooperation of the owners to whom letters have been sent, as well as the cooperation of all of the law-abiding citizens of the District of Columbia in stamping out the gambling evil.

"As an evidence of the extent to which this office and the Police Department have gone in the effort to cope with this situation, the report shows that during the period from January 1, 1928, to May 1, 1929, the number of places raided is 289, the nubmer of raids conducted 464 and the number of persons arrested in connection with the violations 624.

"Assistant United States Attorney Renah F. Camalier, who was recently transferred from the Police Court, where he had been conducting the prosecution of liquor cases, has been placed in charge of this campaign."

Letters and Answers.

A sample letter dispatched to property owners follows:

"Dear Sir: The code of law for the District of Columbia provides, among other things, as follows:

"'Section 865: If any person shall within the District keep, set up, or promote, or be concerned as owner, agent, or clerk, or in any other manner, in managing any policy lottery or policy shop, or shall sell or transfer any ticket, certificate, bill, token, or other device purporting or intended to guarantee or assure to any person or entitle him to a chance of drawing or obtaining a prize, to be drawn in any lottery, or in the game or device commonly known as policy lottery or policy, or shall, for himself or another person, sell or transfer, or have in his possession for the purpose of sale or transfer, or shall aid in selling, exchanging, negotiating, or transferring a chance or ticket in or share of a ticket in any policy lottery or any such bill, certificate, token, or other device, he shall be fined not more than $500 or be imprisoned not more than three years, or both.'

"The Police Department has for the past several months, been conducting a survey of all premises in the District of Columbia where the above section of the code has been, and is being violated. As a result of such a survey, a report has been forwarded to this office stating that violations have allegedly occurred in premises known as ——, in the City of Washington, and that violations are now being committed therein.

Illegal Use of Premises.

"In addition to the above report, the Police Department has received numerous complaints of the alleged illegal use of your said premises, and it is for the purpose of bringing this condition to your notice, officially as owner, that this letter is being addressed to you. Under the terms of your lease, such illegal use undoubtedly works a breach of the covenant, and as it is the intention of this office to prosecute vigorously all persons responsible for, or in any manner connected with these violations, this opportunity is being given you at this time to correct a condition, the existence of which you, perhaps, have been hitherto unaware.

"Section 908, of the code, is also set forth herein:

"In prosecutions for any criminal offense all persons advising, inciting, or conniving at the offense, or aiding or abetting the principal offender, shall be charged as principals and not as accessories, the intent of this section being that as to all accessories before the fact the law heretofore applicable in cases of misdemeanor only shall apply to all crimes, whatever the punishment may be.'

"My assistant, Mr. Camalier, has this case before him at the present time, and he will be glad to render you such aid and assistance as may be consistent in the premises."

two doctors, one lady member and the vice chairman, a lawyer. Other members of the board have attended the hearings unofficially and have made suggestions.

70 Witnesses Questioned.

The board and committee have spent about three weeks in the consideration of these matters, during which time they have examined more than seventy witnesses, whose testimony, covering every phase of the hospital's equipment and operation, its personnel and organization, is herewith submitted. These witnesses range from the superintendent of the hospital, down through the paid professional staff, to the lowest grade of employe, besides sundry members of the volunteer, unpaid, visiting staff, composed of one hundred and fifty-eight (158) physicians and surgeons from the faculties of two medical schools of the city, Georgetown University, and George Washington University Medical Schools, nominated by those universities. Besides these, all persons, with one exception, presently to be noted, coming forward to make statements concerning the hospital, were given opportunity to be heard, after public announcement through the newspapers that all persons desiring to make complaints would be heard at a designated time and place.

Communication to Judge.

The newspaper reporter in question was invited to testify and promptly responded. The following communication was sent to the judge of the Juvenile Court:

August 28, 1929.

Dear Judge Sellers:

The Board of Public Welfare is engaged in an investigation of Gallinger Municipal Hospital. The attention of the board has been called to articles in the local press in which certain statements in connection with the hospital are attributed to you.

The committee in charge of the investigation, being desirous of covering thoroughly every phase of the operations of the hospital, has directed me to inquire whether it would be your pleasure to make any statement, either oral or written, for its information, in connection with the matters mentioned in said articles or any other matters, within your knowledge, concerning the hospital.

Dates Are Named.

If it should be your pleasure to make such a statement orally, the committee would be pleased to hear you at any place in the District of Columbia and at any time that you may designate, as suiting your convenience, not later than the 5th of September, 1929. If it should be your pleasure to favor the committee with a statement in writing, they would be pleased to receive it on or before September 5, and if it is not your pleasure to make a statement in either form, you are respectfully requested to so inform the committee by the date mentioned. Such date is named because public interest seems to demand that the investigation be pushed as rapidly and concluded as speedily as may be consistent with thoroughness.

If you should indicate an oral statement, it is requested that you give one full day's notice of the time and place suggested by you for receiving the committee. Reply may be addressed to the undersigned, care of the Board of Public Welfare, Municipal Building, Washington, D. C.

Very respectfully,

(Signed) W. W. MILLAN,
For the committee on medical service of the Board of Public Welfare of the District of Columbia.

To this communication a reply which is incorporated in the report of testimony was received.

One Witness Not Heard.

No other witness was given a written invitation to testify except one of the visiting staff, who failed to respond to an oral request over the telephone. The one witness requesting to be heard, who was not heard, is a former member of the board, who desired to inform it concerning "treatment of employes." He was informed that this question is not within the scope of the present inquiry, but might properly be the subject for some future consideration.

The investigating committee made a thorough inspection of every building on the hospital reservation except stables and garage.

The charges of the judge of the Juvenile Court are limited, definitely, to three cases. The first is the case of a patient, apparently a personal friend of the judge, who was admitted to the psychopathic department of the hospital April 24, 1928, while under the influence of an overdose of a certain drug and with some history of addiction thereto. Unfortunately for this investigation, the doctor who treated this patient and the nurse who attended her, both left the institution before these charges were heard of and we are, therefore, without their testimony. The report of the superintendent of the hospital on this case is incorporated in the record. From this report it is impossible to conclude that there was anything irregular, harsh or improper in the treatment of this patient. It seems to be quite usual hospital practice to relieve psychopathic patients of their belongings (for safe keeping), to require them to change to hospital clothing, to subject them to necessary restraint and to release them only when responsible persons receive them. So far as the board has been able to ascertain, no charge of misconduct, inefficiency or discourtesy, in this case, was made until fifteen (15) months after the patient was discharged, and then only through the public press. Any complaint of this character, seasonably made to this board, would have been promptly investigated and any offender summarily dealt with. The board feels that it can confidently give the same assurance with reference to any complaint made to the superintendent of the hospital.

Case of Regina Burks.

The next is the case of Regina Burks, a minor, who, in an emergency, donated a certain amount of her blood for transfusion to a patient critically in need therof. As this case is now the subject of threatened litigation against certain officials of the hospital, personally, the board deems it improper to express any opinion on the legal question whether the taking of this minor's blood without the consent of her parents constituted a technical assault, as claimed. The question will doubtless be determined by proper legal authority in due time. In the meantime, there is no probability of another such occurrence until the question has been so determined. The report of the superintendent on this case is in the record.

From this report, it appears that the action complained of was prompted by the most humane motives and that it probably resulted in saving a life, and further that no harm to the minor resulted and that there existed no reasonable ground for fear that harm would follow.

The next is the case of Mrs. Nettie Thompson, a patient who died at the hospital on July 25, 1929, following a gynecological operation performed the preceding day by a member of the visiting staff, also a member of the faculty of one of the schools mentioned. The complaint in this case is, in substance, that the patient did not go to the hospital for an operation, that she was not in a condition to be operated upon, that the operation was unnecessary and unwise and was performed against the patient's will and without notice to her friends. The report of the superintendent of the hospital on this case is also in the record. The testimony of the mother of this unfortunate woman and of her best friend, who was closely in touch with the case, has been taken and the chief of staff of the hospital, the surgeon who operated, the chief of gynecological service and the nurses in attendance have been examined at length. It seems clear that there was reluctance on the part of this patient to go to the hospital. Naturally so; most people are reluctant. It is said that she was urged to go by the judge of the Juvenile Court—for examination only—but testimony from her best friend, a presumably critical witness, shows that the patient, before she went to the hospital, was examined by the physician of that friend and at her instance, and was advised by him that an operation was desirable.

Believes Consent Given.

The board is constrained to believe, from the evidence before it, that this patient's consent to the operation was given and that her reluctance to submit to it was overcome when the advice of the physician she had consulted was backed by the advice of the surgeons at the hospital. At any rate, the testimony of reputable witnesses, both nurses and doctors, including the operating surgeon, who is not on the paid staff and whose standing is vouched for by the great university in which he teaches, would have to be accepted, in any tribunal, as outweighing the inference that she could not have consented because she had objected to going to the hospital at all. Furthermore, the board does not see how it can disregard the testimony of surgeons that this operation was desirable and necessary, if the patient was to improve; that it was not unusual; that neither the character of the operation nor the condition of the patient justified any fear that fatal results would follow, and the report of the consideration given the case by the entire staff as well as the very deliberate testimony of the operating surgeon that he still thinks the operation was proper; and accept the opinion however sincere, of a lawyer that this operation should not have taken place, no matter how great the learning, how high the position, or how deep the sympathy of the lawyer.

One feature of this case, brought out in the oral testimony but not mentioned in either of the communications referred to, which presents, from one angle, a more serious question than any of the foregoing, will be dealt with in a subsequent paragraph of this report. While negligence, improper methods and lack of skill in deciding upon, arranging for, or conducting a single operation, if found to exist, merit the severest condemnation and summary treatment of the guilty parties, the board feels that one such charge unsustained by evidence, does not justify the wholesale condemnation of the hospital and all its activities.

Numerous Questions Propounded.

While the judge of the Juvenile Court indicated that there was no necessity for accepting the board's invitation to testify, for the very sound legal reason that any further statement from her would be hearsay, the communication acknowledging the committee's invitation to appear contained numerous questions, all of which were propounded to witnesses in a position to know, but which did not elicit anything to cause a change of the foregoing conclusions. Two of the questions contained in this communication, as it was given to the press, were so framed, inadvertently, of course, as to create in the minds of persons reading them in the newspapers an erroneous and very damaging impression. These questions seek information as to how operations upon poor persons are decided upon and performed, leaving the uninformed very likely to infer that there is one treatment for rich and another for poor. The questions are mentioned not for criticism, but because the board feels it a duty to inform the public that there is no ground for such inferences. This seems to be the proper place in this report to record the fact that the general hospital, in which Mrs. Thompson was a patient, at Gallinger, opened on June 22, 1929, and constructed and equipped at a cost of a million dollars, is exclusively for poor persons. No rich man can buy his way into it as a patient. The same was true of the general hospital when in the old buildings.

In its inspection of the new general hospital the psycopathic buildings and an old building used as a detention ward, where patients sent from the various penal institutions are treated, and all other buildings, the committee made three lengthy visits. Their first inspection was begun within two hours after it was decided upon and with no longer notice than that period to any one connected with the hospital. In every place most marked cleanliness and tidiness was found. All beds, many of which were most minutely examined, and all bedding were found to be absolutely clean and sanitary. Some linen is stained with drug stains, removable, if at all, only slowly and with difficulty, but none was lacking in absolute cleanliness. There was no sign of vermin of any kind, and there is most positive testimony of numerous employes that none has been seen in the psychopathic buildings erected in 1923, or the new general hospital, except an occasional cockroach in the kitchen, a condition with which most housekeepers are familiar.

Reporter's Criticism Considered.

The newspaper reporter referred to, infomed the investigating committee that he had been in Washington six months, four months as a "free lance" and six weeks with the paper, in which his articles appeared; that is to say, two weeks before his visit to the hospital. He is 30 years of age but was never in a hospital before, either as a patient or as an investigator, but the committee has endeavored, to the best of its ability, to give to his complaints and criticisms the same serious consideration that they would have been given if made by the most experienced investigators. His criticisms are directed to what is known as the south building of the psychopathic group as that was the only part of the hospital, except the alienist's consulting room, he had an opportunity to see. This is the receiving building where all mental patients, and all alcoholics and narcotic addicts are taken in the first instance. It is not, and under the most favorable conditions could not be, an inviting place. It is not a place where one would go from choice but the board finds it impossible to understand how so complete a transformation could have taken place between the date at which the reporter's visit ended and that at which the board's inspection began.

It is quite true that the walls were dingy and stained and in some places defaced but they were not dirty. They had never been painted since the buildings were erected six years ago, but several months before this reporter's visit, a complete renovation of all the buildings was begun and had been pushed as rapidly as was possible with the help available. At the time of the reporter's visit, this work had been completed in all the buildings except the South building. It had actually begun in that building some weeks before and was then in progress. It has since been completed, or nearly so, giving all the buildings a much better appearance. The committee saw no evidence of crowding or lack of beds. It saw the beds and the patients. The testimony of nurses and attendants was that there has been no overcrowding.

No Dirty Floors, No Stench.

No evidence of dirty floors was found, no lack of chairs, no stench from disinfectants, no evidence of patients being compelled to drink from a common drinking cup, but much to the contrary, and no evidence of patients being required to work against their will or their being mistreated. The surprising charge that dogs were locked in a room with a patient was denied by all the employees and officers who testified on the subject. No dogs were on hand when the committee made its visits. If such a thing should ever occur, the board has no doubt that the superintendent would promptly remove the dog and dismiss the offender responsible for its presence.

Food for all the departments is dispensed from a central kitchen in the new hospital, under control of a trained superintendent from one of the most famous clinics of the world—the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn. A trained dietetian has charge of special trays for special cases of patients. It is believed that the food is ample and well prepared and fully up to the standard of similar institutions throughout the country.

The manner of serving food—without knives or forks—seems usual and necessary in a psychopathic hospital. This manner of serving and the character of the food itself would probably be unattractive to any such person as the investigator making these charges. Patients do frequently shriek in the south building. This is generally believed to be usual in all such places. The physicians at Gallinger do not believe in quieting mental patients, alcoholics or drug addicts with narcotics, except in extreme cases. There is no other public place in the District of Columbia where mental patients, alcoholics and drug addicts are received. The south building is the place into which the entire intake goes. Naturally it gets them at their worst. They are kept there until they improve to the extent of being fit for transfer to the quiet wards. There three classes are together. This is not a good arrangement but for the present is unavoidable because of lack of facilities. The board hopes to see this condition remedied in the not distant future, and the mental cases, strictly such, separated from the alcoholics and narcotic addicts. Patients suffering only from diseases not mental, are not kept in the psychopathic wards.

Laundry Perfectly Equipped.

No evidence of a shortage of linen or insufficiency of clothes was found. A perfectly equipped modern laundry in the new building, is turning out more than 20,000 pieces a week and linen closets in all departments were found well stocked. The official hospital garb for men, while not especially attractive in appearance, is not at all repellant and is durable. It is always furnished to patients clean. Naturally it is not cut and fitted to measure. Women patients are generally clad in rather attractive dresses, of varying colors, made by themselves in the occupational therapy department, which is a regular feature of the hospital.

The water treatment, with fifty pound pressure on a piece of equipment in the hydrotherapy department referred to as a hose has a pressure of about twenty pounds. The committee saw this treatment administered. Some might object to it but it does not appear harsh or cruel as a part of hospital treatment. In some cases it might almost be a necessity. The various forms of baths, together with the so-called Scotch douche, which is the form of treatment just referred to, are considered the most efficient means of quieting acute and violent forms of mania. They act not only as sedatives, but also as tonics to the nervous system of mental patients. The equipment referred to is usual in all modern hospitals treating psychopathic patients.

But one note of criticism of the new general hospital was heard. That was from the X-ray specialist formerly connected with the hospital as a part time man on pay, but replaced properly, he concedes, by a full-time man, and transferred to the unpaid visiting staff, when that was organized. The report on this may well rest on the testimony of this witness alone. The sum of his testimony is that the X-ray equipment installed is in accordance with that generally in use in hospitals throughout the country, but that it is not as good as a system that he has devised but which is not in use anywhere in the world and never has been except in the old hospital under his direction. He complains that he was treated with discourtesy by the superintendent in making the change from his system to the one installed. The installation was made after consultation with more than thirty experts in manufacture, installation and operation of such apparatus.

An incident which has been given great publicity was brought out in the testimony of this witness. It is said that an insane patient, though this witness does not say that he was insane or a patient, was about to be fed razor blades and glass. There is disagreement between this witness and the present X-ray specialist as to what did occur. The present X-ray man denies that he ever had any intention of allowing the witness to swallow glass or razor blades.

The most important fact in this connection is that the man was not insane and never has been a patient at the hospital. He was at the time, and still is, a prisoner at the jail and appears to be a man who makes it a practice to swallow, or pretend to swallow articles of the character mentioned for exhibition purposes. He was brought over from the jail to demonstrate his ability and was allowed to swallow two paper clips. He seems to have boasted of his fondness for glass and razor blades but was not supplied with either. The "demonstration" with paper clips was stopped by the superintendent as soon as it was brought to his attention.

Escape of Mrs. Thompson.

Oral testimony developed the fact that Mrs. Thompson, the patient who died as above stated, got out of bed, went down on the elevator from the fourth to the first floor and was stopped there, while endeavoring to escape from the hospital, and brought back to her room on a stretcher. The escape occurred while the nurse in attendance was absent from the room for a brief interval preparing a medication for the patient. She testifies that the entire incident occupied no more than five minutes. This unfortunate occurrence may have contributed to the death of the patient, but so far as the getting out of bed and out of the room are concerned, they are things that might happen in any hospital with pay patients and special nurses, and sometimes do happen. It is not required that the nurse be at the bedside of the patient every minute except in violent cases.

But the board is of the opinion that more than one nurse should be on duty in a ward where there are numerous patients. On this occasion there were about twenty. If the corridor leading to the elevator or to outdoors, were always under the eye of a nurse or attendant, while it might not prevent a patient getting out of bed, it would certainly prevent escape from the floor. The standing committee on medical service will deal with this situation and see that proper steps are taken. Testimony shows, however, that the practice now in vogue is usual in similar hospitals. Although the nurse was engaged as indicated, it is hard to understand why an elevator operator, with intelligence enough for even that lowly task, could have carried a patient in night clothes and a sheet to the first floor on his car. The board has learned that this employe is no longer with the hospital, though one witness mistakenly testified to the contrary.

Four Proposals Stated.

The standing committee on medical service will take up for special consideration:

(1) The question of adding a female psychiatrist to the staff.

(2) The question of the use of strong rooms for amnesia patients concerning which there seems not to be complete accord.

It was the practice of the chief resident psychiatrist in office when the newspaper man was with him to place patients shamming amnesia in strong rooms to expose the sham. At his first examiantion of the newspaper reporter he discovered that he was shamming and ordered him into a strong room. The charges that patients are placed in strong rooms as a matter of routine is, however, completely disproved. No patient is ever so confined except upon order of a doctor, unless in an emergency with a violent patient. Such emergency cases are at once reported to the doctor in charge and a written order made.

(3) The question of patients in the medical and surgical wards who are able to walk about being allowed to assist in carrying meals to other patients.

There is no evidence that any patient ever did this except voluntarily, but one of the complaints in the Thompson case is that the patient, before being operated upon, was compelled to carry heavy meal trays. The board knows from its own observation that the trays are not heavy and does not believe that Mrs. Thompson was compelled to carry any of them. However, a patient volunteering to do such work might afterward change his mind and imagine that he was compelled to do that which was voluntary. One patient coming in and finding another so engaged might think it was necessary for him to do likewise in order to win favor or receive attention.

Treatment at Courthouse.

(4) The treatment of patients at the courthouse, awaiting court hearings:

Toward the conclusion of the hearings a newspaper article charged that patients brought to court suffer for lack of attention, water and food while waiting for their cases to come up. It seemed unnecessary to take public testimony on this matter. If the standing committee finds that the condition alleged exists to any degree, it will be remedied so far as the hospital authorities are responsible therefor.

In spite of the great publicity that has been given to this investigation and the occurrences leading up to it, the number of persons who have responded to the open invitation to appear and make complaints was most astonishingly small. Outside of the Thompson case, there were really only two. One of these, a lady of intelligence and refinement, gave an exceedingly detailed and convincing story of the treatment of her daughter in the old building, now discarded, but concluded her testimony with a voluntary tribute to the superintendent whom, she said she had found courteous and obliging. She expressed regret that she had not carried her complaint to him in the first instance and her belief that he would promptly remedy such conditions as she complained of if they came to his attention. The other witness saw the psychopathic ward once for a few moments and refused to put her husband there because she did not think it a fit place and because she objected to having him put on a uniform—the hospital clothes.

Commended and Criticized.

A numerous group of volunteer witnesses speaking favorably of the hospital included the wife of a former senator of the United States, the Roman Catholic and Protestant institutional chaplains, the welfare worker of a Jewish organization, with long experience in his work; a member of the Auxiliary Board of Visitors and sundry former patients and their friends. During the hearings letters have been received by the board from 25 persons. Of these 12 are highly commendatory and 13 critical in varying degrees.

It is a matter of common knowledge that Gallinger Hospital began with very crude and inadequate equipment, and there is little doubt that in the past there has been, because of lack of equipment, insufficient personnel and inadequate support, some ground for complaint, but under the present able, energetic superintendent great improvement has been made. The physical changes speak for themselves and the board invites any citizen of the District who is interested to visit and see for himself.

The new medical and surgical building, with a capacity of 304 beds, with new and modern equipment and apparatus in every detail, is believed to be the equal of any hospital in the country.

The psychopathic buildings, though only six years old, are not all that might be desired, so rapid is the advance of improvement in hospital construction, but the board finds no ground for any general complaint as to the way in which these buildings are being used and maintained, or the manner in which the patients therein are treated. This department compares favorably with others of the same character.

Treatment of Patients.

The more vital question is the treatment accorded to patients. The board finds no substantial ground for complaint in this connection. It is impossible for the board to stand at the elbow of every official or for the superintendent to stand at the elbow of every employe, but we believe that his first care is the welfare of patients and that this is the spirit of the hospital staff generally, including the efficient superintendent of nurses. We believe that he is constantly on the alert to strengthen his personnel and will be quick to recommend the removal of the careless or the inefficient if any such should be found. A staff of 158 of the pick of the medical and surgical professions in the city, giving free service for operations and treatments at the rate of about 20 visits per day, and visiting for monthly conferences and inspections in groups of more than 100, should be added assurance that there is nothing seriously wrong with Gallinger.

The investigating committee has addressed letters to the surgeon general of the Army, the surgeon general of the Navy, the surgeon general of the Public Health Service and the superintendent of St. Elizabeths Hospital, requesting each of these officials to designate an officer of high rank to form a committee for the purpose of making an examination and inspection of the equipment and conduct of the hospital with a view to having a report from competent experts, not in any way connected with the administration of the hospital or with the District government.

Board Continues Investigation Into Four Gallinger Charges

Having concluded its three weeks' investigation of Gallinger Municipal Hospital, the Board of Public Welfare, in its report to the District Commissioners, denied flatly, and in an argumentative tone, practically all the charges which had been made against the institution. In other instances where the facts were so flagrant as to forestall the possibility of denial, the board said that "such things might happen and possibly do, in other hospitals also."

On only four points does the board contemplate further consideration. All four of the questions involved were disclosed first in The Post, and two of them, having to do with treatment of amnesia patients and of mental patients awaiting court hearings, were raised directly by The Post during investigations which it conducted independently at Gallinger recently.

Following are the four subjects to which the board's report promises that its committee on medical service will give additional study:

The question of adding a female psychiatrist to the staff.

The question of the use of strong rooms for amnesia patients, concerning which there seems not to be complete accord.

The question of patients in the medical and surgical wards, who are able to walk about, being allowed to assist in carrying meals to other patients; and

JURORS VIEW SCENE OF AMBUSH SLAYING

LENGTHY TRIAL LIKELY

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 10 (A.P.).—The spot in front of the real estate office of Ralph A. Wood, in Wyandotte, a Detroit suburb, where Ambrose L. Hagerty was shot to death last January, was inspected today by a jury trying Wood, Herbert L. Sullivan and Cecil W. Holt, on a first degree murder charge as a result of the killing.

Hagerty was killed in ambush arranged by Wood, Sullivan and Holt, after Holt had charged Hagerty, a private policeman, had been hired by Wood's estranged wife to "take him for a ride."

Relatives of Hagerty brought about the trial now under way by charges that Wood and the others arranged the ambush so that Hagerty could be killed in what would appear like self-defense.

The three defendants, as well as attorneys, prosecutors and Judge Adolph F. Marschner, sitting in the case, accompanied the jury to the Wyandotte real estate office.

Aside from the visit to the scene of the killing today's session was occupied with opening statements by counsel for the defense and by attorneys for the prosecution. In general they agreed with previously published contentions of both sides.

The trial is expected to last at least a fortnight, with more than 100 witnesses to be called by the State and the defense.

MRS. PANTAGES HIT IN TRIAL TESTIMONY

DRUNK SAYS WITNESS

Los Angeles, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—At the resumption today of the trial of Mrs. Lois Pantages, who is accused of causing the death of Juro Rokumoto, a Japanese, in an automobile collision, County Autopsy Surgeon Dr. A. F. Wagner testified that the victim died of shock caused by his injuries. The wife of the theater magnate, Alexander Pantages, is being tried on second degree murder with the State contending that she was intoxicated at the time of the fatal accident.

Under cross-examination by Max Steuer, New York attorney directing the defense, Dr. Wagner reiterated his testimony as to the cause of Rokumoto's death. Steuer failed to obtain admission from the witness that an anaesthetic, used in an operation to save the Jananese's life, might have caused his death. Wagner declared that, in his opinion, the anaesthetic was in no way responsible.

Harry J. Ledebrink, another State's witness, testified that Mrs. Pantages was under the influence of liquor at the time of the accident, and described the zig zag course of the woman's car, as he drove behind it down Beverly boulevard just before the collision. When she stalled her car, the witness said, he left his own and stepped up to Mrs. Pantages to offer aid. She was slumped over the steering wheel, Lederbrink said, and was pumping the accelerator up and down with her foot although the motor was not running. When he offered to push her car to the curb to free the traffic congestion, the witness said Mrs. Pantages raised her head and replied in obscene language.

"There was a strong odor of liquor on her breath," Ledebrink said in reply to the prosecutor's questioning. "Her eyes were only partly open."

brought up," he declared.

Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, contended that the word of the petitioner for tariff increases should not be accepted without question. Their "solemn, sworn, financial statements" should be the basis of increase or decrease, he said.

Holds Manuals Incomplete.

Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, answering the argument of Senators Smoot and Reed that the information desired could be found in the business manuals, said that the Aluminum Company of America, of which Secretary Mellon is a director, is an example of a business that does not furnish information to the manuals.

The next move against the tariff, when it is again placed before the Senate, will be that on its administrative features involving the flexible provisions by which the President is authorized to raise or lower tariff rates on report of the Tariff Commission. Yesterday's vote would seem to betoken coalition victory on this question.

The discovery has no present commercial use, but the new world in chemistry which it seems to open is very important. For one thing, hydrogen is one of the elements much used in the new synthetic chemistry, which changes petroleum into coal and coal into gasoline. For another, the cracking is one of the first proofs of a long-held theory that atoms somewhat resemble small solal systems, in which electrons, instead of worlds, spin around a central nucleus.

Dr. Bohnhoeffer said he found that parahydrogen is formed by electrons spinning in opposite directions, and that they both spin in the same direction to make the opposite form, which he calls orthohydrogen. Theoretically the spin makes them into tiny magnets, thereby accounting for their sticking together to form a tangible substance.

TRAIL OF GAS LEAK LEADS TO SUICIDE

Body of Man Is Discovered Stretched Out Near Open Valve.

NOTE FOUND IN POCKET

An employe of the Washington Suburban Gas Co., tracing a gas leak which had been reported by residents of Campbell street, Brentwood, Md., yesterday found the body of Edward Sword, 25 years old, in a vacant house at 3704 Campbell street. The dead man was stretched out near the gas intake valve in the basement of the house with an empty half-pint bottle close to his hand.

The gas company employe called the Prince Georges County Rescue Squad, but its efforts were of no avail, as the man had been dead for a considerable time. He was pronounced dead by Dr. H. T. Willis, mayor of Hyattsville. In his pocket was found a note, which read:

"Good-by, old pal. It is up to you. Good-by, Catherine." The note was found tucked into his shirt pocket and led to the theory that he had been disappointed in love. It later was brought out that he had been seen Sunday night by several persons in an apparently intoxicated condition, begging for the loan of a pistol to end his life. Unsuccessful in his quest, he apparently had returned to the vacant house, from which he had moved about nine days before, and had opened the gas valve.

A coroner's jury was summoned by Justice of the Peace H. J. Moffat and viewed the body. The jury returned a verdict of death by suicide.

They Call It Politics

By CARTER FIELD

SATISFYING the farmers and building an American merchant marine are two problems which no Congress has ever accomplished and apparently the present one is about to stage as flat a failure on these two objectives as most of its predecessors.

Just after agricultural rates had been boosted so far that senators from the consuming States, including Democratic Senator David I. Walsh, of Massachusetts, are protesting vigorously, along come the farmers with specific demands for further big increases in rates on farm products, following some sharp criticism of the manufacturing schedules by senators from the entire farm belt.

Actually, this farm protest and demand for higher rates is one of the very few threats which may actually succeed in wrecking the entire bill, though the probability, of course, is that the bill will pass in modified form and be signed by President Hoover. This last is the present expectancy, despite various reports that the President is utterly out of sympathy with the measure.

THE fact that the bill probably will pass is due to the fact that most of the individual senators who denounce it as iniquitous really want it to pass, though without their votes. Before it reaches the final vote most of them will have succeeded in getting some of the schedules fixed so as to be very beneficial to their communities, or at least to some powerful interests in their communities. Consequently, when the final vote comes there will be a will for it to pass which always in the past has resulted in parliamentary developments which permitted its passage. Some of the openly vigorous opponents of such measures in the past have always discovered the impossibility of obtaining pairs or have been called away on extremely important business without arranging pairs for themselves.

THE real threat in this farm protest is that it is apt to upset this kind of maneuvering. If the increased duties are not granted by the Senate, the protests prevent certain senators who wish the bill as a whole to pass from using the farm increases which are granted as an excuse for voting for the bill as a whole. If they are granted, and at the same time some heed is paid to the farm protests against the increases on the manufacturing schedules, the position of the Eastern senators will become very difficult. Senator Walsh undoubtedly would then, for example, vote against the bill.

Senator Borah has been avoiding all dilemmas personally by refusing to consider the merits of any schedule except those on farm products. He has made a clear line of demarkation, on the theory that this bill should tend to equalize conditions as between farm and factory.

• • • •

ON that theory he plans to vote against every increase in the measure except those on farm products. Some of the interests in his own State, notably shingles, have made a case to him which he frankly admits are impressive, although he seems to be in a minority in the Senate on this particular schedule. This does not disturb him, however, in view of his rule. Shingles he does not consider a farm product, and therefore are not entitled under his rule to his approval at this time.

But if the manufacturing schedules are retained at the high level the finance committee has approved, or at the still higher level which the House approved, on the average, Senator Borah's inclination would be against the bill.

Similarly, even if the farm rates are boosted, every vote which the Democratic organization can muster against the measure will still be cast. If, on the other hand, the ground should be cut from under the attack of farm interests by not only increasing the farm rates, but lowering the manufacturing rates, the incentive for Eastern senators to vote for the measure would cool considerably.

• • • •

THE Eastern senators, or rather the senators representing States where manufacturing is more important than agriculture, realize perfectly well that they are the targets for most of the criticism on the tariff bill. The only exception to this rule on all the schedules of the bill is that raising the duty on sugar, there probably having been more criticism of the sugar schedule than of any three of the manufacturing schedules.

• • • •

THEY realize, therefore, that their only chance of getting the protection they believe the interests of their States require is to get it at the same time, and by the old log-rolling process, as the farm interests get theirs.

The probability is that there will be further compromises, and that slight additions may be made in the farm schedules, this being calculated not only to reconcile the farm belt to the tariff bill, but to win a few votes for the bill as a whole from the farm belt senators, most of whom, including even the two Republicans from Kansas, Capper and Allen, have been on a rampage against the whole measure.

FELON COUNT SAYS PRISON OFFICIALS DEFRAUDED HIM

drawn from his account in the Merchants National Bank of Los Angeles on a draft made payable to "the order of ourselves or Albert Sichofsky to be held on order of the district attorney's office," and he has a photostatic copy of such a draft.

The count declares he never received any of that money, and his lawyer said the Los Angeles district attorney's office disclaimed any knowledge of it.

The count further charges that Deputy Sheriff Harvey Bell, of Los Angeles County, who took him to San Quentin Prison in November, 1923, took from him $35,892.55 and placed it in a San Rafael bank, keeping the receipt himself.

Fails to Find Receipt.

The copy of a report to the Labor Department, in the possession of Van Keegan, states Bell remembered the transaction, but was unable to find the receipt.

The rest of his losses the count divides as follows: $116,000, which, he says, mysteriously disappeared from his safety deposit box in the First National Bank of San Diego while he was in Folsom Prison; $27,800, which he charges was withdrawn on forged checks from his accounts in the Citizens, Commercial and First National Banks of Los Angeles, also while he was in Folsom Prison.

Has $20,000 Left.

Out of more than $300,000 cash, a $23,000 Rolls Royce car, $20,000 worth of jewelry, and twenty wardrobe trunks filled with clothing, which the count claims to have had in his possession when he first became involved in difficulties with Federal and California State authorities nine years ago, his attorney says he now has left less than $20,000.

Requests for an accounting from the banks brought word that the accounts had been closed.

The habeas corpus writ obtained today is returnable in Federal Court here September 17.

In the meantime, officials at Ellis Island said the charges against the count were that he had entered the United States without proper inspection and that he was likely to become a public charge.

Dangerous Criminal.

"I have been down to Washington several times to try to get him released, but the Labor Department won't let him out," Van Keegan said.

"They tell me they regard him as one of the most dangerous criminals who ever entered the country. They didn't explain why."

Los Angeles, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—The charges preferred by Count Albert Sichofsky, now held at Ellis Island pending deportation to Poland, that money belonging to him "disappeared" while he was in custody of California authorities "are not new to me," Thomas Gannon, of the State Railroad Commission, said here today.

Mr. Gannon was among those named by the count, and at the time of the prisoner's incarceration in California was a member of the State Board of Prison Directors.

Calls It Old Story.

"That is merely Sichofsky's old story," Gannon said. "He is making these charges to stall off his deportation because Poland is just the place he doesn't want to go. The records of the prisons he served time in will show what became of that money. The great bulk was paid on court orders to persons obtaining judgments against Sichofsky for his fraudulent operations."

Sacramento, Calif., Sept. 10 (A.P.).—An alleged plot to kill Albert Sichofsky, Polish count in Folsom Prison for his money was related here today by James J. Smith, former warden of the prison, as the newest angle of the count's startling assertions that $35,000 belonging to him disappeared after he was arrested in California on bunco charges.

Smith's story smacked of deep intrigue and involved a prison employe, a record clerk, who allegedly endeavored to have the count sign a will leaving him large sums of money. Smith backed his statements by saying that "all these things were made a matter of record when I reported them to the State prison board."

Gets Inside Work.

Smith's story, in effect, was as follows:

Sichofsky had been employed in the prison quarry but was found "too light" for the work, so was transferred to inside offices and made an assistant to George Jennings, the record clerk. This was during the latter part of 1926.

Shortly after the transfer was made the warden found on his desk an anonymous letter advising him that Sichofsky was in the prison hospital and that he, the warden, should "see if he is all right."

This letter, Smith said, stated that Jennings would see Sichofsky in the hospital that night and have him sign a will.

Smith said he went to the hospital and secreted himself behind a screen; that Jennings appeared with papers in his hand and after talking with Sichofsky, asked:

"Well, count, are you ready to sign now?"

Will Is Examined.

"Sign what?" Smith said he asked as he stepped out from behind the screen.

Smith said that he and Jennings went to the prison offices and that there the papers Jennings carried were examined. He declared that a will with a notary seal attached was found to have been drawn, providing that in the event of Sichofsky's death Jennings was to receive $2,000 and that provisions were made for the payment of $200 to each of two convicts, whose names Smith could not recall.

A further provision in the will, Smith said, was that Jennings should take the $2,000 and go to Europe on a hunt for Sichofsky's relatives, who if found were to be made beneficiaries. Smith said the document stated that in case no relatives were found all of the count's money should go to Jennings.

Clerk Quits Post.

"Jennings broke down," Smith said, "and finally declared that the only thing he could do was quit. I accepted his resignation.

"I made a complete, detailed report of the matter to the prison board and a man by the name of Cornell was employed to succeed Jennings.

"A day or so after this incident I found another anonymous letter on my desk saying that I had acted in the nick of time and that the count was to have died in the hospital. I had Sichofsky shifted to another section of the hospital, gave him different nurses and his condition improved."

BOYS OF '98 BOOM RATH FOR LEADER

INTERNAL POLITICS HIT

Denver, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—Preparing a vote of protest against what they said were "hand picked candidates and machine politics in the organization," supporters of Otto N. Rath, of St. Paul, tonight were rallying support for the Minnesotan's nomination tomorrow as commander in chief of the United Spanish War Veterans.

Philadelphia was chosen today as the 1930 convention city of the organization.

Members of Rath's committee charged that Gov. Fred W. Green of Michigan, is being "shoved down the throats" of veterans attending the annual encampment here.

State caucuses were being held with backers of "favorite son" candidates discussing the chances of their choices against the two outstanding candidates already in the field—Gov. Green and Col. Winfield Scott, of Oklahoma.

Rear Admiral Watt T. Cluverius urged delegates to take upon themselves the duty of keeping alive an active spirit of preparedness. National Defense Day was the occasion of his address, heard by more than 20,000.

Between sidewalks thronged with cheering thousands the boys of '98 marched through Denver's streets today. From every State in the Union they came. Heads erect, step quick and sure, the men who more than a quarter of a century ago fought for the independence of another country passed the reviewing stand.

Besides the elections of officers tomorrow, important resolutions will come before the delegates. The prohibition question is expected to come up.

MAN SHOOTS WIFE, THEN SLAYS SELF

Baltimorean Fires When He Enters Home and Sees Woman at Phone.

CHILDREN VIEW TRAGEDY

Baltimore, Sept. 10.—Going to his home at 909 Cooks lane today, Charles Redifer drew a revolver and shot his wife through the mouth. She fled from the house and Redifer then drank poison and shot himself. He died a little later at the West Baltimore General Hospital.

Physicians at the hospital announced that a set of false teeth probably saved Mrs. Redifer from death, or at least more serious injury. The bullet that struck her, the doctors explained, was deflected and partly stopped by the teeth.

Redifer, who was 56 years old, found his wife, who is 58, at the telephone when he entered the house. He shot without warning, said several children, who were in the place. Patrolman Christian F. Birx was passing the address, and at the sound of the shots he ran in. He found Redifer wounded on the floor.

His wife was found outside the house. Both were taken to the hospital in a municipal ambulance.

There are five children in the Redifer family and two others had been left at the Redifer home by the Catholic charities. The two left there are Adona Kirwan and Alice Blakely.

Police said Redifer was intoxicated when he came home.

Winchester Branch Gets Report of Year's Activities.

Winchester, Va., Sept. 10.—Material and steady advance in essential features of temperance work during the past year was reported today at the annual meeting of the local branch of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union. Directors for eight departments, who submitted reports, indicated a year of unusual activity and success, and also claimed marked interest in temperance.

The union announced that "The W. C. T. U. will continue as a steady, constructive force for total abstinence, prohibition and for all the highest ideals of Christian citizenship." Officers elected were: President, Mrs. D. S. Mattison; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Thomas J. Dale; recording secretary, Miss Annie J. Rees; treasurer, Miss Lona A. Kern, and vice presidents were elected from each Protestant and Catholic Church in the city. Delegates were elected to the State convention, to be held this fall at Charlottesville.

The treasurer reported 360 paid-up members and 50 honorary members, making a total of 410, said to be the largest membership of any union in Virginia.

Charles L. Marshall Weds Mary D. Herndon

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Sept. 10.—Charles L. Marshall, of this city, and Miss Mary Douglas Herndon, of Ruckersville, Va., were married yesterday at the Baptist parsonage at Ruckersville. They left immediately after the ceremony for Roanoke, where they will spend their honeymoon.

The bride is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Herndon, of Ruckersville, and is a trained nurse. Mr. Marshall is a son of T. A. Marshall, of Eastham, this county.

Danville Plans Survey Of Nonchurch Members

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Sept. 10.—The Danville Ministerial Association, at a called meeting, has voted to invite the representative of a religious organization to come here and make a survey of persons not affiliated with any church.

It is conceded to be the Danville ministry's indorsement to the new method of evangelism through which non-church members are visited privately in the home by committees.

Luanna Geer Is Bride.

Charlottesville, Va., Sept. 10 (Special).—Jack Birckhead, of Earlysville, Va., and Miss Luanna Geer, of Proffit, this county, were married here yesterday morning, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Edwin S. Sweeney, pastor of the Christian Church, at his home.

MORE FIRES SWEEP NATIONAL FORESTS

U. S. Reserves Closed While 2,000 Men Battle 200 Separate Blazes.

VAST AREAS MENACED

Portland, Ore., Sept. 10 (A.P.).—Drastic action in attempting to cope with the most critical forest fire situation in Oregon in a decade was taken by the Federal district forester here today in closing every national forest in Oregon and eight in Washington. Twenty-two reserves are affected.

As this step was being taken to prevent outbreak of other fires, more than 2,000 men were engaged in Oregon in a heart-breaking, body-wracking battle to subdue 200 or more blazes in the western part of the State.

In the extreme west Coos and Curry counties, eight or ten fires reached proportions of general conflagrations. Highly valuable and highly inflammable timber was endangered as were logging equipment, saw mills, homesteads and ranch houses.

In Lane County, reports from Eugene said a hazardous situation existed. Hundreds of fire fighters were routed out during the night to cope with a fire in timber holdings near Crow Stage. This blaze had broken lines and was threatening small settlements along Wolf Creek today. Fire-fighting crews were exhausted in their attempts to stem the tide of flame.

Another blaze was roaring through timber four miles south of Alma and settlers there had called on all available hands to come to the rescue.

The triangle lake fire in the Siuslaw National Forest, aided by a stiff wind that blew up late last night, was on another rampage today, traveling almost due west. R. S. Shelley, supervisor of the Siuslaw Forest, said fire fighters would direct their efforts toward saving settlers along Deadwood Creek.

The district forester announced that the national forests would remain closed until the first general rain. Most of the State was covered by a pall of smoke. Forestry department lookouts found it impossible to see more than three miles. Attempting to work from above, airplane lookouts found themselves unable to take observations.

Bolling Green Woman Dies of Auto Injury

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Sept. 10.—Miss Ella Grace Cook, 34, daughter of Mrs. Bella C. and the late Jesse Cook, died late yesterday at her home in Bolling Green, a suburb, from injuries received in an automobile accident last October, when the car in which she was a passenger was sideswiped at Hollidaysburg, Pa.

Since that time she has been residing with her parents, who were former residents of Wellersburg, Pa., and Ellerslie, Md.

Besides her mother, she leaves two brothers, Bruce and Harry Cook, and the following sisters, Miss Pearl, at home; Mrs. G. Allen Cook, Lewistown, Pa., and Miss Viola G. Landis, Ellerslie.

Baltimore Minister Weds Maryland Girl

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Sept. 10.—The Rev. Harry Wallace Craver, of Baltimore, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, at Augusta, W. Va., and Miss Ruth Virginia Wolford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wolford, Little Valley road, near this city, were married this afternoon at the First Methodist Protestant Church, this city, by the Rev. Harry V. Wheeler, Romney, W. Va., assisted by the Rev. Charles Roscoe Strausburg.

The bride's atendants were Mrs. R. E. S Taylor, of Pawpaw, W. Va.; Miss Elizabeth Stell and Mrs. Carl Dicken.

Negro Gets 18 Months For Firing at Train

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., Sept. 10.—James King, a Negro, was sentenced to serve eighteen months in the penitentiary today by a Corporation Court jury which found him guilty of shooting at a Southern train three weeks ago.

King pleaded intoxication and said that he did not know that he had whipped out a revolver and with a bullet dented the metal of the cab near the fireman's seat.

In instructing the jury, Judge Henry Leigh said "voluntary drunkenness is no excuse for the commission of crime, but it may negative the idea of malice."

6,000 Criminal Cases In 10 Years Reported

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., Sept. 10.—Report made by L. T. Hyatt, clerk of the Federal Court for the western district of Virginia to the National Commission on Law Enforcement, shows there have been more than 6,000 criminal cases on the docket of this court in the last ten years.

There were 8,399 bankruptcy petitions and 614 persons were naturalized, with 30 cases pending now. During the period there were 1,575 civil cases on the dockets.

CHINA ASKS LEAGUE TO REVISE TREATIES

BRIAND RETURNS HOME

Geneva, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—Elated with successful launching of his proposed United States of Europe, Premier Aristide Briand, of France, today left Geneva for Paris and the League of Nations assembly turned toward other problems.

Plans for compulsory arbitration of international disputes and for America's adherence to the world court of international justice have been given great impetus at Geneva. Today the assembly considered another subject likely to contribute to world peace, the putting into effect of one article of the league covenant which has been ineffective during the ten years of the league's existence.

Will Make Proposal.

China raised the question through its spokesman, C. C. Wu, who proposed that the league exercise its organic privilege of advising members to reconsider old and worn-out treaties which may have become a menace to the pacific relations between nations. Wu's move was considered China's latest step for the abrogation of the "unequal treaties" between China and the western powers involving extraterritoriality and other special privileges. Also this seems to be China's answer to the recent refusal of Great Britain, the United States and other powers to do away with extraterritoriality.

The proposal by Wu has created considerable interest tonight in view of the possibility that some time in the future Germany might be able to introduce the question of the revision of the treaty of Versailles.

Open Up Vast Field.

China's more immediate interest is with her own treaties with Western nations, but other observers forecast that article 19, in effective operation, would open up a vast field for the reconsideration of international agreements reached by victors and vanquished as a result of the World War.

Article 19 reads:

"The assembly may from time to time advise reconsideration by members of the league of treaties which have become inapplicable, and consideration of international conditions whose continuance might endanger the peace of the world."

Among other international moves at Geneva today were proposals introduced by the French delegation calling for a world conference to consider crisis in the sugar and coal industries.

Capital Pair Hurt In Auto Accident

Mrs. Julia Whitford Taken to Frederick Hospital for Treatment.

Mrs. Julia Whitford, of 3369 Eighteenth street northwest, was severely injured and her husband, Royden K. Whitford, route agent of the Evening Star, and their son, Royden K. Whitford, jr., were less seriously hurt in an automobile accident yesterday near Poplar Springs, Md., in which their host, Emory L. Coblentz, prominent Frederick banker and Democratic leader, and the latter's wife and daughter also were painfully hurt.

All were taken to the Frederick Hospital by passing motorists and it was found that Mrs. Whitford had received numerous lacerations and bruises to the head and body, while the elder Whitford suffered a sprained wrist and body bruises. Their son, who recently graduated from the Manhattan Agricultural and Electrical Engineering College, was only slightly scratched. Relatives here last night said that Mrs. Whitford would be obliged to remain in the hospital for several days, after which the family will return to this city.

At the time of the accident the two families were en route to Baltimore from the Coblentz home at Middletown, where the Whitfords had been guests since Friday. Their machine, operated by Miss Coblentz, collided broadside with a motor truck driven by Percy B. Reeder, of Charles Town, W. Va. Reeder was slightly injured about the chest, and both the truck and the Coblentz car were badly damaged.

JEWS BOYCOTTING ARAB MERCHANDISE

STORE PATROL SOUGHT

Jerusalem, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—The Jewish boycott on Arab merchandise is increasing in bitterness in Palestine. At Haifa a Jewish youth poured gasoline on grapes that had been brought into the Jewish suburb of Haddar Ha'Carmel. The Jews of that city have decided not to buy any local fish nor to employ porters who were alleged to have participated in the riot.

Christians at Haifa today issued a proclamation denying rumors of dissension between them and the Moslems and saying that both were resolved to work together.

The Zionist executive today estimated Jewish loses as 126 killed or dead from wounds and 217 seriously wounded. Of this total the executive said that 65 were killed and 62 wounded at Hebron, 30 killed and 48 wounded in Jerusalem and 16 killed and 27 wounded at Safed.

Shop Patrol Sought.

Arab and Jewish merchants of Jerusalem in a joint meeting of the chamber of commerce, today decided to request the government to post guards in commercial centers to enable merchants to reopen their shops.

The danger of a Bedouin invasion of Palestine from the north has virtually passed, it appeared, following a joint conference between British and French mandatory authorities at Safed. The conference was attended by the commander of the British troops in Palestine, the assistant commandant of the Palestine police and a French military attache from Syria.

U. S. Consul Investigates.

American Consul General Paul Knabenshue went to Hebron today personally to inspect the city where eight American-Jewish students were killed.

The Hebrew newspaper Davar said the Palestine government has paid £250 (about $1,250) damages to an Arab village near Beth Alpha where British troops killed an Arab, wounded another and killed some cattle.

Announcement was made today that the British plane-carrier Courageous was returning to its base from Jaffa, which was taken as an indication of the confidence of the authorities that they have the situation in hand. The destroyer Veteran will also leave Palestine waters. Air Vice Marshal Higgins has been called to take charge of the Royal Air Force in Palestine, succeeding Brig. Gen. Dobbie as commander of all British forces in Palestine.

Navy Rifle Expert Leads in Match

Lieut. Kramer First Among 1,638 Men as Weather Slows Shooting.

Camp Perry, Ohio, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—Unfavorable weather conditions here today slowed progress in the national individual rifle matches, and only three stages of the five-course match were completed. The last two stages will be fired early tomorrow.

Lieut. Alvin D. Kramer, United States Navy, was leading the 1,638 riflemen in the event at the close of the firing today on the 200 and 300 yard rapid-fire ranges and the 200-yard slow-fire course. Lieut. Kramer had a score of 138 out of a possible 150.

Sergt. John Carlson, United States Infantry, was second with 137.

Hoover Instructs Roosevelt On His Duties in Porto Rico

White House Clears Senate Path to Confirmation of Nomination.

In a brief home-coming yesterday at the White House, Theodore Roosevelt received instructions from President Hoover on a two-weeks' course of study before the late President's son departs to become Governor of Porto Rico.

The Senate path for confirmation of the nomination was cleared by the White House before Roosevelt's nomination was sent to that body Monday, the poll of the foreign relations committee indicating the nomination will be confirmed this week.

Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, the "Princess Alice" of the White House a quarter of a century ago, brought Roosevelt to the executive offices yesterday in her automobile, accompanied also by Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick (Republican), Illinois. Roosevelt was extensively photographed and in return exhibited to picture men many snapshops of rare wild game taken on his recent big-game hunt in the interior of China.

Roosevelt appeared more excited about bagging a speciman of the mysterious pandu, still too strange to classify in the animal kingdom, than about governing the destinies of his new island domain. He has been studying Spanish and will take lessons in local color from the Bureau of Insular Affairs before starting for Porto Rico.

Gov. Horace M. Towner has advised the White House that he will leave the island September 23. Roosevelt is expected to arrive there shortly after that date.

BRITISH FLIERS SET NEW SPEED RECORDS

They Plan to Make Another Trial on Thursday to Better Mark.

355.825 IS TIME MADE

Calshot, England, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—Not satisfied with the fact that two of their number today flew faster than men ever had flown before, British seaplane racing pilots tonight had under consideration fresh attempts for Thursday.

Squadron Leader A. R. Orlebar, captain of the British Schneider Cup Team, sped over the 5-kilometer straightaway course twice today at a speed exceeding 6 miles a minute with a maximum on one leg of 368.8 miles an hour. The average for the four laps, two in each direction, which constitutes the new world record, was 355.825. He used the blue and silver supermarine Rolls-Royce S-6, which last Saturday won the second leg on the Schneider Trophy for England.

Record Set, Then Broken.

Preceding him over the course to a world record which stood only until Orlebar took the air, Flight Lieut. S. A. Stainforth, in a golden Gloster Napier 6, averaged 336.3 miles an hour. Both marks were considerably better than the new record made in the Schneider Cup races last week.

However, both fliers were handicapped by bad visibility and British experts believed their machines were capable of even greater speeds, possibly 375 miles an hour. For that reason they were considering another attempt on Thursday if weather conditions are better.

The aviators today could see only 5 miles ahead, which was covered in less than one minute of flying.

New Device on Timing.

The official timing of the flights by a new device gave the speed of Orlebar as 368.8, 345.3, 355.5 and 343.7 miles an hour, making an average of 355.825. The four best successive runs by Lieut. Stainforth were 351.3, 328.3, 336.2 and 329.8, giving an average of 336.3.

Under the racing rules the pilots today were permitted to attain an altitude not exceeding 1,300 feet, from which they might dive to a height below 500 feet at a point 500 yards before crossing the starting line. They then were required to maintain a horizontal flight to the finish line.

This straightaway flying made for much faster speed than that over the Schneider Cup course with its tricky turns, and the pilots had the added impetus of the dive at the start.

Cash He Thought Bogus Destroyed by Farmer

Special to The Washington Post.

Spencer, W. Va., Sept. 10.—G. N. Fossin, a Jackson County farmer, in plowing an uncultivated section of the farm of E. N. Lockhart, brought to the surface a huge roll of currency, which had been buried in a cloth sack.

Keeping his find a secret, but suspecting the money to be spurious, Fossin sent $1 to Washington to learn whether it was good money. Washington was slow in answering and Fossin, believing the currency was counterfeit, destroyed it.

Now he has just received a letter from Washington stating that the bill he sent in was genuine.

Thirteen Die, Four Hurt As Motorbus Overturns

Cordova, Spain, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—Thirteen persons were killed and four seriously injured today when a passenger autobus overturned on a road near Alcolea.

The autobus, which was rapidly descending a hill, struck a rock on the roadside and upset. The engine set fire to the wooden part, burning some of the bodies of those killed. Seven women, three men and three children were killed. One woman was accompanying her daughter to Cordova to buy a dress for the daughter's wedding, scheduled for tomorrow. Both were killed.

CAPPER INDORSES HIGHER POLICE PAY

FIREMEN MAY GET AID

Indorsing recent recommendations by Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, Senator Arthur Capper (Republican), of Kansas, chairman of the Senate District committee, said yesterday that he favors a larger and better-paid police force for Waashington.

"Size of the police force evidently has not grown as rapidly as the city has grown," Capper said.

Question of increasing the size of the force will have to be taken up, not by the Senate and House District committees, but by appropriations subcommittees that handle the District appropriation bill, it was stated.

The matter of better salaries, however, does come within the purview of the District committees, and Chairman Zihlman, of the House committee, is understood to feel just as Capper does about the increase. Both have been provided with figures to show that many other cities pay better than Washington.

If a bill is drafted to increase the salaries of policemen, Capper said yesterday, he will insist on having it provide for increased pay for firemen as well.

In his annual report Maj. Pratt urged that the number of policemen be increased from 1,262 to 1,500 and that the top salary for a private be increased from $2,200 to $2,500.

Thieves Strip Home.

Emory A. Bryant, jr., of 130 Seaton place northwest, returned to his home yesterday after a week's absence to find that thieves had paid him a visit. He reported to police that clothing and household furnishings, including linen stripped from beds, valued at $300, were stolen.

Hot Weather Driving

During the hot spell, frayed nerves and short tempers are liable to lead to an increased number of automobile accidents in the street.

So for the safety of others, as well as ourselves, it behooves us to exercise our utmost limit of caution and patience in driving these days. Remember the "other fellow" is as hot and as tired as you are and maybe has better reason to have less patience than you have.

If one of your worries is debt—consolidate all your debts and pay them off with the proceeds of a Morris Plan loan, which in turn may be liquidated by you through the means of small easy monthly deposits.

TWO POSTMASTERS FACE INDICTMENTS

NEITHER UNDER ARREST

Danville, Va., Sept. 10.—Charged with violating the United States postal laws, two Virginia postmasters were under indictment in the federal court here today. Charles R. Coakley, postmaster of Arrington, said to have been identified with the service for thirty years, is alleged to have sent false vouchers to Washington. He is widely known in Nelson County.

John H. Weatherman, postmaster of Carters Mill, in Patrick County, is alleged to have converted $240 to his own use. Neither has been arrested, and in both instances the cases have been continued pending service of capiases.

The indictments cited merely infraction of various statutes and did not go into precise details. Post-office Inspector F. E. Murray held it was unethical to discus the cases until trial, but he admitted that the charge against Weatherman had been brought after his accounts had been checked up and he had been found short the sum mentioned in the indictment. Neither of the accused was here nor represented by counsel.

Murray said it was doubtful if Coakley knew his records had been investigated or that grand jury action was anticipated. The Coakley case will be removed to Lynchburg, while that of Weatherman will remain on the Danville docket and will not be taken up before March.

REDS' LEADER CHARGES MOB KIDNAPED AND FLOGGED HIM

"The front door was pushed open and 100 men immediately walked into the room. They commenced singing 'Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow,' and immediately afterward started cursing and swearing, denouncing the union and said they would shoot every organizer who came down here.

"I stood up and started to make a statement. They immediately got hold of me and pulled me out on the front porch, where there was a crowd of 500 men. They put the American flag in my hand and said, 'Now make your speech and denounce the union.' I told them I was a British textile worker and had come down to the South to help organize the Southern textile workers to fight against the conditions they were forced to work under. Immediately they said 'Stop, you have spoken too much, we know you are an organize.' They pushed me back into the car.

"The leaders had a consultation among themselves, including Mr. Thompson and Mr. Moorehead, of the Loray mill, and decided 105 cars they had would go to Charlotte, break down the prison doors and bring that 'red-headed ——, Fred Beal, out and lynch him.' Also, 'they would go to the Walton Hotel and get Bill Dunne and see that he meets the same fate as Beal.'

Charges They Cut Wire.

"On the way to Charlotte they stopped at the Catawba River. They pulled me inside the filling station there, put me on the phone and asked me to call Hugo Oehler, the Southern organizer, to meet me at the corner of College and Trade streets in twenty minutes. They held a revolver to each side of me. I said on the phone, 'meet me at the corner of College and Tryon.' There is no such corner. Oehler asked me if I was alone, and I was told to say 'yes.' Oehler said if you are alone why not tell me what you want me for. They immediately cut the wire.

"When we got to Charlotte, cars, including the car I was in, cut down a side street and the other cars went on into the town to smash the I. L. D. office and go to the jail.

"I asked them where they were taking me. They said they were going to Salisbury to fill the instructions of Mr. Thompson. On the ride they asked me how much the I. L. D. paid to knock Mr. Campbell (the insane juror) insane. My answer was not to be so ridiculous.

"I was immediately blackjacked and knocked unconscious for one and a half hours. The next thing I remembered was that the cars stopped on a lonely road and Mr. Lell was being spoken to by an occupant of the other cars.

Threatened With Hanging.

"In a couple of minutes they put him back and commenced riding for another half hour. Then they told me that they intended hanging me to a tree and started playing with a rope and their revolvers.

"Nine miles past Concord they stopped the cars and pulled Mr. Lell and Mr. Saylor out of a third car and commenced talking to them. They brought me out of a car and immediately told me to pull off my trousers. Then they gave Lell and Saylor a belt apiece.

"They forced me to bend over and touch my toes and told them to start whipping me. This of course they refused to do and immediately somebody jumped on me, threw me to the ground, sat on my head and lashed me with branches of trees on my naked body.

"At that time a car was coming and some one shouted 'The law is here.' They let me loose. Not knowing what I was doing at the time, I ran about 50 yards and collapsed. Saylor and Lell picked me up, brought me to, and then we commenced walking toward Concord.

"The occupants of the oncoming car asked us who was screaming and we told them. We walked to Concord. There I could not get medical attention.

Walked to Police Station.

"We walked to the local police station and there I told the chief of police exactly what had happened. They made the following statement:

"'Now we can realize what really happened on June 7, if such tyranny is to be carried on at the present time.'

"We waited until the 5 a. m. train and instead of leaving Gaston County, as they demanded I should, I came back to Charlotte and I intend immediately going back to Gaston County.

"They told me in the car that if they found me or any other union organizer in the county our bodies would be found riddled with bullets."

Mr. Thompson mentioned in the statement by Wells is not known at the Loray mill, it was said tonight. Mr. Moorehead was on duty last night, it was said, and was not out of the mill.

Stuart Man Is Given 10 Years for Murder

Special to The Washington Post.

Stuart, Va., Sept. 10.—Edward Newman, indicted for the murder of John Martin last June, was convicted of second degree murder by a jury in the Patrick Circuit Court late this evening and sentenced to serve ten years in the penitentiary.

The State charged unprovoked murder, but the defendant's story was borne out by two witnesses who supported the self-defense plea. The two men passed angry words in the road, Newman testifying that Martin alighted from his car with a revolver, telling him "It's got five in it and I'm man enough to use it." Newman said he drew his revolver and shot five times. The jury was out for three hours.

GASTONIANS KIDNAP THREE AND FLOG ONE

HOUSE-BURNING BALKED

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 10 (A.P.).—One man kidnaped and flogged, two others kidnaped and a quantity of communistic literature destroyed today, was the net result of a parade of Gastonians starting out as a patriotic demonstration and winding up in raids on a National Textile Workers Union headquarters in Gastonia and Bessemer City and the International Labor headquarters in Charlotte.

The kidnaped men were dumped beside a country road 50 miles from the place where they were seized and only made their way back to Charlotte nine hours later. Their appearance in a police station at Concord, N. C., early today and return to Charlotte this morning was the first definite word that any person had been attacked by the crowd.

No Record of Casualties.

Today there was no official record in any of the places visited by the mob that there had been any disorders. Police blotters in Charlotte, Gastonia and Bessemer City failed to show any record of there having been any trouble. The only information came from eyewitnesses, who saw the mob, although in Charlotte police and deputy sheriffs doubled the guard about the county jail, where thirteen men accused of the murder of O. F. Aderholt, chief of police of Gastonia, are held.

After J. G. Campbell, a juror, had suddenly become insane, causing a halt in the trial of sixteen Gastonia textile strikers and a strike leader on charges of murder, it was reported in Gastonia that a communistic meeting would be held on a vacant lot in South Gastonia. As a counter movement, a parade was formed with the avowed intention of breaking up the meeting, at which Sophie Melvin, Amy Schechter and Vera Buch, New York communists, and defendants in the murder case, were reported intending to speak.

Meeting Called Off.

The meeting failed to materialize. Then the parade turned into a mob and started for the Old Boyce Home in Gastonia, where the communists and union have their headquarters. Arriving there, members of the mob entered the house and destroyed a quantity of literature. Some of the men, none of whom were recognized, were reported to have wanted to burn the house but saner men prevented this. They then went to Bessemer City and ransacked union headquarters there, tearing up literature.

Start for Charlotte.

From Bessemer City the procession started for Charlotte, some of the men asserting they intended to "get" Tom P. Jimison, chief attorney for the men and women accused of the Aderholt murder. They came to Charlotte and staged a demonstration in the court arcade in which Jimison's office and that of the International Labor Defense are located. It is reported but not verified that a search of hotels in which communists and officials of various organizations affiliated with the international labor defense have been staying, was made.

Three Men Kidnaped.

While part of the crowd was raiding the various communist and union headquarters another section said to number fifteen men kidnaped Ben Wells, union organizer, and C. M. Lell and C. D. Salyers, union members at Gastonia. The trio was taken to a point 5 miles north of Concord on a lonely road and there Wells was flogged.

The kidnaping party carried a gasoline torch which was set up when the flogging started. But while they were beating Wells, R. B. McDonald, a farmer, and a companion who were 'possum hunting came up. Their appearance frightened the party and they fled in three automobiles.

McDonald today, telling the story, said that he and another man were hunting along Buffalo Creek near Flowe's Store road when they heard three automobiles. The cars stopped and a moment later he heard blows and cries.

"Somebody's being lashed, let's walk to the road," McDonald said he told his companion. Then his friend called their dogs and immediately the whipping ceased and the cars drove away.

Court of Appeals Opens in Virginia

Three Attorneys Qualify to Practice Before High Tribunal.

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., Sept. 10.—With Judge Jesse F. West absent because of illness, Virginia's Supreme Court of Appeals opened its regular September term here this morning. In attendance are Justices Prentis, president; Campbell, Chicester and Holt.

Three Virginians today qualified to practice before the State's highest tribunal. They are L. Moore Howe, East Radford; J. P. Sadler, jr., Bon Air, and J. Lynn Lucas, Luray.

The docket for the first session included six Commonwealth causes: Sifford vs. Commonwealth, argued and submitted; Thomas Nelson vs. Commonwealth, submitted on briefs; Dinges vs. Commonwealth, the attorney general confessed error and the case goes back to lower court for another trial.

Kilber Nelson vs. Commonwealth, argued and submitted; Hodge vs. City of Winchester, submitted on briefs; Hardyman vs. Commonwealth, transferred to Richmond.

Litigation styled Railway Express Agency, Inc., against the Commonwealth, being an appeal from a decision of the State Corporation Commission, was partly argued and will be completed Wednesday morning.

TRIO HELD, ANOTHER SOUGHT IN ROBBERY

AUTO PARTS ARE STOLEN

Charged with having stolen a quantity of automobile accessories from the Virginia Auto Parts Co. on the Mount Vernon road, Saturday night, three men are being held in the Arlington County Jail, while police last night were searching for Bushrod Garrison, night watchman at the plant, whom the trio is alleged to have beaten up.

Arlington County officers, however, were inclined to scout the story of the attack on the night watchman.

The men held are Nathan Armel, of Arlington County; Odie Pontheiux and Winton Baker, both of the 200 block of E street northwest. They will be arraigned this morning before Judge H. L. Thomas on charges of grand larceny.

According to the story of the robbery told to H. L. Hemminger, owner of the auto company, who lives in the 1200 block of Twenty-first street northwest, Garrison was accosted by the men about 10:30 Saturday night.

After a scuffle, in which he was beaten and his clothing torn from him, he said, he remembered nothing until he regained consciousness tied down on a railroad track.

His hands and feet were bound to the rails, he declared. He attracted the attention of some man whom he was unable to name, and the stranger assisted him in freeing himself. Garrison has only one arm.

Arlington County officials reported last night that a warrant had been sent to police headquarters in Washington for the arrest of Garrison, who lives in the 200 block of Thirteenth street northwest.

Maryland Sportsman Arrested in Rum Raid

Cumberland, Md., Sept. 10.—James F. McGuire, widely known sportsman, former president of the Cumberland baseball team and one of the founders of the Middle Atlantic League, was held under bond by United States Commissioner Thomas J. Anderson following a raid at the Pennsylvania Hotel. John Morgan, an employe, was also held.

Two samples of alleged liquor were taken from the hotel, one bottle said to have been partly filled with whisky and the other a whitish fluid said to be from a lye pot used in cleaning glasses. The Government agents claimed the bottles were found in the lye pot after an attempt to destroy them had been made. The officers did not have a warrant, McGuire states, but broke in a door. A visit to the hotel several days previous proved futile, as the search revealed nothing.

Studebaker PRESIDENT EIGHT

sets New Stock Car Record in 1929 Pikes Peak Climb!

Studebaker's winning President Eight, piloted by Glen Shultz, covered the 12 miles and 2200 feet to the summit of Pikes Peak—in 21 minutes, 43.4 seconds. Average speed was 34.3 miles per hour. 154 breath-taking curves make this course a supreme test of motor car balance and handling ease. That running conditions were not so advantageous this year was emphasized by the running time in the non-stock event, which was approximately 41 seconds slower than last year. Yet, The President's time was the fastest ever made by any stock car over this course!

—Adds famous Penrose Trophy to 11 world and 23 international records

A strictly stock and fully equipped Studebaker President Eight, driven by Glen Shultz, set the fastest stock car time in history to win the most arduous hill climbing contest known to motoring—the Annual Penrose Trophy Race to the summit of Pikes Peak, 14,109 feet above sea level!

Already holding, undisputed, more official stock car records for speed and endurance than all other makes of American cars combined, Studebaker nows adds another triumph—in climbing Pikes Peak faster than any other stock car, regardless of power or price.

The Pikes Peak Climb was sanctioned, timed and checked by the American Automobile Association. A. A. A. officials followed the same procedure in selecting the winning stock model President Eight as they did previously with the strictly stock President Eight which traveled 30,000 miles in 26,326 consecutive minutes. Picked at random from the Studebaker factory, The President was checked and certified as strictly stock before the race, and again after the run.*

The President Eight's record conquest of Pikes Peak is further proof of eight-cylinder performance supremacy—just as eight-cylinder popularity has been proved by Studebaker's world leadership in the sale of eights! Why wait a year to own an eight when you can own the car of tomorrow today!

You can buy a duplicate of the Pikes Peak President from any Studebaker dealer. See it—drive it—own a Studebaker champion eight at a new, low One-Profit price! And remember your car will be worth more a year from now—if it is an eight!

High compression head (6½ to 1) and mountain gear ratio (4.08 to 1) were used—either of which is optional and available to any Studebaker purchaser anywhere.*

"I am so happy .. that the last pimple is gone"

You may be happy, too!

The way to the skin is through the blood. Strong, healthy blood nourishes the body and fights against infection and disease.

EVERY evening thousands enjoy themselves at dinner-parties, dances, theatres, games, clubs. Many thousands more are denied the joy of such merriment and happiness.

Maybe this denial is due to a skin trouble. First impressions cannot be good without a clear skin—first impressions are quickly made and are not soon forgotten. Old friends may excuse pimples and secretly sympathize but new acquaintances may not be so charitable. Skin blemishes are not inviting. Neither can they be covered up. They embarrass. Hold people back. Steal away joy and happiness.

S.S.S. is made from fresh vegetable drugs and has a successful record of over 100 years back of it.

A lovely—clear skin—is within the reach of all. To those who have lost it, hope is offered. You, too, may have a beautiful skin, rose-petal in texture, pretty as a picture and without a single pimple.

Many thousands have regained their strength and charm by taking S.S.S. It is Nature's own blood tonic for raising the body's power of resistance to disease, improving the appetite, building firm flesh, and clearing the skin.

Take S.S.S. at mealtime. You will be delighted with its blood building and tonic effect.

All Drug Stores sell S.S.S. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

AN OUTRAGE ON FAIR PLAY.

The Senate, in adopting the Simmons resolution, perpetrates a gross injustice upon American industry by providing for publicity of income tax returns of some corporations, while other corporations, including foreign competitive corporations, are spared the embarrassment and damage consequent upon the disclosure of their business operations.

Ostensibly the information called for is for the use of the Senate finance committee, but it is evident that this information will become public, as it will be the subject of debate on the floor. The way is paved for exposure of any corporation's business, under the pretext that the information is pertinent to tariff legislation.

The reports made by individuals and corporations to the Internal Revenue Bureau are under the seal of confidence. Congress voted down several proposals to make income tax returns public. The public strongly approved of the rule of secrecy, because it was recognized that great damage might be inflicted upon an individual or corporation by the revelation of financial relations or other business secrets. The rule of fair competition necessarily requires the Government to keep faith with its taxpayers by treating them all alike, and by keeping confidential their disclosure of the details of their business.

So jealously do some foreign governments guard the legitimate business secrets of its citizens that American Treasury agents are denied access to information tending to show costs of production. This has led to a proposal that the tariff shall be amended, both by provisions equalizing conditions of competition and by basing duties upon the selling price of foreign articles in the American market. This would help to protect American producers against unfair or excessive foreign competition. But now the Senate proposes to divulge the business affairs of American concerns, so that foreign competitors will be enabled to obtain unfair advantages. In some cases, under the Simmons resolution, some American concerns might be shielded from this exposure, while their domestic competitors would be subjected to it. Thus, one section or one corporation may be given an unfair advantage over another.

The spirit of fair play is outraged when discrimination is practiced by Congress against any group or section of the people, and when foreign traders are placed in possession of information concerning American competitors who submitted this information in confidence to their Government.

GEN. JOHN SULLIVAN.

Within the next ten days the final pageants in commemoration of the Sullivan expedition against the Iroquois Indians will be held in New York State. In the early months of 1779 Gen. Washington planned a movement in northern Pennsylvania and southern and western New York for three purposes—to curb the marauding Indians and Tories, to destroy the food supply ready to be sent to the British troops along the Niagara frontier and to extend the territorial claim of the United States westward.

The command of the expedition was vested by Gen. Washington in Gen. John Sullivan, who was so completely successful that the Indians were annihilated and the stores destroyed. Throughout the summer there have been staged in various towns along the route of the expedition many historic pageants, and these affairs will reach a climax in the hamlet of Cuylerville, in the valley of the Genesee, on Saturday of this week. This tiny village was selected for the biggest celebration because it was here that Boyd and Parker, two officers of Sullivan's army, were captured by the Indians and frightfully tortured before being slain.

Near this spot a ten-ton boulder, with two bronze tablets, will be unveiled as a permanent memorial to John Sullivan. It is interesting to note in this connection that when Sullivan died, in 1795, some of his creditors in New Hampshire attempted to seize his remains and to prevent interment until his debts were paid. Now New York is honoring his memory, while the United States has issued a postage stamp in commemoration of his services.

LET GALLINGER BE PROBED.

As was expected, the Board of Public Welfare report on conditions at Gallinger Hospital finds "nothing seriously wrong," and generally exonerates the hospital staff of charges of inefficiency and malpractice. In certain minor details the board finds that there is room for improvement. The report glosses over many of the charges brought out during the formal hearings, and concludes with an invitation to Government medical officials to designate an independent board for an impartial investigation of the institution.

It was a mistake for the Board of Public Welfare to conduct the investigation of Gallinger Hospital. The institution is directly under the administration of the board and its investigation was, in effect, an investigation of itself. No one doubts the integrity of the board or questions the character of its membership. If conditions are, or were, bad at Gallinger, it goes without saying that it was not with the knowledge or connivance of the board. But the board certainly was not the proper body to conduct the investigation, and the public followed the dictates of experience in presupposing that the findings would be favorable to Gallinger officials.

The invitation to Government medical authorities to make a really searching and unbiased investigation of Gallinger Hospital is the only valuable portion of the Welfare Board's report. It is to be hoped that the invitation will be accepted and a thorough and impartial inquiry will be made. The public will be satisfied with nothing less.

HISTORIC SPOTS OF VIRGINIA.

Publication of a bulletin entitled "Key to Inscriptions" by the Virginia Commission on Conservation and Development calls attention to an interesting project which has been under way for more than two years. Virginia has made an investment in State history that will be valuable to native citizens as well as to visitors. No State in the Union has a longer or more interesting history than the Old Dominion. It is appropriate that Virginia should be the first State to mark its historical spots.

Under direction of H. J. Eckenrode, historian of the commission, neat metal placards have been placed at every site of historical interest on the highways. The inscriptions are so arranged as to tell consecutive stories of numerous battles, pioneer settlements and events of colonial days.

Reasons given for the placing of historical markers are education of children, cultivation of State pride, and the attraction of tourists. Another might be added. In spite of all the lore and tradition handed down from generation to generation, historical places have a way of migrating, or disappearing from memory, when they are not definitely marked.

The historical markers will add much to the attractiveness of Virginia as a tourist State. Tourists can not hunt up old-timers and have history explained to them while passing through the State. Unless such spots are marked on the highways they are usually given little attention.

NICARAGUA CANAL SURVEY.

Early in October a battalion of engineers will proceed to Nicaragua to resume the survey of a route for a canal from the Atlantic to the Pacific through Lake Nicaragua. This step is taken under the treaty with Nicaragua, and by authority of a joint resolution approved last March. The party which is to make its headquarters at Granada, on the west shore of the lake, will use as far as possible the data gathered by the Maritime Canal Company of Nicaragua, which was chartered by Congress in February, 1889, and began work, under a concession from the republics of Nicaragua and Costa Rica, in June of that year. This corporation, which was formed largely through the efforts of the late Warner Miller, former senator from New York, operated for some three years and expended upward of $4,500,000. But in 1893, partly because of the financial panic of that year, the corporation failed, after having constructed about 3,000 feet of the ditch toward the lake from the Atlantic end at Greytown.

Vigorous efforts were made to induce Congress to enact legislation whereby the Government would take over the work of construction, but it was finally decided to accept the offer of the French company, then in control of the Panama route, with the result that that project was taken over and completed.

That the survey about to be undertaken by the Army engineers is a very difficult one is indicated by a statement issued by the War Department, in which it is said:

> It is this climate, the shallow waters of the San Juan, which permit of the use of vessels of only two feet draught, a tropical wilderness through which trails must be hacked with machetes, swarms of stinging and often poisonous insects, and a thousand and one other handicaps that must be overcome by the Nicaragua engineer battalion.
> Lack of desirable equipment will doubtless retard the work somewhat, for the appropriation is too small to permit of the purchase of some costly requirements. It is estimated that at least two years will be required for the completion of the survey, perhaps more.

FARMS THAT DON'T PAY.

The agricultural industry in the United States is "land poor." In many European countries every available foot of land is cultivated, but here there are millions of acres which can not be farmed except at an economic loss. Not much more than one-fourth of the area of the United States is classified as improved farm land. Of the 505,000,000 acres capable of producing crops only 350,000,000 acres are actually cultivated. Much of this cultivated land is not well suited to agriculture and should be utilized otherwise.

Problems involved in the utilization of land were given attention in an address by Secretary of Agriculture Hyde before a group of New York farmers this week. He considers it one of the most important agricultural issues facing the Nation. "Marginal and submarginal lands, whose yield is so low and cost of production so high as to make profitable farming impossible, ought not to be farmed," he said. "They produce in the aggregate millions of bushels of farm products, but at a prohibitive cost. They take a heavy toll of national resources through erosion. They afford a standard of education far below the average. They depress the price of products from farms which might otherwise be prosperous. Life is maintained only at the cost of a standard of living so low as to be completely out of line with normal American standards."

The question is of national concern, but it is of still more vital interest to the thousands of farm families who are struggling to make a living on submarginal land. Government land of this kind can be forested to check erosion, increase water supplies and provide flood control. Much of this land would produce commercial crops of timber. But the farmer on submarginal land is not in a position to wait 50 years for a forest crop, so he continues to eke out a bare existence and make his small contribution to the surplus of foodstuffs.

Secretary Hyde suggests that the purchase and forestation of many privately owned submarginal lands upon watersheds might be a "sound and practicable measure of national economy." It is not probable, however, that the Government will in this manner materially reduce the acreage of unprofitable land under cultivation. Much might be accomplished by soil surveys and education of prospective settlers as to what yield may be expected from new lands. But this would not solve the problem of the family already established on an unprofitable farm. Economic utilization of land remains one of the gigantic problems of the Nation.

Science seeks a metal more useful than gold. Heads of families may be pardoned for doubting that such a metal can be found.

The woman who hung crepe on the door of her speak-easy certainly couldn't be prosecuted for obtaining money under false pretenses.

Lawrence Maynard went to jail for writing bad checks, and now he is seeking parole as an author. Judging from the quality of current fiction many a writer has started that way.

Max Denny, learning to drive an automobile, knocked down a 17,000-volt power line from a pole, which cut off four towns from power, blew out all the fuses of a telephone system and wrecked his automobile. Sounds like Max is a sissy.

COL. ROOSEVELT'S TRIP

New York Times.

Col. Theodore Roosevelt returned to New York yesterday from a ten months' hunting expedition in China for the Field Museum in Chicago. He told of strange adventures encountered from tropical jungles in Indo-China to barren, snow-swept mountains in Central Asia.

Col. Roosevelt enthusiastically described the giant panda he had bagged with the aid of his brother, Kermit, as "the rarest by all odds" of the specimens brought back to the Chicago museum. The trip, as a whole, he said, was "extremely successful from a scientific standpoint."

"The vast majority of the country in China through which we traveled," he said, "was troubled by bandits. They were not simply bandits in our sense of the word but more closely resembled the mercenary free companies which ravaged France in the fourteenth century.

"For example, there were groups of from 700 to 1,000 of them. We were very fortunate and had no actual fight with them, although we had two or three close contacts. In our party were three white men and three Kashmiri Indians, bearded men who were armed with rifles. The caravan most of the time had 25 mules.

"Once, bandits looted a caravan a mile ahead of us and once they sacked and burned a town ahead of us. In another part of the trip they captured our advanced guard of three men the Chinese government had detailed to us. We found their trail leading away in the snow."

Col. Roosevelt said the trip divided itself into two phases—China and Indo-China. For the trip through the China section the party left Burma in December and reached Yunnan-Fu in May. Col. Roosevelt was particularly impressed with a part of the country where there was no wheeled transportation. In this section the party came upon cities of 15,000 population which had been in existence 1,500 years and where all commerce was carried on by coolies over trails too difficult for animals to pass.

The hardships of the trip in China were due to physical work necessary on the expedition, while the Indo-China phase was hardest from the standpoint of health, Col. Roosevelt said.

The giant panda brought back by the expedition for the Field Museum, Col. Roosevelt said, is the only complete skeleton of such an animal in any museum. It is about the proportions of a medium-sized bear, has a white head with "black spectacles" around its eyes, black shoulders and white body, he said, and is so rare that its family in the animal kingdom has not yet been determined.

Among the other rare animals the expedition is shipping back are several blue sheep, nine golden monkeys, the first mountable specimen of this breed ever received in the United States; the serow, a mountain goat; the samba, a barking deer; gaurs, the largest of China's wild family; water buffalo, bantengs, or wild red ox; elephant, and a number of small animals.

The expedition party, Col. Roosevelt said, traveled 1,900 miles on foot and horseback between December and May.

Most men who have proved successes as executives are not the hardest working men or the most given to detail, but rather the men with whom and for whom an organization will work comfortably.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

ENOUGH.

'Tis enough for the day
If you're merry and gay,
Don't bother your head about money.
Be glad you've the chance
And the strength for the dance,
Be glad that your holiday's sunny.

If it's health you possess,
You've the seed of success.
If you're free from a trouble or sorrow,
Just jump in and play
And put fretting away,
And let whimpering wait till tomorrow.

Though your garden is small
If it's blooming at all,
And you've conquered the insects attacking;
If your appetite's good,
And your fireplace has wood,
Don't think about things that are lacking.

For you can't have it all
On this old earthly ball.
Time forever is taking and giving.
If you've health and a friend
And a free day to spend
Rejoice and be glad you are living.

Man Is Master Because the Elephant Is Foolish Enough to Obey.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE advocate of preparedness has history and logic to support his arguments.

War machinery is intricate and must be operated by experts. Months and years are required to build the machines and train the men to operate them. When war threatens there is no time to prepare for it.

The unprepared nation, however great its population, courage and resources, invites exploitation by its predatory neighbors. Witness China.

In the present state of civilization a nation that has anything worth stealing must be really at all times to defend itself if it would keep its independence and its property. A rich nation unarmed would be like an unprotected bank messenger carrying a pay roll through a neighborhood ruled by gangsters.

And though a nation may desire peace and abominate war there are times when the perversity of evil men makes war necessary, since force alone can move men who will not listen to reason and have no respect for justice.

So much may be granted. In the present state of civilization the most ardent advocates of peace may sometimes find war necessary.

But necessity does not make right. Napoleon once found it necessary to kill thousands of his wounded. Police find it necessary to shoot rioting strikers. A thing evil in itself is not right because man's folly places him in a position where he must choose between it and a greater evil.

War is organized murder, and men must learn to be horrified by it as they are horrified by other murders.

Mass opinion ended dueling and slavery. Mass opinion deprived rulers of the ability to declare and prosecute a war to avenge a personal insult. Mass opinion can end warfare.

Treaties are of little worth. Statesmen can accomplish little. But the whole sad business of butchery will end as definitely as the physical torture of heretics is ended when mass opinion condemns it.

Men in the ranks do not fight willingly. They resent being herded into battle and they kill reluctantly to avoid being killed. At any moment during the war they would drop their arms and fraternize with the enemy if they were free to choose.

Men filled with terror butcher inoffensive strangers to further the plans of quarreling politicians. That is war stripped of its fine slogans.

Some day the common man in all lands will refuse to fire on his brother. And then war will end, for the Roman holiday is finished if the animals refuse to fight.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE GOLFER-DENTIST AND THE PATIENT.

(If the dentists of the country are influenced by the prowess of Dr. Oscar F. Willing, the Oregon star, who barely missed winning the national amateur title.)

Dentist—Who goes off next?

Schneezle (a patient)—I do.

Other patients (sharply)—He does not.

Dentist (to Schneezle)—Did you put up a ball?

Schneezle (pointing to it, first in the chute)—I did.

Dentist—I guess it's your turn then.

Patient—Yes, doctor.

Patient—No, sir.

Dentist (peering into mouth)—My, but that's a narrow hole! I'm going to have troble playing it, I'm afraid. Where's the tooth?

Dentist—I don't quite see it.

Patient—See that gold filling?

Dentist—Yes.

Patient—See that one with the cap on it?

Dentist—Yes.

Patient—Well shoot right between 'em.

* * * *

Dentist (probing)—Does this hurt you?

Patient—A little.

Dentist—That's strange. I must be using the wrong probe.

Patient—Which one are you trying?

Dentist—I'm using my No. 3. I guess I'll change to a No. 4. I'd rather be short of the nerve than over.

Patient—I'd rather have you.

Dentist (probing with the new instrument)—How's that?

Patient—You're on the wrong tooth.

Dentist—It's that old slice. I must be gripping. Now, how's this?

Patient—No, you're on the wrong side of the jaw entirely this time, doctor. I never saw you so far off your game.

Dentist (sadly)—I must be forgetting to pivot.

Patient (nervously)—Maybe it's your stance, doc. Try standing around a little * * * and keep your eye on the tooth.

Dentist—They've changed your jaw since I played it last, haven't they?

Patient—There's a new bridge to the right, but that's all.

Dentist—I knew there was something. (He probes some more.) Ah, I'm on it now. It's quite a cavity. Do you care if I go through?

Patient (very white)—Ouch!

Dentist—What's the matter?

Patient—Dammit, you hit the raw nerve! What the devil are you doing?

Dentist (wearily) — I dunno. I must've lifted my head!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Duty of State Department to Obtain Genuine Parity Treaty—People Not Sidetracked by the Shearer Case.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The eagerness with which several strip-to-gunboat newspapers enlarge upon the "propaganda" charges, in the hope of "snowing under" legitimate public criticism of unwise naval policies, can be interpreted as nothing else than a confession that these policies will not withstand close scrutiny.

A public rapidly becoming cynical scarcely can be expected to permit its attention to the main issues to be distracted by a manufactured sideshow, particularly when people recall official apathy when demands were heard on every side for investigation of the personnel and sources of funds of "peace" foundations, which have persistently and boldly distributed so-called peace propaganda to obstruct American naval construction in the face of warlike preparations abroad.

If Ramsay MacDonald's latest proposal to limit the 10,000-ton cruisers of the American Navy permanently to eighteen has been rejected, we are to be congratulated, considering that its acceptance would compel the scrapping of five of the fifteen cruisers authorized by the cruiser law.

The point of the whole business is that Britain is clear-sightedly and deliberately blocking world-wide naval accord unless her price is met in a naval agreement that provides for the permanent aggrandizement of her forces at the expense of other nations, and particularly the United States, since it is significant that no notable opposition to the proposed Japanese increases has developed in England.

That the British government pursues this policy is due primarily to a misunderstanding of American opinion, encouraged by such misrepresentations of American sentiment as those afforded by President Hibben's July 4 speech in London and the tactics followed by the Foreign Policy Association and other mischievous agencies.

Genuine parity as the basis of a fair limitation agreement is the sole remedy for dangerous friction, present and future, and such an agreement, permitting of no equivocation, it is the duty of the State Department to obtain.

Radio User Issues Defy to "Sneaks" Who Threaten Him—Says Neighborhood Broadcasting Violates No Law.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I do not suppose that I am the only owner of a radio who has received complaints and threats from neighbors who object to the musical entertainment of the radio these summer nights. I am not speaking, or writing, for the others, but as for myself I wish to announce that my loud-speaker will continue to function. Radio programs are educational and they add to my enjoyment of life. I intend to keep the windows of my home open. My neighbors are at liberty to benefit in an educational way from the programs which my investment in a radio enables me to disseminate.

I violate no law in raising my windows, and there is no law on the statute books which my radio violates. Congress has deprived many of the people of America of pleasures which we once enjoyed. Congress may some day shut down on the loud-speaker. But until the national legislature takes steps to stop me I shall keep it up in spite of the sneaks who send me anonymous letters. I despise and defy them. No human being can intimidate me into shutting off my radio. J. WOODROW ELIOT, Ph. D.

Found—A Model Street Car Conductor.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Two of your correspondents have recently had something to tell your readers about the courtesy, or lack of that quality, among the employes of the traction companies. I have noticed rather carefully the conduct of motormen and conductors, and I wish to testify to the fact that these men are no better and no worse than employes of other corporations. Considering the varieties of men and women who ride in the cars, I don't think it would be possible to recruit a company of conductors who would be any improvement on those in the employ of the traction companies unless a civil service examination should be opened in Heaven.

Certainly it would be impossible to find a more good-natured, obliging, respectful and courteous employe of any corporation than one who conducts a car running to Chevy Chase Lake. I am certain that at least 99 per cent of those who ride on his car will join me in asserting that Conductor No. 406 is the man who should be made the dean of the College of Courtesy and Good Nature, which one of you correspondents appears to think should be established.

ROB ROY.

Hogging the Landscape.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The article from the Columbus Dispatch, reprinted in The Post this morning, in which attention is directed to the unsightly billboards desecrating the scenery along the route between Washington and the Valley of the Shenandoah, suggests an opportunity for some of the big national advertisers to profit through the desecrations of their competitors. Many motorists have quietly decided to boycott every concern which shows its disregard for the public right to enjoyment of the beauties of the landscape by erecting advertising signs. Personally, I will not patronize these advertisers who rob me of the pleasure of motoring.

It occurs to me that manufacturers and dealers might devote a portion of their advertising budget to displays in the newspapers announcing that under no circumstances are they guilty of hogging the landscape. Such a policy would rebound to the material advantage of the advertiser, and eventually the "other fellow" will learn he is more than wasting his cash in paying for the billboard propaganda that every motorist detests. Much of U. S. Seen by Envoy Of Australia

Mr. Brookes Refuses to Limit His Attentions to New York.

By JEAN ELIOT.

THE new Commissioner General of Australia, Mr. Herbert Brookes, considers himself his country's envoy, not to New York, but to the United States. Consequently, although his headquarters will be in the metropolis, he expects to have a roving commission, studying the people of this country and giving them in return some measure of knowledge of the great country which he represents.

Although Mr. and Mrs. Brookes have been in the United States but a few weeks, they have already made a pretty comprehensive sightseeing tour and they haven't yet touched at New York. Since landing in San Francisco, they have visited in Los Angeles, Santa Barbara, and several other southern California cities, as well as in San Francisco; have toured much of the Northwest, to be enchanted by the scenic beauty of the region, and have visited in such cities as Minneapolis and Chicago on their way to Washington, where they have been for the last week.

For a family of five, this living in trunks for so many weeks has been a bit trying. But they expect to go to New York on Sunday and to find quarters there, which will be their home for the next two years and from which they will make frequent journeys into various parts of the country.

At the weekly luncheon of the Women's National Press Club yesterday, Mrs. Brookes spoke to a keenly interested group about the great Commonwealth of Australia, larger than the United States, with Alaska excluded, and reminded her audience that its constitution was founded on ours, with some changes which its fathers considered improvements.

She also presented an interesting picture of Australia's new capital, Canberra, which, like Washington, is a strictly federal city, its inhabitants being without the vote and supposedly out of politics. The choice of its site came about much as did the choice of the site of the Capital of the United States, a neutral zone being selected to satisfy cities which were contending for the honor. And its early history seems to be paralleling the early history of Washington.

Just now, as Washington was in its early days, Canberra is a city of magnificent — and inconvenient — distances and nobody seems to want to live there except the officials who must. However, it has been beautifully designed as a garden city—by an American architect, if you please—its public buildings are magnificent, and it is prophesied that it will be one of the handsomest capitals of the world when it grows up to itself.

There has not been a woman in the parliament of the Australian Federation, according to Mrs. Brookes, although several have served in one or another of the state parliaments. She says that the women of Australia are influential in party politics, although here, as elsewhere, there is a minority which didn't want the vote and doesn't care to use it. But she states that there are not many who have cared to stand for parliament, feeling, perhaps, that it is better to make haste slowly since a woman in public office, being a pioneer, must achieve infinitely more than a man in the same position in order to get by. Apparently human nature in the antipodes is much like human nature here.

Yesterday while Mrs. Brookes was lunching with the newspaper women's group, Commissioner General Brookes was being entertained at luncheon by Mr. Michael Wright, of the British Embassy, and Mr. Thomas Stone, of the Canadian Legation. Their party was given at their pleasant house in K street, the other guests being Mr. A. J. Pack, Commercial Secretary of the British Embassy, Mr. Julius Klein, of the Department of Commerce, and Mr. Rendle Stone.

Minister of Greece To Sail for Europe:

The Minister of Greece, Mr. Charalambos Simopoulos, left for New York yesterday, whence, accompanied by Mme. Simopoulos, who is coming from Newport, he will sail Friday on the Majestic for a three months' vacation in Europe. They will first spend some time in England and will then go to Greece.

The Secretary of War, Mr. James W. Good, was among those having guests for luncheon on the Willard roof yesterday. Mr. Alexander Legge, chairman of the Federal Farm Board, also had a small group lunching with him.

Senator and Mrs. Walter E. Edge, of New Jersey, have taken an apartment at the Mayflower for the autumn season. Mrs. Edge has recently returned to Ventnor, N. J., from Small Point, Me., where she spent the summer, and will join her husband here a little later in the month.

Maj. Louis Beldy, newly arrived military attache of the Hungarian Legation, passed yesterday in Washington, having come for the purpose of paying his respects to the Chief of Staff of the Army, Gen. Charles P. Summerall. Maj. Beldy is the first military attache from Hungary to be designated to the United States since the World War and is accredited to this country for a period of four months. He previously held the same post at the Hungarian Legation in London.

Maj. Beldy was accompanied to the city by Mr. John Pelenyi, Charge d'Affaires of Hungary during the absence of the Minister, Count Laszlo Szechenyi, and returned with him last night to Newport, where the legation has its headquarters during the summer months.

Maj. and Mrs. John N. Greely have returned from Europe to their home at 2038 Allen place. Miss Diana Rowland, who is their house guest, will go to New York on Friday to join her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Rowland, and on Saturday the Rowlands will sail on the S. S. Deutschland for Europe. Miss Rowland will attend Le Manoir, a school in Lausanne, Switzerland.

Senator Royal S. Copeland landed in New York yesterday from the S. S. Bremen. With Mrs. Copeland, who is remaining longer abroad, he has been traveling in Europe for several weeks.

Capital Girl Gathers Laurels Betimes

MISS FRANCES FULLER,
pretty niece of former Representative James F. Byrnes, who has the role of Hildy Johnson's worried sweetheart in "The Front Page" to be presented at the National Theater next week. She was reared in Washington.

Capital Girl To Appear in Coming Play

Miss Frances Fuller Cast as Sweetheart of News Reporter.

Miss Frances Fuller, the pretty maid who has the role of Hildy Johnson's harassed sweetheart in "The Front Page," to be presented at the National Theater next week, is a niece of former Representative James F. Byrnes, of South Carolina, and a cousin of Mr. Frank Hogan, that shining star of Washington's legal firmament, who came into fame and fortune through his connection with the Doheny defense. She grew up in Washington and made here, in amateur productions, her first appearances on the stage, which she was later to take up as a profession.

There's an interesting tale about how Miss Fuller chanced to secure her present role. Convent bred, she early made up her mind to go on the stage and studied at the Sargeant Dramatic School in New York. Shortly after she was graduated, and when her professional experience was limited to a few weeks in stock company, she chanced to be bridesmaid at a wedding in Washington at which Miss Helen Hayes was also an attendant. This brilliant young Washingtonian had already achieved startling success in her profession. A warm friendship resulted and largely on Miss Hayes' recommendation this unfledged actress was given a tryout in a role in which she immediately made good. Miss Fuller was born in Charleston, S. C., but came to Washington at the age of 4.

Mrs. Louise Dodson, assistant to Mrs. Alvin T. Hert, vice chairman of the Republican national committee, entertained at dinner last evening at the Mayflower, having as her guests a group of Republican national committeewomen. Those present included Mrs. O. P. Clark, of Los Angeles, Calif.; Mrs. Charles Warner, of Wilmington, Del.; Mrs. Clara C. Grace, of St. Petersburg, Fla.; Miss Dorothy Cunningham, of Indianapolis, Ind.; Miss Martha McClure, of Mount Pleasant, Iowa; Miss Bina M. West, of Port Huron, Mich.; Mrs. Manley L. Fosseen, of Minneapolis, Minn.; Mrs. Howard Parker, of Berlin, N. H.; Mrs. W. Reginald Baker, of Madison, N. J.; Mrs. Elizabeth L. Clark, of Steubenville, Ohio; Mrs. Paul Rewman, of Deadwood, S. Dak.; Mrs. Beulah Hughes, of Murfreesboro, Tenn.; Mrs. J. C. Griswold, of San Antonio, Tex.; Mrs. Margaret Tucker, of Brattleboro, Vt.; Mrs. Ellis A. Yost, of Huntington, W. Va.; Mrs. Harry Thomas, of Sheboygan, Wis., and Mrs. Virginia White Speel, of the District of Columbia.

Lieut. Col and Mrs. Edward M. Shinkle announce the engagement of their daughter Margery to Dr. Frederic W. Farrar, lieutenant, junior grade, United States Navy.

Miss Sheppard Leaves To Resume Studies.

Miss Janet Sheppard, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Morris Sheppard, has gone to Austin, Tex., to attend the State university. Miss Susan Sheppard is also in Texas, visiting her grandmother at Texarkana.

Mrs. Russell B. Harrison, daughter-in-law of the late President Benjamin Harrison, has taken an apartment in the Broadmoor for the winter and will return from a motor trip through the Bekshires in a fortnight. Mrs. Harrison and her granddaughter, Miss Sallie Ann Williams, motored to Washington ten days ago from the former's home in Omaha, Nebr., stopping en route in Indianapolis for a few days' stay with Mrs. Harrison's son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Harrison 3d.

Mrs. Harrison and Miss Williams spent yesterday in Lancaster, Pa., and will join the latter's mother, Mrs. Marthena Harrison Williams, at Westerly, R. I., the end of the week.

Dr. Lorenzo Chabau and his daughter, Senora Isabel Chabau de Torralbas, of Havana, who have been touring the United States for the last four months, are now visiting in Washington at the Mayflower. Senora Chabau de Torralbas is a sister-in-law of the late Dr. Joaquin Torralbas, formerly First Secretary of the Cuban Embassy.

Ladies' Group Is Honored at White House

President, Mrs. Hoover Entertain Informally at Dinner.

The President and Mrs. Hoover entertained informally at dinner last evening.

A group of ladies who are now White House guests includes Mrs. Nicholas F. Brady, chairman of the national board of directors of the Girl Scouts; Mrs. Edgar Rickard, treasurer of the organization, and Mrs. James Y. Rippin, director of the board of the Manhattan Girl Scouts. Mrs. Hoover is vice president of the Girl Scouts of America and continues the active work of the organization in which she has been interested for many years.

The Vice President, Mr. Charles Curtis, has with him his daughter, Mrs. Charles P. George, who arrived last evening from Sisasconset, Mass., accompanied by her two children.

INVENTOR DENIES TELEVISION DEBTS

C. F. Jenkins Answers Suit for $612,500 Brought by Broker.

PATENT SALE PRICE GIVEN

Charles Francis Jenkins, inventor of television, told the District Supreme Court yesterday that he and others interested in his television patents and in the Jenkins Laboratories, Inc., received $250,000 in cash and under certain escrow conditions 250,000 shares of no par value stock of the Jenkins Television Corporation, the purchaser of the patents.

The statement was made in his answer to the suit filed July 13 by Arthur D. Lord, New York City broker, who seeks to recover $612,500 brokerage and agent fees for his alleged services in accomplishing the sale of the patents. Lord alleges that he interested a group of prominent New York financiers in the purchase of the patents. This group included James W. Garside, Wiley R. Reynolds, A. J. Drexel Biddle, jr., Charles C. Renshaw and Harris Hammond.

Jenkins admits that Lord introduced him to Garside, and admits that as a result a corporation known as the Jenkins Television Corporation was formed, but denies that he is indebted to Lord in any sum.

The suit filed by Lord is one of two pending against Jenkins as a result of the sale of his patents. The other action was brought by the Radio Service Corporation of New York, which claims ownership of the $400,000 in cash and the $3,000,000 in stock which Jenkins is alleged to have received from the sale of his patents. Jenkins answered that suit some time ago but did not disclose the sum he received for his patents. He is represented by Attorneys Alexander W. Gregg and Ralph B. Fleharty.

Mrs. Lawrence Townsend will arrive Saturday in Newport to visit Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, at Beaulieu. Gen. and Mrs. Vanderbilt returned to Beaulieu yesterday after spending the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Mitchell at Southampton.

Mrs. Townsend passed the early summer in Europe and more recently has been at her place on Scroon Lake, in the Adirondacks.

Miss Maude Montgomery Bride of Lieut. Mead.

The marriage of Miss Maude Montgomery, daughter of Mr. William Montgomery, to Lieut. Reginald Mead, U. S. N., son of Dr. and Mrs. George Whitefield Mead of Darlington, Md., took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the small ballroom of the Willard Hotel, the Rev. Dr. G. W. Mead officiating.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of a small group of relatives and close friends and was followed by a reception at 4:30 o'clock, to which additional guests were invited.

The ballroom was decorated with white chrysanthemums and white dahlias, the marriage taking place before a screen of palms and ferns and tall standards of the flowers.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of heavy cream satin fashioned on medieval lines with a long satin train, and her veil, of tulle, was arranged about her face in the soft folds of a nun's veil. She carried a sheaf of calla lilies.

Mrs. Kennedy Vickers, of Baltimore, was the matron of honor and the bride's only attendant. She wore a gown of brown velvet with a small hat of the same shade and she carried a bouquet of rust colored dahlias.

Lieut. Mead had as best man his brother, Lieut. George W. Mead, jr., who is attached to the U. S. S. Milwaukee, and the ushers were Commander Frederick Ceres, M. C., U. S. N., Lieut. Comdr. Howard Montgomery, U. S. N., of Norfolk; Lieut. J. J. Clark, U. S. N., and Lieut. Apollo Soucek, U. S. N., all of whom were in uniform.

Lieut. Mead and his bride left later in the afternoon for a wedding trip, Mrs. Mead wearing a brown tweed suit with a yellow blouse and a brown hat and accessories. Upon their return they will make their home at 3901 Connecticut avenue. Lieut. Mead is on duty at the Bureau of Aeronautics, at the Navy Department.

A number of entertainments have preceded the wedding, among those taking place in the last few days being a luncheon and bridge given by Mrs. Adolph Gude at the Columbia Country Club, a dinner given by Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. Robert Walker at the Congressional Country Club, and a dinner at the Carlton at which Commander Frederick Ceres was the host.

Day, When Free, To Go to Europe

Sinclair's Employe Files an Application for Passport.

Henry Mason Day, who, with his employer, Harry F. Sinclair, is serving a term at the District Jail for jury shadowing activities during the Sinclair-Fall trial, is going to Europe when he is released from prison.

This was revealed yesterday when it was learned that Day has applied for a passport. Deputy Clerk Charles B. Cofin, of the District Supreme Court, went to the jail Monday and swore to Day's application for a passport.

Day entered the District Jail on June 24 to serve a four-months' sentence. With good time allowances he should be released about October 5. Day and Sinclair, who is serving a six months' sentence, recently applied for commutation of sentence, but so far the Department of Justice has not acted.

Your doctor knows what "Vitami . . . . ." are, but he can not tell you the correct word until it is revealed in The Washington Post. He uses them every day and so does every reader of this newspaper. Five more letters will tell you what they are.

ARMY, NAVY UNION IN SESSION HERE

Address of Welcome First on Convention Program for Today.

The Army and Navy Union of the United States, of which Maj. W. L. Peak is national commander, opened a four-day national convention yesterday in Washington. The convention is the forty-first held by the organization.

The principal business taken up at the opening session yesterday was the appointment of committees and the report of the credential committee. General affairs of the organization were shown to be in an encouraging condition.

At the morning session today, the delegates will hear an address of welcome from Proctor L. Dougherty, president of the District Commissioners. This afternoon, a visit will be made to the Navy Yard, where the process of manufacturing naval armament will be witnessed.

On Thursday, the delegates will be greeted by President Hoover at the White House. A reception and banquet will be held Thursday night at the Raleigh Hotel. The convention will close Friday with an election and installation of new officers and a flag pole and cannon dedication to the Veterans of All Wars of the United States at the Cedar Hill Memorial Park.

INQUIRY INTO LOBBY OF PACIFISTS URGED

CHURCH ACTIVITIES CITED

(Associated Press.)

A letter was made public yesterday from Richard Washburn Child, former Ambassador to Italy, to Senator W. E. Borah, suggesting that the proposed investigation of the activities of William B. Shearer, big navy advocate, should be extended to the disarmament lobbying of church and pacifist organizations.

"The investigation of the Shearer case," he wrote, "ought to be undertaken by the foreign relations committee, of which you are chairman. It should be sweeping, i. e., should include not only the shipbuilding companies and their activities which have shocked the President, but should extend also to lobbies carried on by the employes of church organizations and of fanatic pacifists' machines which do not make plain the sources of their funds, or to prove their freedom from relationship with radical alien internationals, or with foreign inspired propaganda intended to keep the United States in various states of coma in its various relations and defenses.

"As betwen a lobby in favor of shipbuilding companies and one carried on indirectly by some foreign power against the upbuilding of our merchant marine I see no moral difference, and condemn each.

"We were drawn neatly, by propaganda, publicity methods, in the Washington disarmament conference into a position where material parity was sacrificed for the gesture of piety.

"The American people today are utterly hoodwinked by the published discussions about arms reduction and naval parity with Great Britain. * * * Today there is not even an approach to naval parity. Our naval defense, including all its factors, is hopelessly second or third class. In case of emergency it takes not a season, but years, to build this sea power. * * * Sinister influences are bad enough when they are American, but even worse when alien propaganda concealed in pious garb, caresses into a fool's clumber."

Champagne Flows As Plane Is Named

(Associated Press.)

Champagne sloshed down a hull in old-time fashion at the Anacostia Naval Air Station yesterday as Senora de Mora, wife of the charge d'affaires of the Uruguayan Legation, christened The Montevideo, ten-passenger amphibian plane of the New York, Rio, and Buenos Aires line.

Latin-American diplomats, Government officials, and officers of the flying company witnessed the ceremony and heard Dr. J. A. Mora declare, "Much of the future of Pan American friendliness lies in the conquest of the air."

The Montevideo will leave today to operate over the company's route between Buenos Aires and Montevideo.

MAY TESTIFY IN SHEARER CASE

tioon, saying the company had severed connection with Shearer as soon as it had determined that he was a propagandist.

Steel Company Replies.

Grace's communication was in response to a recent statement by Mr. Hoover that although he did not believe directors of ship building corporations had a direct part in Shearer's activities, a statement from them was desired.

Shearer was employed by the Bethlehem Co., Grace wrote, to act as an observer for a fee of $25,000, of which the Bethlehem Co. was to pay one-third. The connection with Shearer, he added, was severed as soon as he and Charles M. Schwab, on behalf of the company, had ascertained that Shearer for years had been "an active propagandist" regarding American naval and military policies.

Grace explained Shearer had been engaged by S. W. Wakeman, in charge of the Bethlehem's Eastern shipbuilding operations, and added Wakeman assured "us that his understanding was that Mr. Shearer was employed only as an observer to furnish information and that his activities as a propagandist were solely on his own initiative and were in no way inspired or supported by the shipbuilding industry."

Berlin Press Discusses Activities of Shearer

Berlin, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—Charges made in America that William B. Shearer was employed by shipbuilding corporations to defeat the Geneva conference on limitations of naval armaments have roused intense interest here. All newspapers use large headlines and devote much space to telling about the case.

A dispatch to the Mittag Zeitung from Geneva said the Shearer affair was beginning to overshadow interest in the business of the League of Nations. The correspondent alleged that Shearer's activities were well known in newspaper circles at Geneva and that if government circles in Washington and London "would listen to newspaper gossip here, they would learn of some astounding facts about the man with the 5-franc pieces."

The correspondent adds that there is a general belief at Geneva that Shearer, in fact, was largely responsible for the 1927 conference fiasco. It was understood that he then represented the Big Navy League

Seharer's Propaganda Floods District Clubs

That William B. Shearer has been active in Washington recently was disclosed yesterday when several patriotic organizations here admitted they had been flooded with mimeographed statements under his name in what appears to be part of a drive for a big navy and against "foreig entanglement." Shearer had also sent them copies of a stereotyped resolution which he urged them to adopt, after filling in the appropriate names of the organizations. Shearer's proposed resolution reads as foloiws:

"At a meeting of (space left for name of organization) the following resolution was adopted:

"Whereas, The Government of the United States proceed to put into effect the cruiser building program, as prescribed by the Seveneleth Congress of the United States; and

"Whereas, The Government of the United States build and maintain a navy equal to any in the world; and

"Whereas, The Government of the United States properly retain in commission an equal fleet to any in the World in ships, tons, guns and man power; therefore be it

"Resolved, That the Congres sof the United States be urged to defeat any and all attempts to force this Nation into the League of Nations, the world court or any foreign entanglements, regardles of any reservations what so ever."

The Gold Star Mothers, who are to meet here September 17, received one of the foregoing resolutions with a letter from Shearer. This and other bodies report that they have been fairly deluged with other material, some of it being copies of radio speeches by Shearer, which, according to the material he sends out, were delivered under the auspices of the National Security League."

One of his letters, dated September 6, charged that "sinister propaganda" is being spread by "internationalists," "hyphenates' and professional pacifists,' and that 'over $10,000.00 is known to be spent in Washington to influence public opinion and government."

Self-Styled Naval Man Was London Card Player

London, Sept. 10 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—William B. Shearer, the big navy propagandist, is described as "a London-born man making his living in London in a number of ways" in an Evening News article published here this afternoon regarding Shearer's prewar career.

"His hobby," the paper said, "was card playing, often for substantial stakes," and then continued: "In 1911 he was running a number of small clubs in the West End. His first important venture was the Lotus Club, near the Garrick Club, which he started with Gustave Seggelke, a former manager of the Savoy Hotel. The Lotus Club was the forerunner of many London night clubs of the same kind and opened November 26, 1913. The objects of the Lotus Club were 'to provide a rendezvous for the best, brightest and fairest in the world of Bohemia, where they can be merry without depressing consciousness that once the witching hour has struck they must go home.'

"In December, 1913, Shearer put on an American revival called 'The Fortune Teller' at the Queens Theater. This only ran for a short time and when it ended Hale Hamilton, the actor, who took the leading part, and Shearer, left together for the United States. This was Shearer's only theatrical venture in London.

Shearer's charge that Lord Riddle, the British publisher, completely dominated publicity at the Washington arms conference of 1923 was denied by Lord Riddle today.

"Mr. Shearer's implication that the naval cuts were due to publicity arrangements in which I took part has no justification," he said. "The proposals were made by Charles Evans Hughes and at once accepted by Arthur Balfour. So far as I am aware publicity had nothing to do with the proposals or their acceptance.

New Opera Plan Cuts Out WRC

National Company Not to Be Heard—33 Famous Works Scheduled—Chicago Troupe May Also Be Affected.

Since there is no second outlet for National Broadcasting Co. programs in Washington, listeners will be divided once more because of the new grand opera schedule. The popular demand made by WRC listeners for "Amos 'n' Andy" was met by the ponsors and Ralph Edmunds, manager of the station. At that time it was pointed out that the popular feature "Sunday Evening at Seth Parker's" would be lost to the local audience because of this shift to the blue network at 10 o'clock each evening. Also there has been complaint because it cuts into the "Slumber Hour" which has a large following.

Now follows the loss of the National Grand Opera Company, a local program since its inception. Another complication may arise with this type of program when the Chicago Civic Opera Company schedule is arranged for this season.

Thirty-three of the world's most famous operas will be presented by the National Grand Opera Company through a coast-to-coast network during the 1929-30 season. An hour and a half will be devoted each week to the operatic presentations according to the announcement made yesterday.

"Cavalleria Rusticana" by Mascagni will open the radio opera season the evening of September 18. The broadcast will begin at 9:30 o'clock and will continue until 11 o'clock. Cesare Sodero will direct and conduct the operas for the entire season. Members of the National Grand Opera Company, many of whom have spent the summer studying under European masters, all are noted radio artists and were heard during past seasons.

The radio voices included in the ensemble are Gitla Erstinn, Mary Merker, Katherine Palmer, Aimee Pushon, Isabella Addis, Jane Williams, Henry Shope, Harold Branch, Maurice Tyler, Taylor Buckley, Darl Bethmann, Leon Salathiel and Emil Cote.

Four operas seldom if ever heard on the air are included in the list of those to be presented. They are Rimsky-Korsakoff's "Snegouritchka," Massenet's "La Mavarraise," Skilton's "Sun Bride" and "Halka," by Moniuska.

"Russian Shadows," written by Cesare Sodero and given its world premiere last spring, will be repeated this season and will be presented in two parts, the nights of February 12 and 19.

"La Traviata" will be the second presentation, September 25. The third will be "Carmen" on October 2.

Leading artists to be heard in the productions include Genia Zielinska, soprano; Paula Hemminghaus, contralto; Muriel Wilson, soprano; Theodore Webb, barytone; Edward Wolter, barytone; Steele Jamison, tenor; Frank Croxton, basso, and others.

The Wednesdays in October will be devoted to "L'Amico Fritz," "Lohengrin," "Rigoletto," and "Shanewis." "Aida," "Pagliacci," "Faust" and "Samson and Delilah" will be presented in the order given during November, with "The Light from St. Agnes," "Martha" and "Boris Godounov" arranged for the first three Wednesdays in December. Humperdinck's "Hansel and Gretel" will be sung on Christmas night.

The program will continue through the spring, with the last opera scheduled for Wednesday evening, May 28, 1930.

Several National Broadcasting Co. officials, including L. A. Ashby, general counsel, of New York; Frank Russell, vice president of the National Broadcasting Co., and F. P. Guthrie, district manager in charge of WRC, appeared at the Radio Commission hearing yesterday on the application of KMBC, Kansas City, Mo., prepared to enter protest against any increase in power of the Midland Broadcasting Co. station.

The protest was withdrawn, however, when the NBC officials learned that KMBC had dropped its request for a power increase and was concentrating on its application for full time on 950 kilocycles, WRC's wave. The Kansas City station now has 250 watts in the daytime and 1,000 watts at night and shares time with WHB, also of Kansas City.

TODAY'S WOMEN

By EARL MINDERMAN

SEPTEMBER 11.

SARAH BACHE, the only daughter of Benjamin Franklin, was born this day, 1744. During the Revolutionary War, Mrs. Bache organized and became chief of a band of patriotic women who made clothing for the soldiers in Washington's army.

Beatrice Forbes-Robertson, the famous English actress, was born this day, 1883. American theater-goers saw her in 1906, when she toured this country with Ellen Terry. Besides making several tours of this country she lectured here on the drama.

Joanna Baillie, Scottish author, was born this day, 1762. She was the author of several plays which displayed much genius but were not adapted to the stage. She was an intimate friend of Sir Walter Scott.

Mary Watson Whitney, for years professor of astronomy and director of the observatory at Vassar College, was born this day, 1847.

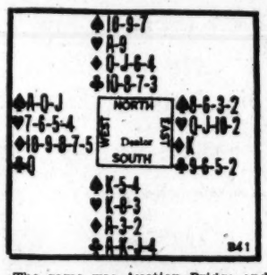
WORK'S BRIDGE

Bridge Brevities, a pamphlet by Milton C. Work, the world's preeminent authority on Auction and Contract Bridge, free. This valuable pamphlet, containing concise suggestions for players of both games, will be sent with the compliments of this paper to readers of Mr. Work's articles who request it. Requests must be addressed to Milton C. Work, care of this paper, and must include a stamped (2c stamp) self-addressed return envelope. Read Mr. Work's articles on Auction and Contract. Everyday exclusively in The Post.

PARTNERS WHO HAVE SADDENED MY LIFE.



The game was Auction Bridge and I held North's cards. My partner bid one No Trump and obtained the contract. (If the game had been Contract, my partner would have bid two No Trumps and I would have jumped him to three.)

West led the Seven of Diamonds, dummy played the Jack, East the King, and South won with the Ace. South then led a Heart, putting dummy in with the Ace, and dummy led a Club, South finessing the Jack. West's Queen took the trick and West led a Diamond which was won by dummy. My partner then took in three Club tricks, winning the last in dummy, and then dummy led a Spade, which South tried to win with his King. West who had discarded three Hearts, then took the rest of the tricks; so my partner made only one Heart, two Diamonds and three Clubs, going down one.

Before reading further, look over the hand and see why I was so sad.

THE CORRECT PLAY.

My partner should have known that East held one Diamond higher than the Seven led by West; and that while it probably was the Nine or the Ten, it might be the King. As dummy had four Diamonds, there was nothing to gain by playing an honor on this trick, only three tricks could be won in that suit in any event; and if my partner had made the proper play of a low Diamond on trick one, he would have won East's King with South's Ace and have had my Queen-Jack remaining. He then should have led his Ace of Clubs, postponing the finesse until the second trick so as to avoid what happened—losing to a singleton Queen.

With the hand played properly and West discarding Hearts on the Clubs, my partner could have made four Clubs, three Diamonds, two Hearts and one Spade. The Spade could be made by forcing West to lead that suit.

Composers Of Renown Scheduled

First Program Tonight of "Golden Gems" on WRC—Giskin, Cellist, Broadcast on WMAL. Red Cross Address.

The first program of Golden Gems, including time honored favorites of such well known composers at Mendelssohn, Grieg, Rachmaninoff and Moszkowski, will be broadcast at 6:30 o'clock from WRC.

The lure of Mendelssohn's scherzo from the quartet in E minor will be depicted by a string quartet, Edie Baker, contralto, features the Norwegian composer Grieg's "Die Prinzessen," while Theodore Webb, barytone, offers the modern composer Rachmaninoff's "Believe Me or Not." Miss Baker will sing Wekerlin's "Mother, Tell Me," Debussy's "Les Mandolins" and a selection from Meyerbeers "Les Huguenots."

Works of Georges Bizet, famous French composers will be featured in the Mobiloil concert to be broadcast at 7 o'clock from WRC. The orchestra, under the direction of Erno Rapee, will play the "Carmen" suite. Micaela's aria, from this same opera, will be sung by Gladys Rice, soprano. Harold Van Duzee, tenor, and Douglas Stanbury, barytone, will sing the duet from one of Bizet's earlier operas, "The Pearl Fishers."

A group of five songs from Rudolf Friml's operettas will be played by the orchestra in the program to be broadcast by the Happy Wonder Bakers at 7:30 o'clock. "A Study in Blue," by Savino, will be played as a piano duet. Frank Luther, tenor, will sing "Diane," and a vocal trio offers "Honey, Dat's All."

A group of old songs sung by the male trio will be featured in the program at 8 o'clock. The Palmolive Hour will be broadcast at 8:30 o'clock, followed by "Amos 'n' Andy."

Josef Haydn's "Twelfth Symphony," written by the composer on his second visit to London, in 1794, will be played by the string ensemble under the direction of Ludwig Laurier in Slumber Music, which will be heard at 10:15 o'clock. Selections from the operatic works of Francois Auber and Carl Maria von Weber and the deeply religious "Invocation" by Gounod complete the program.

Glazounoff's arrangement of a Chopin Etude will be played by Osaip Giskin, 'cellist, during the Voice of Columbia program, to be broadcast at 7 o'clock from WMAL.

Born in Odessa in 1808, Mr. Giskin studied at St. Petersburg under the court 'cellist at the Imperial School of Music and was graduated from the conservatory with the grand prix. He has played as soloist with many European and American orchestras, among them the New York Symphony and the Philharmonic.

The first movement of Brahms' "Clarinet Quintet in B Minor, Opus 115," is featured on the program to be broadcast by the Kolster Concert Orchestra under the direction of Bernard Levitow at 9 o'clock. Also to be heard on this program are two selections from "The Enchanted Lake," by Tschaikowsky; Debussy's "Valse Romantique" and the scherzo from Goldmark's "The Rural Wedding Symphony."

Old Negro spirituals will be heard in the Dixie Echoes program, to be broadcast at 9:30 o'clock.

The District of Columbia Chapter of the American Red Cross will present Miss Bessie Craney, secretary of the home service department of the chapter, in the third of a series of talks on Red Cross work in Washington through WOL at 6:45 o'clock this evening. Each of the various activities of the organization will be dealt with in the series of brief addresses WOL is bringing to its listeners each Wednesday.

Miss Katherine Dunning, pianist, will be presented at 7 o'clock. She will play a special program of piano numbers. Another feature of the Wednesday evening program will be the third recital this season by Lizette Follmer, contralto.

WJSV will be on the air at 6:30 o'clock with the usual Wednesday evening program, including Joseph Dimeglio, tenor, and Chick Godfrey, the Singing Leatherneck.

What Today Means to You

AUGUST 10

"VIRGO."

IF September 11 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to noon, from 4 p. m. to 5:15 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 10:30 p. m. The danger period is from 6 a. m. to 9:30 a. m.

The astrological influences on this date are conflicting, and decisions will be very difficult to make—you will be swayed one way, and then another. If possible, it would be well to defer important transactions to a more auspicious time.

The child born on this September 11 will be orderly, methodical and faithful. Honesty and frankness will shine out in its disposition, and it will win the respect, confidence and love of those with whom it associates.

There is very little deceit or artfulness about your nature, and you are at all times ruled by honest intentions. You would rather meet with failure than take undue advantage of any one. You have a sweet faith in humanity, and are altogether too trusting for your own good. Although undeserving of your fate, you are destined to suffer intensely from treachery and selfishness of others.

You are mentally ambitious and are eager to go into the study of many things. It can almost be said that your idol is intellectuality, and that you are a hero-worshiper of the intellectual. You enjoy associating with traveling people and those from whom you can learn. Books and reading are all essential to you, and you would rather skimp on food for the physical, than starve your hungry mind.

You do not ambition great material wealth, and should it accidentally come your way, it is not likely that you would alter your way of living or thinking. You are more interested in investigating than creating. You would excel in any position which requires the dispensation of knowledge—an instructor, a librarian, head of an information bureau, or special research work. You have considerable patience, and are very tactful.

Successful people born September 11:

Isaac Roberdeau—engineer.

Felix Grundy—jurist and statesman.

Henry C. Bowen—merchant and editor.

John Ireland—R. C. Archbishop of St. Paul.

William S. Macy—artist.

Lord Byng—London's police commissioner.

Jane Interprets the Mode

An ensemble tres elegants of black crepe georgette, embroidered in white paillettes; jacquette with cravat of soft ermine. (Courtesy of Phillippe et Gaston, Paris.)

THE present tendency of the hat mode toward mixtures of material and color, and toward greater elaborateness, is well shown in the collection of Madame Agnes.

As always, her shapes are original and varied, about the only point in common being that they all leave the forehead uncovered and have a tendency to swoop downward at the sides.

Many of them are on the beret order and as a result velvets, tweeds and woolen fabrics play an important part. Lightweight felts are also the order of the day.

Incrustations of flat furs in the brims of wide felt hats provide a new note, and these fall into especially graceful lines.

• • • •

Mixed colors are shown frequently, one pleasing toque, made up in thin felt, having the right half of yellow and the left half black. One particularly original model has a sort of aviator's helmet of flat fur, beige, with ends tying under the chin, and over this a black felt brim and crown with many cut-outs, giving a most intriguing effect. Other unusual shapes are created in heavy black satin.

The tendency toward more trimming is shown in light, fluffy feathers, occasional velvet flowers and the like.

Scarfs and flat handbags of the same fabric and color have captured Paris completely. One sees them everywhere!

• • • •

Color, color, simply everywhere—this is an age of color and you use it all the time! So why not know a little something about it? We have evolved a color chart, which will tell you in just the simplest, oh—ever so simplest language imaginable, the few things every person should know about color. Send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the Dah-ray Color Chart.

• • • •

Black crepe georgette embroidered in white paillettes fashions a Philippe et Gaston dress with an elegant jacquette of the black crepe and paillettes and a cravat of ermine. The skirt is finely pleated, and the dress has white collar and unusual cuffs. Isn't it lovely?

• • • •

Evening gloves are still an individual fancy—and governed by one's clothing allowance, of course. For very formal occasions, I would unhesitatingly sponsor them—otherwise not.

But the semilong glove, worn, as a rule, pulled up over long sleeves, will be much seen this fall for afternoon and dinner wear.

Light beige seems to be the most popular color. One wears darker beige when the stockings are darker beige. White gloves are popular only with black or white costumes and a black glove is a novelty but one that is so distinctive it is quite worth while to learn to affect.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

"Bored Husbands."

IS it any positive indication that a man is tired of his wife when he asks to spend his vacation fishing with two cronies?

Is it any sign that a woman is tired of her husband when she longs to spend a week or so out of his sight and hearing, with some friends of girlhood days?

What is this marriage we hear so much about, anyway? Is it some hokus-pokus miracle or is it the indication of two ordinary human beings that they enjoy each other and prefer to live together rather than otherwise? Now, if it is this latter, why the astonishment that each should on occasions react to tastes and pleasures previously enjoyed separately? Does such reversion constitute retraction of the marriage vows?

Paula, a perfectly sensible young wife who is longing on her own part to have a visit with her girlhood friends, asked this column whether under such circumstances she should feel hurt that her husband—before she could voice her own wish—voiced his desire for a separate vacation with two bachelor friends.

To read the letters that have come to the column addressed to Paula, one would think that the poor man had announced his intention of establishing a harem in the house. One and all the women think Paula should insist upon going with him, fishing or no fishing, as in their opinion he is bored and will surely see some other girl while away.

Well! Suppose he is bored. Will the tagging after him rouse him to new enthusiasm? Suppose he does see another girl. Would following him render him blind to the girls he might see? As a matter of fact, men are seeing girls every day and almost every hour. That has nothing to do with the case. A man usually has seen a good many types before he selects one. And when he does it's because something definite, however intangible, about that one woman ended his quest for THE woman. He was done for! Why, then, should wives give such thought to the girls their husbands see? Why can they not feel more confidence in themselves—and their own attractions? And why, when we ourselves know that we can love a man and still kiss him good-by with real relief—why do we play the hypocrite and pretend that temporary boredom means the end of love?

Paula is herself a bit surprised that she does not feel as hurt as she imagines she should feel. She is just sensible and understanding, that is all. She will have a wonderful vacation and so will he, and both will return with new zest for the other. Bored husbands! There wouldn't be such a thing if there were more opportunity for a man to contemplate his wife from afar.

Separate vacations? We are for them—and the frank common sense that lies behind them, and that's our answer to sensible Paula.

And now we will run to cover for a spell, as a measure of expediency!

This column is for you! Your experiences, opinions and suggestions will help all who read this page. Express your views and help those in need of advice. You need not sign your name.

So important in summer...
this deodorizing sanitary protection

Avoid all danger of offense in summer! . . . this new, deodorizing pad makes it easy to be safe

SUMMER makes certain days particularly trying to dainty women. It is then you learn to really appreciate Kotex!

You learn to depend on Kotex for complete deodorization . . . to depend on it to save you from all danger of offense to others.

Special features of Kotex

Kotex is carefully designed to avoid all conspicuous bulk. It is rounded and tapered, so that no revealing outline shows, even under summer's filmiest frocks.

Kotex completely does away with old-time fuss and laundering. It disposes instantly, without embarrassment

Always light and cool

Kotex, too, is so wonderfully comfortable, so light and cool and dainty! Its absorbent filler, Cellucotton absorbent wadding, is selected by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals, because of its amazing power of absorption.

Kotex actually absorbs 16 times its own weight in moisture! So it protects completely without bulk or weight.

Kotex is Soft...

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

2—Safe, secure . . . keeps your mind at ease.

3—Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.

4—In hospitals . . . Kotex is the identical material used practically exclusively by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals.

5—Deodorizes, safely, thoroughly, by a patented process.

ECONOMICAL TRANSPORTATION for All The People

Twenty-one years ago, when the Model T was first made, and again in December, 1927, when the new Ford was introduced, the policy of the Ford Motor Company was announced in these words—

"We will build a motor car for the great multitude. It will be large enough for the family, but small enough for the individual to run and care for. It will be constructed of the best materials, by the best men to be hired, after the simplest designs that modern engineering can devise. But it will be so low in price that no man making a good wage will be unable to own one."

MORE than seventeen million Ford automobiles have been made since this announcement was first printed. The passing years have brought many changes—in appearance—in performance—in manner of manufacture. But there is one thing that has never changed—the fundamental idea behind the Ford car.

The Ford Motor Company was formed, and exists today, not merely to make automobiles but to provide economical transportation for all the people. Far more important than the car itself is the part it plays in the lives, the happiness, and the prosperity of millions of people.

Before the Ford was introduced the automobile was considered more or less as an expensive toy, for only the wealthy to drive. There was no conception of its uses and possibilities as we know them today. It was accepted in much the same manner that the airplane was accepted five years ago. Great emphasis was placed upon its racing speed and very little upon its practical utility.

With the coming of the Ford, however, it became possible for men in all walks of life to enjoy the benefits of transportation that formerly had been limited to a fortunate few.

A great change came over the country and with it a new prosperity. By freeing the movements of men, the Ford also freed their thoughts and created new opportunities. The barriers of time and distance were broken down. Good roads followed close behind the automobile and the isolation of country districts disappeared. The nation grew as people learned to use this newly developed horse-power and fit it to their needs.

Into the hands of men of moderate means—to the workers in factories—to the toilers on the farm—was given a means to increase their income and enjoy the leisure which that increased income should bring. The working day became shorter because men could do in eight hours the tasks that previously had taken ten or twelve—and do them better.

Always it should be remembered that we do not have automobiles because we are prosperous. We are prosperous because we have them.

Today, with all its improvements—with all its new beauty of line and color—with all the betterments and changes that have been made during the past twenty-one years—the Ford is still a "motor car for the great multitude."

It is not just a new automobile—not just so many mechanical parts carefully put together to run on wheels—but Progress—Achievement—a part of the very life and fabric of the nation.

Business of every kind moves forward at a faster pace because of it. To countless homes it brings the rewards of widening opportunity, happiness, and priceless hours of relaxation in the open air.

All of this not merely because of its safety, its comfort, its reliability, its speed, its acceleration, its ease of control, but because of a fundamental purpose that is greater than all of these. Because, in larger degree than ever, it provides economical transportation for all the people.

Washington, Tuesday, Sept. 10—8 p. m.

Forecast—For the District of Columbia, Maryland and Virginia—Fair and cooler Wednesday; Thursday fair; moderate northwest winds, becoming gentle variable Thursday.

The disturbance that was over the upper Lake region Monday night has moved northeastward over Ontario and Quebec. Father Point, 29.34 inches, and a trough extends southward to North Carolina. Another disturbance is advancing east-southeastward over the Hudson Bay region, Nottingham Island, 29.54 inches, and another which is of wide extent is spreading eastward over Alaska. St. Paul, 29.08 inches. High pressure prevails between the Rocky and the Appalachian Mountains, Concordia, 30.28 inches, and over the ocean between Newfoundland and Bermuda, Hamilton, Bermuda, 30.20 inches. Showers have occurred within the last 24 hours in the Lake region, the Ohio Valley, the Middle Atlantic and North Atlantic States, the Appalachian region, and from the interior of the East Gulf States westward to the Texas Panhandle and southern New Mexico. The rainfall was heavy in portions of Ohio, northern Texas, northwestern Louisiana, and eastern Mississippi. The temperature has risen in New England, the Plains States, the Missouri and upper Mississippi Valleys, and the Far Northwest, but the weather has become cooler in the Lake region, the Ohio and lower Mississippi Valleys, New Mexico and the interior of Texas and Louisiana. The temperature is now below normal almost generally from the Rocky Mountain region eastward to the lower Lake region and the Ohio and lower Mississippi Valleys.

The indications are for generally fair weather Wednesday and Thursday in the Washington forecast district, except that local showers are probable Wednesday in portions of the South Atlantic States. The temperature will be lower Wednesday in the Atlantic States and the Appalachian region, and it will rise slowly Thursday in the Ohio Valley, Tennessee and the lower Lake region.

for Boils~ apply Dr. Gordshell's all Healing Salve

Having prescribed "Dr. Gordshell's Salve" for more than 40 years, and having knowledge of same for more than 50 years, I wish to say that I have found it an excellent preparation in the treatment off Boils, and similar eruptions.

We have sold it in our drug store for the past 50 years, and have had good reports of its effects.

I write you this letter, feeling that physicians should be more thoroughly acquainted with its merits.

Very truly yours,
RICH'D SAPPINGTON, M. D.

MARY DELLA

A Serial Story

By JULIE ANNE MOORE.

MARY DELLA
CHAPTER XXXIII.

Mary Della went to the shop Tuesday morning feeling very much as if she had been condemned to life imprisonment for her innocent part in the Red Mask murder. The only suspect the police had taken into custody she herself had eliminated. The mystery grew deeper, her own life more complex. There was nothing to do but go on, always under that awful weight, always hoping for relief from the terrible strain, always meeting new and more unbearable problems.

But had she been able to foresee the developments of the next 36 hours, she would have known that there is no night so long but that it must ultimately give way to the bright light of day. . . . Within those 36 hours the murder of Salila Hicks was to be definitely and finally solved, and the Red Mask was to stand before her divested of his mask and prepared to pay the penalty for his crimes.

During the better part of the morning Mary Della's mind was occupied with thoughts of Robert, and their last conversation. She had done her best to bring him to his senses before he did something he could only regret. And on the strength of his silence the past few days, she suspected that her efforts had met with success.

Now, true to her sex, she knew that in her heart she had meant not one word she had said to him, that nothing under heaven mattered but his love. Of course she loved him. Had loved him desperately from the moment that he had told her good night after their first thrilling hour together.

But, unlike many of her sex, she had forced herself to recognize the chasm that separated them, to consider the interests of the other woman to whom he was engaged. And when he had tried to force her from the first argument, she had built her case on the second. "If you broke your engagement with her," she had told him bluntly, "I wouldn't ever want to see you again——".

She asked herself now if she had been quite fair to herself. Would the Marabee girl have been as unselfish? Would she have given Bob his freedom had she known that he ——. She couldn't finish the question. Of course she had done the right thing! It was hard but—— yes, she had acted as she should have. And if she had lost the only thing she had ever wnated with all her heart and soul, she would always have the comfort of knowing that she had lost it deliberately because it was right that she should.

Olga Svenson was waiting at the gate as Mary Della and Miriam went out at 12 o'clock, and she walked down the street with them.

"You couldn't come up to my house for a few minutes, could you Mary Della?" Olga asked at the first opportunity. "I'd like to have you, too, Miriam," she added, "but I've got something important to tell Mary Della. She can tell you about it if she wants, to, but——".

"Don't worry about me, Olga," Miriam interrupted. "I've got to go try on a hat, and I won't have much time for gab."

"I wish you didn't look so serious," Mary Della said to Olga. "You make me feel that I'm about to hear some bad news, and bad news has been coming my way pretty steady for a long time now. I'd sure like to hear something pleasant for a change."

"Well, it's not good news exactly," Olga admitted. "But I've got to tell you and tell you quick. It's got me all worked up."

At the Green, Miriam waved a hand cheerfully and went on through the center. Olga and Mary Della turned right on to West Main street and walked rapidly toward Olga's home.

"Don't keep me in suspense, Olga," Mary Della said. "I don't care how tough the news, I've heard worse."

"It's about Joe Speaks," Olga replied abruptly. "You and Joe on the outs?"

"Maybe. It doesn't matter one way or the other, does it?"

"Oh, I'm not digging into your private business, Mary Della," Olga explained quickly. "But Joe's handing out a lot of lies about you and I wanted to get it straight. I haven't been cutting in on you; probably couldn't if I wanted to. But Joe picked me up at the shop at noon yesterday and took me for a ride, and all he could talk about was you. He said you were the girl ——."

"The girl he learned about women from?"

"He said you were the girl that wrote that note to the police about the Red Mask murder ——."

Mary Della came to a sudden stop, then walked on slowly.

"He did?" she asked lightly. "What else?"

"Well, he said he had found a letter in his car that got him to thinking about some other things, and he finally decided that that letter was important. And he said when they took him to the station Saturday night he turned the letter over to the cops. I told him ——."

"The more I hear about Joe Speaks," Mary Della declared, "the more I love him. He's sure a nice boy."

"I told him," Olga went on, "that it was a lie and that I wouldn't believe it unless you told me yourself it was so. He said that was all right with him, and if you said he was right he'd come around tomorrow night to take me to ride."

"What's the ride for?" asked Mary Della.

"Oh, we were just joking, I guess. I just knew he was lying and I hated him for it, but I said if you told me he was telling the truth, the treat would be on me. And then he suggested the ride. I think Joe's pretty nice sometimes, Mary Della."

"And you thought he was lying?" Mary Della asked, ignoring this last remark. "Well, since he's spreading the story, I might as well tell you the truth. I did write that note. I was the girl on the Cheshire road the night the woman was murdered, and that letter he found was from the fellow that was with me. Did he say anything about him?"

"He said you were a double-crossing cheater, or something like that," Olga admitted reluctantly. "But I didn't pay any attention to that, Mary Della."

"It's all right, Olga. I don't care what Joe Speaks says about me. He got you off and spilled the beans so you would talk it around the shop and give me a bad name. But I've been through too much lately to care about a little thing like that. Joe Speaks was the cause of the whole thing so far as my getting mixed up in it was concerned. He stood me up on a date, and the other fellow came along and we went for a ride. But that's another story."

Olga hesitated. "Will you come in and eat lunch with me, Mary Della," she pleaded. "Ma'll be glad to see you and we'll be able to talk."

"Sure, I'll go in," Mary Della said, after a moment. "But let's don't talk about Joe any more. He's ancient history with me."

Now there are two stories to tell about Tuesday night, and as the action of both took place at about the same time, it is difficult to decide which to relate first, but while they are both interesting, either will keep for a few minutes, and I'll begin with Timmy's proposal to Miriam.

Miriam was in her south Main street room admiring her new hat in the mirror when some one knocked on the door. It was Timmy. Timmy in his best and slickest and wearing his broadest smile.

"Want to come out for a little ride, Miriam?" he inquired, in a tone that suggested it really wasn't important whether she did or didn't. "We won't be long. I've got to get the car back before half-past 10."

Miriam had come in from work only a few minutes before and had had no supper, but such invitations were rare in Miriam's drab existence, and she had not forgotten the exhilarating experience of her previous ride with Timmy.

"Can I go like I am, Timmy?" she asked sweetly. "We won't get out, will we?"

"Not unless you want to," he assured her. "Just a little ride, and—— may be we'll stop on the road a few minutes. That's all."

The suggestion was not lost on Miriam. She slipped into her coat, gave the new hat an affectionate pat and locked the door of her room.

"You know what I'd like to do, Miriam?" Timmy asked when they were in the car. "Just for the fun of it, I'd like to go out and park off the Cheshire road where Salila was killed."

"Where who was killed?" Miriam asked, not fully comprehending what he was proposing.

"Salila Hicks, the girl they say the Red Mask murdered. You know."

Miriam looked at Timmy in astonishment. "Say!" she exclaimed. "What do you take me for, anyway? Why, I wouldn't even ride by that place if I could help it."

"That's silly," Timmy declared. "They can't be killing people out there every night, and I'd like to know I had the nerve to park on that road at night. What are you afraid of, Miriam?"

"I'm afraid of everything that's got any tie-up with murder; not tonight, anyhow, Timmy. Some other night, maybe, if I don't lose my nerve. Have you got your mind made up to park?"

"Well, I sure have," Timmy informed her. "I've got my mind made up to park because I want to ask you something. Something that means a lot to me."

Miriam, hopelessly naive, failed to sense the import of this remark, but her curiosity was aroused.

"Something that means a lot to you, Timmy? Does it mean anything to me?"

"Well, I hope so, anyhow. Do you like me much, Miriam?"

Something warned Miriam that this was a forerunner of something more interesting, and she was afraid that what she said might be used against her.

"Sure, I like you, Timmy," she replied honestly enough. "I don't know how much, but—I like you, all right."

"Well, don't you love me just a little bit?"

"Good night! That's different. . . . I don't know, Timmy. I wouldn't know love if I got all tangled up in it."

"I like you, Miriam, and what's more I love you. What do you know about that?"

Miriam didn't know anything about it. She only wished she did.

"You told me you liked me the last time we went to ride," she reminded him. 'And I said I was glad. And I'm still glad. Every girl wants to be liked. And they want to be loved about twice as much."

They had ridden out Meriden road, and now Timmy put the car in second gear and began the descent of Southington mountain.

"I guess you don't get what I'm driving at, Miriam," Timmy resumed. "Ever since that first ride I been thinking about you and about me and about everything, and I got a hunch we'd get along pretty well together."

"Of course we get along, Timmy. Anybody could get along with you."

Timmy took the compliment gracefully. "I'm sure glad to hear you talk like that because I—I want you to marry me, Miriam. . . ."

"Timmy! Don't say that. Why we——"

"Going to say we haven't been running around together long enough?" asked Timmy. "What's that got to do with it? I love you; I think you like me pretty well; so why not let's take the jump?"

For once in her life Miriam was serious. Timmy's bomb had not only taken her breath, but her head as well. She couldn't put two consecutive thoughts together and make sense.

She heard Timmy's voice saying: "Come on now, sweetheart; say 'yes' and make me happy."

And then her own voice, as though someone else were speaking: "Not tonight, not now. That's a serious thing to ask a girl, Timmy. I'll have to tell you some other time."

"But when? Tomorrow night, maybe?"

Anything now to hold him off, to give her time to get her brain into working shape again.

"Yes, Timmy," her voice was saying again. "Yes, tomorrow night, I think I can decide by then . . . ."

Timmy brought the car to a stop in the middle of the highway, kissed Miriam gently on the lips, and drove on once more. Miriam could still hear the soft purr of his voice, but she did not know what he was saying. She was trying vainly to determine whether she would soon wake up and discover she had worried to no purpose.

The other story I spoke of can be told in a few words. Nor does its brevity detract from its significance. It concerns a discovery made by Mrs. Chubb Tuesday evening while Mary Della read the captions under the pictures in a movie magazine and Mr. Chubb devoured his sports section.

Mrs. Chubb had gone through the society news thoroughly and was carelessly perusing the first page when her attention was attracted to one of those relatively small items that are set in very black type to indicate that they have some special importance.

"Mary Della!" Mrs. Chubb cried suddenly. "Here's a shock for you. Well, I never . . . ."

"What is it, Mom?" Mary Della asked without raising her eyes from her magazine.

"Listen to this, child," Mrs. Chubb read with effort:

"Miss Marjorie Marabee and Mr. Thornton Webstone, both socially prominent in this city, were married at Boston this morning by the Rev. Dr. Milton Tanner, of the Washington Street Episcopal Church. The ceremony, which took place at the home of the officiating minister, was witnessed by Mrs. Tanner. No relatives nor friends of the bride or groom were present. The first news of the marriage came to this city in a special dispatch to the American from Boston shortly before press hour this afternoon."

"That's not the fellow the Marabee girl was engaged to," Mrs. Chubb declared. "She's eloped with another man, honey."

Still Mary Della did not look up. But the magazine before her eyes was one whirling blur.

Oh, Lady! The mad rush starts tomorrow!—From now on it's hold your breath—Who is the Red Mask?

NEW STEEL-MAKING METHODS FORESEEN

RESEARCH LIES AHEAD

Cleveland, Ohio, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—A prediction that metallurgists will learn the secrets of controlling atmospheres which will revolutionize the steel industry was made before the National Metals Congress here today by Robert G. Guthrie, of Chicago, vice president of the American Society for Steel Treating.

Tremendous possibilities have been opened up by the development of furnaces in which atmospheres can be controlled, opening the way for treating steel with economy and speed far surpassing present methods, Guthrie said.

Although the control of gaseous atmosphere is in its infancy, many processes already have been discovered, Guthrie said, "such as carburizing, nitriding steel for hard surfacing, bright annealing to preserve the exterior finish through complicated processing, and calorizing the Depp-surfacing of steel with such materials as aluminum."

A vast amount of research still faces metallurgists, but eventually there will be a great number of new gases brought into use. When that time is reached it may be possible to go even further than surface treatment of steels and change the inner structure through treatment at low temperatures with gases, Guthrie predicted.

Greater understanding of the affinities of gases and metals will open up new resources in the future, he said. "It may be possible to run the automobile of the future on a gas of great power and volume produced by a handful of a peculiar metal and a small tank of peculiar gas. That, of course, is just a dream at present."

About 6,000 delegates are attending the congress, which has been joined in its sessions by the American Society for Steel Treating, the American Institute of Metallurgical Engineers, the American Society for Metallurgical Engineers and American Welding Society.

Today's True Detective Story

By VANCE WYNN

The Spy Plot That Failed

IT was during the early days of the World War that a rough-looking man, who posed as a Belgian, began to frequent one of the branches of the Carnegie Library in Pittsburgh. He was poorly dressed, wore a scraggy beard and seemed to have all of the time in the world. Usually he went to the reference department of the library, and spent hours in reading books that had reference to America. He paid particular attention to the maps and one night was seen to be tracing some of these from one of the geographical works in the library.

Miss Frances Langfitt, the assistant librarian, noticed the man, and her suspicions were aroused. So while the fellow spied around the shelves the young woman did a little spying on her own account. Night after night she sat there with a green shade over her eyes apparently engrossed in her work, but in reality keeping tabs upon the Belgian who was not a Belgian. One night she watched him replace a book on the shelf, and when he had departed she hastened over to that part of the library and obtained possession of this particular book. It contained a coastwise map, and gave evidence of having been traced.

Before the next day had dawned the patriotic young woman had informed the Department of Justice of her suspicions of the man who had been visiting the library. Operative Henry—that will have to be his name for the purpose of this article—was placed on the case at once. He traced his man and found that he was a stranger in the city. He located the house where he had a room and discovered he was going by the name of Jacob Harmon. The fellow must have sensed the fact that he was being followed, because he ceased his visits to the library. About the same time an undersized man with a decidedly German accent began to frequent the library. When interrogated he gave the name of Emil Mayer.

This man pursued pretty nearly the same tactics as the other, but on the surface there did not seem to be any connection between the two. One day he was followed to his room, and later in his absence a search was made of his effects. There was nothing absolutely criminal, but the detectives did find a number of papers and tracings. In themselves they seemed meaningless, but if it were possible to put them together they might have meant much.

At all events, the work of shadowing Harmon and Mayer continued without interruption. Two and two were put together and the conclusion of the authorities was that the library had been made the rendezvous of German spies for nearly a year. Of course, it goes without saying, that there was nothing in the library that was not open to the public at any time. But the conviction grew that Harmon and Mayer were doing the preliminary work which was afterward verified by bolder and more audacious men who stole into navy yards and laid the foundations for destroying munition plants.

Operative Henry had several conversations with Miss Langfitt, and he compared this with the reports which were brought in as a result of the shadowing of the two Germans. Up to this point they had never been found together. In the meanwhile an attempt was made to learn something of the previous history of the two men. One of them, it was learned, had been visiting a number of the seacoast towns in New England, and it was also alleged that he had not complied with the alien enemy registration laws.

One night United States agents started to follow the two men, and then for the first time they joined one another in a little back room in the northwestern part of Pittsburgh. They sat at a table and produced a coastwise map which they began to study.

That was the signal for the detectives. The suspects were arrested, and in 24 hours had been placed in a detention camp. What became of them no one will tell. The mystery has gone into that limbo which is the repository of so many war secrets, but to this day there are persons in Pittsburgh who are satisfied that the timely discovery of the librarian cut off the connection between these men and the German war office.

SCORES OF LEADERS YIELD TO PRESSURE

CALL FUNDS 10 PER CENT

New York, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—A pronounced tendency to shorten speculative sail was evident in the stock market today. Although aggressive bullish operations in a few rather mercurial issues sent them rapidly higher, the general tendency was emphatically downward, scores of leading stocks ending the day 2 to 12 points lower. The pace of trading slackened considerably, little more than 4,500,000 shares changing hands.

An unexpected pinch in the call money market, carrying the rate up to 10 per cent, announcement of a drop of nearly 430,000 tons in U. S. Steel's unfilled tonnage during August, private advices to Wall street from Washington that the rapid increases in brokers' loans are being viewed with some concern in administration circles, renewed uneasiness over the Bank of England's discount rate with further takings of gold from London, and commission house advices to lighten commitments were among factors tending to unsettle the market.

The 10 per cent rate for call loans resulted from withdrawals of about $40,000,000, presumably to pay off Federal Reserve borrowings, and for commercial requirements in the interior. Bankers felt, however, that the 10 per cent rate would result in an influx of funds tomorrow, and that the situation may be momentarily eased as funds pile up at this center against midmonth settlements.

Higher London Rate Foreseen.

But with announcement that the Commercial National Bank is receiving $1,000,000 in gold from London, and reports that of Transvaal gold offered in the London market today, more than half, or approximately $2,500,000, was taken from New York, bankers failed to see how a higher discount rate at London could much longer be postponed, and it is taken for granted that it would cause withdrawal of funds from New York.

There is a growing feeling in Wall street that the huge total of brokerage loans had best be reduced, moderately, at least, with the increasing autumn commercial requirements and Congress about to convene and likely to order an investigation of credit and speculation. It is hoped, and generally believed, however, that liquidation can be accomplished in an orderly manner, particularly with the stabilizing influences of the large group of powerful investment trusts exerting an influence over the market.

The drop of nearly 430,000 tons in United States Steel's unfilled tonnage was much larger than had been anticipated, most estimates having placed the decline under 300,000 tons. This decline carried the corporation's backlog of unfilled orders close to the level of a year ago. It is felt that definite trends as to the autumn and early winter steel demand will not become apparent until October.

Announcement by Bethlehem.

An important announcement was made by Bethlehem Steel after the close in the form of the granting of rights, worth about $4.25 per share on today's closing quotations, to purchase 800,000 shares of stock at $100, most of the proceeds to be used to retire part of the company's funded debt.

The utilities were particularly hard hit by the selling, American Water Works dropping more than 12 points, and such issues as North American, Consolidated Gas and Public Service of New Jersey losing from 4 to 6 points. Columbia Gas, however, was firm.

United States Steel dropped about 5 points on the unfilled tonnage report and closed at 238½, off 4½. General Electric and Westinghouse Manufacturing lost about 11 and 12 points, respectively. Du Pont, Commercial Solvents, Union Carbide, Packard, Johns Manville and Norfolk & Western, 8 to 10; United States Industrial Alcohol and Air Reduction, 6 or 7, and such issues as American Telephone, American Can, Atchison, Eastman Kodak, Anaconda, International Telephone, Montgomery Ward, New York Central and Pennsylvania, from 3 to 5.

Few Hurled Higher.

Among the few issues to be hurled higher, mostly those with a small floating supply, were Case Threshing, making an extreme gain of 25 points, American Machine and Foundry, about 18, and American Type Foundry, about 10, all to record levels. Republic Iron and Steel sold up about 6 points to a new peak on optimistic predictions of the results of its new welding process and Kraft Phenix and Fleischmann, reached to tops.

A conspicuous strong spot was Standard of New Jersey, which mounted about 8 points to a new high record price at 75, despite announcement of a cut of one cent a gallon in gasoline prices by Standard of New York. Bullish enthusiasm over New Jersey has arisen from the prospects for its new hydrocenat on gasoline manufacturing process, and its wide range of products in addition to gasoline.

In the commodities, cotton tumbled about $2 a bale, evidently in disappointed selling over the failure of yesterday's crop report to create a sustained demand. Grains were easy, wheat losing ½ a cent a bushel or more on bearish Kansas crop estimates, and corn also sagging fractionally.

Foreign exchanges showed an improved tone, sterling rallying slightly to $4.84¾.

CONVERTIBLE BONDS SHOW BIGGEST LOSS

FEDERAL ISSUES SOFT

New York, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—The bond market was in an unsettled state today and with the exception of the convertibles, which slumped 1 to 5 points on the weakness of stocks, prices showed few important changes.

United States Government Treasuries and Liberties made small declines, reaching about the levels that prevailed before the small improvement which followed announcement of the new Treasury financing. Advances in any group on the current bond market are of short duration and gains on two succesive days are almost invariably followed by reactions that erase them. Nevertheless, some dealers report the development of a better undertone for fixed-charge obligations and that customers are making inquiry for bonds of the highest grades.

Foreign issues remain almost entirely stagnant. Wall street received word today that the City of Dresden was coming into the market soon with a $30,000,000 loan which would bear an 8 per cent coupon and be priced a few points below par. This was received as a good illustration of the market's present condition, which has discouraged foreign financing here. Several sizable issues in that field are understood to be ready for flotation when the chances for a favorable reception on terms reasonably favorable to the borrower improve.

Another item in the day's news was Bethlehem Steel Corporation's decision to retire its 30-year sinking fund 6 per cent mortgage bonds, series A outstanding to the extent of $50,166,000, on February 1 next at 105 and interest. The bonds today moved up ¼, to their call price.

They have been selling close to that figure for some time. Their low for the year is 102½ against a high of 105¾. The retirement follows close after United States Steel's action in redeeming its outstanding funded debt as well as that of some of its subsidiaries.

In line with the trend of the times was the announcement that the Chicago & Northwestern Railway's new financing would consist in part of a $72,335,000 issue of 4¾ per cent 20-year convertibles. Much of the railroad major financing has been in share privilege issues in recent months, an arrangment that apparently proves mutually satisfactory to both borrower and lender, and insures prompt subscription.

Standard Rails and Industrials were mixed, but fair gains developed in some of the utilities. The largest advances were enjoyed by Louisville Gas & Electric 5s, up 2; Niagara, Lockport & Ontario Power 5s, Northern States Power 5s and Ohio Public Service 7½s, up 1 each, and Rochester Gas Electric 7s, up 2.

The more active convertibles were sold freely all day and the close saw Atchison 4½s off 5 points, American Telephone 4½s off 4⅞, International Telephone 4½s off 4⅝, Alleghany Corporation 5s, 1944, off 2, and American I. G. Chemical 5½s, off 1¼, the last named sinking to a new low for the current downward movement.

ALLISON ELIMINATES LOTT IN NATIONAL SINGLES

YANKS - GIANTS SHY AT CITY SERIES

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, Sept. 10.—There has been some agitation here over a proposal that the Giants and the Yankees, having no part in the world series, owe it to their patrons to engage in a special series of their own at the end of the season. The proprietors of the two world series teams, the Cubs and Athletics, could interpose no objection to this on the ground of unfair competition, as it seems that they will have trouble enough explaining to their local patrons just why there are not enough seats. Few New York customers will make the trip to Philadelphia and fewer still may be expected to go to Chicago, but anything that would divert these few and release their tickets for distribution among the regular clientele of the A's and Cubs would be in the nature of a boon to the contending firms.

However, both Mr. Charles Stoneham and Col. Jake Ruppert, owners of the New York teams, have decided to avoid a decision between their athletes and one of the reasons appears to be that each is afraid the other man's club will show up his own club. It is an odd situation, as the two magnates, neither one of whom has ever been seen to flinch in the presence of a dividend, regular or extra, are now resisting the more or less disinterested efforts of the local press to force a profit on them.

Circulation Managers Are Interested.

It is difficult to say just how disinterested these efforts of the local press may be, because at the bottom of the agitation there may exist a desire on the part of the circulation managers to sell a few thousand extra copies of the complete extra five-star sporting final with Wall street closing prices and play-by-play on the series uptown.

As New York ball clubs go, the Giants and Yankees have been quite inferior this year and perhaps the proprietors have reached their conclusion independent of one another that there would be no prestige in winning four games out of seven or even four in a row, and a distinct loss of prestige in losing. This would bespeak a mutually uncomplimentary opinion of the Giants and Yankees at their respective headquarters.

Col. Jake Ruppert has said that in his opinion the baseball season is too long and that the world series should be played and forgotten before the beginning of the football season, his observation being that baseball and football both suffer from the conflict.

Ruppert Would Concede Season to Football.

Inasmuch as autumn is the football season he would concede the field and the sport pages to the college athletics before October 1. This would involve a curtailment of the 154-game major league schedule by some fifteen or twenty dates.

In this particular year, which is not quite typical owing to the untimely decision of the league championships, the cancellation of those games would represent an appreciable saving in transportation, maintenance and general overhead. In other seasons when the two or three leading clubs in each league retain an interest in the pennant competition until the 15th or 20th of September the saving would be less appreciable, but appreciable, nevertheless, and therefore worth considering.

The citizens of Chicago and Philadelphia have achieved an unusual inflammation over the world series this season and in view of this civic consciousness, verging on civic belligerency, it may seem inconsistent to suggest that the world series nowadays is not the commercial success that it is generally supposed to be.

Pictures of First in Line Inevitable.

There is always much scheming for tickets and scalping of the same for exorbitant prices and invariably the morning papers go to the street on the day the series begins showing photographs of a 15-year-old customer who hitch-hiked from somewhere in Wisconsin and took up first place in the line at the bleacher ticket window, equipped with camp stool and iron rations, 36 hours before the opening of the games.

There are also pictures of the oldest customer in line, the first mother in line, the first mother of twins, the first Democrat, Republican and so on down a diminishing scale of distinction, but the sordid fact of the matter is that these tenacious sitters on the camp stools of ten have no motive but monetary gain and sell their places in line before the ticket windows open.

Moreover, at most of the world series of the last few years, even in St. Louis, where the excitement was unconfined beforehand, there have been vacant expanses in stands and bleachers at the later games, indicating that the music, marching and ceremonies of the opening spectacle were the only sure-fire attraction.

Bozek to Join G.U. Team in Capital

Brother Emil Shows Ability; Scrimmage Temple Today.

By JACK ESPEY
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

OCEAN CITY, N. J., Sept. 10.—The mystery of the absence of Johnny Bozek, fleet, slippery-hipped half back from the Georgetown University football training camp here was cleared up today when Head Coach Lou Little announced that the former Washington prep school star had written that he had been detained at his home in Manchester, N. H., on account of illness in his family.

Bozek wrote Little, the latter said, that he would report for practice next Monday, when the Hilltoppers shift the scene of their preseason preparations to the Capital. The addition of Bozek will be welcomed with the present Blue and Gray back fields shaping up short of expectations. In the meantime Bozek's brother Emil is bidding seriously for a varsity back-field berth and seems certain, judging from his efforts to date, of landing at least a first-string reserve role. Emil is fast and shifty, too, but he does not possess Johnny's experience.

Scrimmage Today With Temple Scheduled.

Emil tomorrow will have a chance to show his wares under fire, for the first of a couple of scrimmage sessions with Temple University is scheduled in Atlantic City, the Temple training headquarters. Coach Little stated tonight that he would probably give every member of the Hilltop squad a chance to get into action.

Preliminary to the meeting with Temple the coaches today imparted several new plays to the four teams working out and were pleased with the manner in which they were absorbed. These plays include the kicking plays, in which Capt. Jim Mooney and Ed Leary, quarter-back candidates, did the booting. Mooney got away several place kicks of more than 40 yards, while Leary toed a couple of drop kicks for 25 yards each.

Throughout today's work one set of line men was kept intact, prompting the belief that they are to be regarded as the prospective varsity forward wall. In this group were Ken Provincial and Lew Parlette, ends; Capt. Mooney and Paul Liston, tackles; Sam Cordovano and Gene Driscoll, guards, and Harold Wynkoop, center. All but Parlette and Driscoll were regulars last year.

The coaches continued experiments with the backs. Several combinations were tried out behind the line mentioned, with only Ben Schmid, 1928 substitute and vastly improved this year, holding his half back position throughout the day. Buddy Bordeau, star plunging back of the 1928 freshmen, kept up his recent impressive work after a slow start and crashed the line for substantial gains.

Leary and Johnny Scalzi were in action again after several days of enforced layoff due to injuries. This reduced the hospital corps to three—Steve Barabas, regular full back; Dan Pendergast, sophomore guard candidate, and Don Donaldson, an excellent sophomore end. Jerry Sullivan, another sophomore seeking an end berth, went to Washington for an examination of his head. He is suffering pains which are thought to be caused by concussion sustained last fall.

Helen Hicks 10 Strokes Ahead in Tournament

Chicago, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—Burning up the Flossmoor Country Club house with her second par-breaking 78 in two days, 18-year-old Helen Hicks of Inwood, Long Island, N. Y., gained a strangle hold on the derby, a 72-hole medal play championship for women, today.

Her two spectacular rounds on the par 80 course gave her a 10 stroke margin over her closest rival, Mrs. Lee Mida of Chicago, whose total for the initial 36 holes is 166. And for a player of Miss Hicks' caliber such a lead should be sufficient for an easy romp to the title, even though 36 holes remain.

Rockne Counts on Speed of Jack Elder, Sprinter, to Level Task of 9 Big Games

Trackman Is Groomed to Fill Star Role in Back Field.

This is another of a series of stories on football prospects at leading universities.

By WILLIAM A. WEEKS
Associated Press Sports Writer).

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 10 (A.P.)—The genius of Knute Kenneth Rockne, which has successfully guided Notre Dame football teams through seemingly "impossible" schedules, never has been faced by such a task as confronts it this fall.

Nine obstacles, Indiana, Navy, Wisconsin, Carnegie Tech, Georgia Tech, Drake, Southern California, Northwestern and Army—not a soft one among them—stand in order in the path. But Rockne never optimistic, says the team should "make a good showing"—if—

Eradication of the "if" rests to a big extent with Jack Elder, holder of sprint records, who will play the part of keyman in the Rambler back field. Already possessed of speed, Elder has worked to overcome a tendency to fumble, and has sweated for hours in kicking and passing drills.

Brill, Penn Transferee, Likely To Land Half Berth.

With Elder at half back as lead dog of the pack, Marty Drill, a transferee from Pennsylvania, looks like the choice for the other half back post, with Joe Savoldi, a tremendously powerful youth from Three Oaks, Mich., slated to fill the full back job. Frank Carledo is first choice for quarter, but faces competition from Al Gebert of last year's reserves.

Rockne's line presents less of a problem, the important losses from the 1928 forward wall being Fred Miller, tackle and captain, and George Leppig, guard. Captain John Law will play one guard and Jack Cannon the other, with Gus Bondi, another letter man also available. Ted Twomey, Frank Leahey and Dick Donohue lead the tackles.

Ends are plentiful with Johnny Colerick and Manny Vezie favored as starting wingmen. However, Rockne will have Ed Collins, John O'Brien, Tim Murphy and Tom Conley, all lettermen, ready if Colerick or Vezie fail to reach the form expected of them.

Two veteran centers will be back. Tim Moynihan, a big, active workman, apparently has the edge, with Tom Nash who played often enough to win a letter last season, also available.

Plenty of Reserves for Use As Shock Troops.

The Rambler reserve, less numerous and powerful than usual last year, promises to make possible the use of the "shock troop" system again this season. For an understudy for Elder, Rockne has Marchmont Schwartz, a 150-pound speedster from Bay St. Louis, Miss. Joe Kaplan, who made an excellent impression in spring practice, rates right behind Brill for the other half back spot. Savoldi, if he gets the assignment at full back, will have Larry Mullins and George Shay, a pair of letter winners, as capable substitutes.

Rockne does not promise anything startling in the way of new stuff, but admits he will offer a few variations on the old, for the edification of Army, Southern California and six other tough adversaries.

Wrigley to Build Seats At a Loss to Sell for $1

Chicago, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—So convinced is William L. Veeck, president of the Chicago Cubs, that Joe McCarthy's players will win the National League pennant race that he decided tonight to issue a bulletin Thursday, giving full details of the sale of tickets for the world series games at Wrigley Field.

President Veeck faces the problem of squeezing 400,000 fans into the park, which will have a seating capacity of less than 47,000.

Veeck will ask the city council tomorrow for permission to close one-half of a street adjacent to the park so 8,000 additional bleacher seats may be erected. He said William Wrigley, jr., owner of the Cubs, wishes to erect the seats, despite the fact that it will involve a loss of several thousand dollars to his personal bank roll, merely to accommodate the loyal Cub fans.

The bleacher seats will sell for $1 apiece, but will cost Owner Wrigley $4 to $5 to build each one.

Every Game Is Test; Line Chief Problem; Ends Plentiful.

Pirate Rally in Ninth Defeats Robins, 7 to 6

Pittsburgh, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—Paul Waner's triple with a recruit named Moslof and the other Waner on base in the ninth inning here today gave Pittsburgh a 7 to 6 victory over Brooklyn in the last game the two teams will play against each other this year. The Buccaneers won the season's series, thirteen games to nine.

The clash today was reeled off as a pitcher's battle between Watson Clark and Jess Petty for seven innings, but both weakened and heavy hitting was in order the rest of the way.

Grimm, Cub Captain, Due Back in 2 Weeks

Chicago, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—Charley Grimm, Club first baseman and captain, will be ready for duty again within two weeks. The cast has been removed from his left hand, a small bone of which was fractured nearly three weeks ago, and his doctor reported the break had mended perfectly.

Herb Pruett Bought From Newark by Giants

New York, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—The New York Giants today announced the purchase of the contract of Herbert Pruett, left-handed pitcher, from Newark of the International League. Pruett formerly pitched for St. Louis in the American League and Philadelphia in the National. He became noted early in his career with the Browns as a nemesis of Babe Ruth.

World Series Opener Set Oct. 8

Plans Drawn for Cubs and Macks to Start Play at Chicago.

Grandstand Tickets Priced at $5.50 With Boxes at $6.60.

By CHARLES W. DUNKLEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

CHICAGO, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—The world series of 1929 will open in the park of the club winning the National League pennant—undoubtedly Wrigley Field, the home of the Chicago Cubs—on Tuesday, October 8.

This decision was reached today at a conference presided over by Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner.

Based on the assumption the Cubs and the Philadelphia Athletics will win the National and American League flags, respectively, this schedule for the world series games was drafted:

October 8—At Chicago.
October 9—At Chicago.
October 10—Traveling.
October 11—At Philadelphia.
October 12—At Philadelphia.
October 13—Open date (Sunday).
October 14—At Philadelphia.
October 15—Traveling.
October 16—At Chicago.
October 17—At Chicago.

In addition to the dates, prices of admission, eligibility of players, other details were settled at the meeting. Those in attendance were Ernest S. Barnard, president of the American League; John A. Heydler, president of the National League; William Wrigley, jr., owner of the Cubs; William L. Veeck, president of the Bruins; Thomas Shibe, president of the Athletics, and Robert Schroeder, secretary of the Philadelphia Club.

Representatives of five other clubs, the New York Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates, of the National League, and New York, Cleveland and St. Louis, in the American, which teams were regarded as having a mathematical chance of winning the pennant in their respective leagues, were invited to attend, but failed to show up.

Bleacher Seats to Sell For Dollar.

It was agreed to charge $6.60 for boxes and $5.50 for grand stand seats, all of which will be reserved. Bleacher seats will be sold at $1, with no tax. These prices will prevail at both Chicago and Philadelphia. In addition, standing room in the grand stand at Wrigley Field will be sold at $3.

The open date on the schedule, October 13, comes because of the law prohibiting Sunday baseball in Pennsylvania.

All games, both at Shibe Park, in Philadelphia, and Wrigley Field, Chicago, will start at 1:30 p. m. In the event of rain causing a postponement, the game will be played the following day, regardless of the schedule.

With these details ironed out, Commissioner Landis passed on the eligibility of the players, naming 25 for the Cubs and a like number of the Athletics.

All that remains is the assigning of the umpires by the presidents of the American and National Leagues, each of whom will name two men.

ELIGIBLES NAMED FOR WORLD SERIES

Chicago, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—Baseball Commissioner Landis today named 25 players, exclusive of managers and coaches, on the Cubs and Athletics, as eligible for the world series.

The list of Cubs eligibles follows:

Joseph Lee McCarthy, manager; James Burke and Grover C. Land, coaches; Clyde Beck, G. D. Blair, G. F. Blake, Guy Bush, Harold Carlson, Hazen Cuyler, Mike Cvengros, Elwood English, Mike Gonzales, Henry Grampp, Charles Grimm, Charles L. Hartnett, Clifton Heathcote, Rogers Hornsby, Pat Malone, Norman McMillan, John F. Moore, Art Nehf, Kenneth Prenner, Charles Root, John Schulte, J. R. Stephenson, James W. Taylor, Charles Tolson, Lewis Wilson.

FIREMEN PLAN BENEFIT.

The Seat Pleasant Firemen football team will hold a carnival throughout next week, starting Saturday night, at the fire-house in Seat Pleasant. The proceeds will benefit the team. Exhibition fights and a battle royal will feature the opening night's program.

TEXAN VOLLEYS WAY TO VICTORY IN 5 SETS IN U. S. TENNIS UPSET

WILMER ALLISON.

Lott Rallies Following Loss of First 2 Sets, But Loses Final.

Tilden Extended to Beat Shields in Third Round.

By TED VOSBURGH
(Associated Press Sports Writer).

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 10 (A.P.).—Wilmer Allison, a whirling, smashing tennis player from Fort Worth, Tex., shattered the hopes of George Lott for the national singles championship this afternoon, dynamiting him into defeat in the third round of the forty-eighth annual title tournament by scores of 6—3, 6—3, 3—6, 3—6, 7—5.

It took the finest of tennis for Allison to upset the young Chicago internationalist, who had been expected to oppose Bill Tilden in the final. The Texan was not in the seeded list. Lott was placed second only to Tilden among the eight leading American contenders. In the national ranking, Lott is No. 3 and Allison No. 5. But the scrappy blonde Texan, who formerly held the national intercollegiate crown, swept Lott off his feet by volleying his way through the first two sets.

Lott's careful, tantalizing lobs and well-placed drives checked Allison and leveled the count in the next two sets. Then came rain which gave Allison a much needed rest.

Lott Within Two Points of Match in Final.

The Chicago athlete raced into a lead of 4—2 and 5—3, but Allison drove ahead his smashing overhead play gaining him point after point. Lott was within two points of the match in the tenth game, but Allison warded him off.

Piling up game after game, the Texan went level at 5-all and then volleyed his way to victory in a winning streak that swept the last four games.

In the end, Tilden's stamina carried him to victory by scores of 3—6, 6—1, 14—12, 6—4. Shields, weary and limping from a painful fall, was hardly able to stand at the end of the two-hour struggle while the 36-year-old Tilden was comparatively fresh.

Ball, Olliff Victims in Other Upsets.

Among the day's other surprises were the elimination of Berkeley Bell, national intercollegiate champion, at the hands of Ed Feibleman, former Harvard star, 2—6, 6—1, 6—4, 4—6, 6—3, the defeat of John Olliff, English indoor champion, by Johnny Millen, New York youngster, 6—0, 3—6, 7—5, 7—3; the downfall of another seeded Englishman, Edward Avory, in his match with Elmer Griffin, of Texas York, 2—6, 8—6, 6—1, 6—4, and the difficulties of "Bunny" Austin, top seeded English entrant, in winning from Harold MacGuffin, Philadelphia.

The program of stadium matches is:

2 p. m.—Wilmer Allison, Fort Worth, Texas, vs. Ed. Feibelman, New York.

THIRD ROUND.

H. W. Austin, England, defeated Harold MacGuffin, Philadelphia, Pa., 6—2, 6—3, 2—6, 6—2, 6—3; John Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J., defeated Henry C. Bruning, Mount Vernon, N. Y., 6—4, 6—3, 6—3; Wilbur F. Coen, Kansas City, Mo., defeated Fred Royer, Chicago, Ill., 6—1, 6—1, 6—3; Henry M. Culley, Cambridge, Mass., defeated Jack Mooney, Atlanta, Ga., 6—1, 7—5, 6—3, 6—2; Julius Seligson, New York, defeated M. H. Partridge, New Rochelle, N. Y., 6—4, 6—4, 6—3; Francis T. Hunter, New Rochelle, N. Y., defeated Le Roy M. Weir, Chicago, Ill., 6—3, 6—3, 6—1; J. S. Millen, New York, defeated J. B. Olliff, England, 6—0, 6—7, 6—3; R. L. Williams, 2d, Philadelphia, Pa., defeated Edzar F. Dawson, New York, 6—2, 6—4, 6—3; Pritz Mercur, Bethlehem, Pa., defeated David N. Jones, Brooklyn, 6—0, 6—5, 7—5, 6—2, 6—1; Tamio Abe, Japan, defeated Richard T. Murphy, Utica, N. Y., 16—14, 3—6, default; J. H. Doeg, Santa Monica, Calif., defeated W. Wood, jr., Boston, 6—3, 6—4, 6—4; K. J. Griffin, New York, defeated E. Avory, England, 2—6, 8—6, 6—4, 6—4; Wilmer Allison, Fort Worth, Tex., defeated George Lott, Chicago, 6—3, 6—3, 3—6, 3—6, 7—5.

Nats Reschedule White Sox Game; Tribe to Invade

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

WHILE the Nationals did not win yesterday, neither did they lose, and, as a result of heavy rains, the scheduled series-ender with the White Sox was postponed. It was at first thought that the game would have to be tossed into the discards, but later the Chicago Club offered to drop off at Washington on its way home from Boston on Monday, September 22—an open date for both teams—and so the game will be decided on that day.

Washington club officials made drastic efforts to stage the contest. After putting on the canvas infield cover once and removing it, they were forced to use it a second time and on this occasion it was down for good and will not be taken up until today, when it is hoped nothing will interfere with the scheduled opening game of the four-game set listed with the Cleveland Indians.

Inability to play and win yesterday did not help the Nats any in their effort to pass the fifth-place Tigers, for, after winning the first from the Chisox, they dropped the next two and needed a victory to give them an even break. And, against the third-place Indians, their task should be even harder unless some of their hitters recover from the blow old "Joe Slump" recently gave them.

In an effort to draw first blood from them this afternoon, Manager Johnson plans to call on Fred Marberry, who has developed into his ace of what might be called a "one-aced" deck. Southpaw Walter Miller, who had the Indian sign on the Nats until they beat him in Cleveland on their last jaunt West, likely will toil on the hill for the Tribe.

Mysterious Collegian Working With Nats.

There is a possibility that the Nationals will sign an unannounced college pitcher today. This lad, a hefty left-hander, pitched against the home team in wand drill yesterday before the rain struck the Griffith Stadium and breezed the ball past the batters so fast that even such a good judge of talent as Joe Judge came back to the bench shaking his head and mumbling something which sounded like he was comparing the rookie to Lefty Grove of the A's.

This "masked marvel" was uncovered by Coach Al Schacht somewhere in New England. It is reported that he has had no less than four other clubs—Pittsburgh, Brooklyn, Cincinnati and the Red Sox—dickering with him, but came here for a trial after listening to one of Schacht's impassioned speeches on the benefits of

Throng Sees Fair Meet Start

Smithsons' Campaigner Easily Wins Feature in Field of 8.

By CHARLES A. WATSON
(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

MARLBORO RACE TRACK, Sept. 10. — Thoroughbred racing, conducted under the auspices of the Southern Maryland Agricultural Fair Association returned to the Upper Marlboro Fair track today before the greatest crowd of racing enthusiasts ever to grace Jim O'Hara's popular Prince Georges County oval.

The half-mile racing strip is located near the site where George Washington, the Taskers and the Ogles enjoyed the sport of kings during the colonial period and today presented an animated appearance as the thousands milled about the spacious grounds.

The honors of the day went to C. C. Smithson, the Washington horseman, whose fleet Aucilla, with Jockey J. Guerra in the saddle, carried off the featured fifth race in easy fashion. The Broomstick horse, dropping down a bit in class, made a show of his opposition to lead from the drop of the flag to the finish. Jane Rinehart finished second just ahead of Calgary Kay. Broadmoor, the favorite, was given a miserable ride by Jockey D. Mergler, who had the Augner gelding in trouble throughout the 5½-furlong sprint.

Two Horses Fall at Turn in First Race.

Thrills galore marked the running of the opening event for juveniles when Molly Mack and Ying went down in the scramble for positions at the first turn carrying Jockies Johnny Shanks and Lloyd Smock with them. Neither was injured, however, and they dashed from the track before the remaining youngsters reached the turn again. Main Play also broke her leg during the running and had to be destroyed.

C. M. Feltner's Merry Quip, breaking fast and clear of all the trouble, won the event in a gallop from Treboy and All Rock, which finished in the order named.

Another Washingtonian scored in the second event when Mrs. Elmer Trueman's Henado won the dash under a vigorous ride by Jockey L. Smock, who had just come out of the spill in the opening race. The Brunado filly won in a drive over Stylish Mack, the early pacemaker, and Potent, an old Maryland favorite.

Inches separated the first three horses in the record number as Nancy Byrd nosed out Jack O'Lean and Domesticated.

Merichar Captures Fourth As Storm Breaks.

A storm broke over the fair grounds as the horses paraded to the post for the fourth race. Merichar, racing in the colors of B. Berger, jr., scored his third consecutive victory over the abbreviated course when he won handily over Skirmisher and Playfellow. The 4-year-old Merian gelding appeared to like the driving rain as he drew away in the stretch to gain the decision.

F. Smock, who has become the riding sensation of the small Old Line ovals, again triumphed in the sixth event when he booted B. E. Chapman's Salta in ahead of North Breeze and Bonny Castle. Breaking out of the stall gates with extreme speed, the gelding showed the way to the rest of the field throughout the mile and one-sixteenth journey. Smock displayed his riding ability on the winner and shook off repeated challenges from the contenders for the entire distance to draw away in the final strides to earn the victory.

The closing number went to Five Oaks, which mingled with cheaper ones today and carried off the honors from Hedgefence and Fasciste.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MERICHAR, $6.10, $3.10, $2.50; SKIRMISHER, $2.70, $2.30; PLAY FLOWER, $2.60.

MERISCHAR set a fast pace from the start and easily drew away from his field in the stretch. SKIRMISHER, rated off the pace, came fast last half to outlast PLAY FLOWER for the place. Latter used up chasing MERICHAR. The others were always outrun. ROCK AGE ran away a quarter before start and failed to show anything in the race.

FIFTH RACE—Five and one-half furlongs. Purse, $500. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:39. Off at 4:40. Winner, br. h. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SALTO, $7.30, $3.30, $2.40; NORTH BREEZE, $2.70, $2.30; BONNY CASTLE, $2.80.

SALTA, taken to the front soon after the break, opened a long lead first half, was given a breather and then finished gamely under pressure. NORTH BREEZE, ridden last half, easily saved place from BONNY CASTLE. Latter finished in center of track and lost much valuable ground. Others were outrun.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $600; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stall gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 5:37. Off at 5:38. Winner, ch. f. (4), by Rafan Hill—Great Race. Trained by J. Magner. Value to winner, $450; second, $100; third, $50. Time, 1:50.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MOROCCO, $20.42, $9.28, $4.66; CUDDLE, $5.40, $3.42; CZARIST, $3.40.

MOROCCO, well ridden, raced reserved close up during the early stages and, taking command when BEAUMONT quit, easily held race safe. CUDDLE finished well. CZARIST closed some ground. COTOLOOMOR, off slowly and outrun early, moved up fast on the inside entering the stretch. CONGO II suffered from a poor ride.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,400. The Jackson Park. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from Bahr gate. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:53½. Off at 3:54½. WILLIS SHARPE KILMER TO QUIT RACING GAME

Horses to Go At Auction Saturday

Sun Hatter Is Only 3-Year-Old to Be Sold.

Many Promising 2-Year-Olds to Be Put on Block.

WILLIS SHARPE KILMER is to abandon racing thoroughbreds for a spell anyway. The authority for this announcement is John Holm, manager of Kilmer's Court Manor Stud of the Valley of Virginia, where Reign Count, last season's American 3-year-old champion, and Sun Beau, winner of the 1928 renewals of the Potomac and Maryland Handicaps and the Latonia Championship, were raised.

That is why Kilmer has announced the sale by auction through the Fasig-Tipton Co., of New York, in the Belmont Park paddock next Saturday of the 3-year-old Sun Hatter and the 2-year-old Politan, Dark Herod, Sun Memory, Sun Scamp, Sun Dix, Sun Craig and Sun Riot and, possibly, three or four others, all fresh and ready to race.

Sun Hatter is an own brother of Sun Beau. Sun Beau will be retained for breeding, he being a son of Sun-Briar and Beautiful Lady, bred on the distaff side like Mad Hatter, Mad Play, The Spare, Folamile and a score of other successful race horses.

The Nut One of Mad Hatter's Best Get.

Mad Hatter's second crop 2-year-olds have been winning right along this season and he has a top-notch 3-year-old out in The Nut, winner of recent revivals of the Huron Handicap and the Lawrence Realization. But Sun Beau is to race as long as he can because Sun Briar, whose place he is to take at Court Manor, is fresh and full of pep at 14. Sun Briar, American juvenile champion of 1917, was Kilmer's first great race horse.

A Travers Stakes and Delaware Handicap winner at 3, he sired at Sun Briar Court, which is in Broome County, N. Y., horses of the first class in Pompey, Sunny Man, Sunsard, Sun Edwin, Sunflag, Sunspero, Sun Meddler, Sunsini, Sunference, Sun Pal, Sun Meddler, &c., before he was transferred to Court Manor to get Sun Beau, Sunvir, Minotaur, Mint Olga, &c. Mint Olga won a revival of the Pimlico Spring Juvenile Stakes in May.

Kilmer has had more than one man's share of luck in racing these twelve or fifteen years. In Exterminator, winner of a Kentucky Derby, four Saratoga cups and revivals of nearly all of the East's other great distance races, he has campaigned the stoutest distance runner of the last quarter of a century.

Sallys Alley Victor in Two Futurities.

With Sally's Alley he won revivals of the Futurity and the Pimlico Futurity in 1922. With Sunny Man he won a United States Hotel Stakes and a Saratoga Special. With Sunsard a Grand Union, with Sun Edwin a Whirl and an Eastview.

His Court Manor Stud, at which Sun Reigh, a brother of Sun Briar, sired Reigh Count, is stocked with the best thoroughbred blood. Upset, one of whose sons, Misstep, is among the three or four best handicap horses in the country, and another, Bunting, is the daddy of Lace, the best mare past 3 years old racing in the East, will be better represented in the Carr & Piatt consignment of yearlings that will go under the hammer in the course of the impending Lexington sales—September 16 to 21—than any other stallions, although Wrack, Lucky Hour, Gen. Thatcher, Moneywood, Ultimatum, Transmute, Master Charlie and Spanish Prince will also contribute. There will be twenty, all told.

Bunting, a son of Pennant and Frillery and winner, under the silks of Harry Payne Whitney, his breeder, of the Futurity and revivals of the Chesapeake Stakes and the Champlain, Maryland, Havre de Grace, Merchants and Citizens, Pimlico Spring and Pimlico Serial Handicaps, is one of the most successful young stock horses in the country.

Bunting's Get Have Made Turf History.

Besides Lace, he has given racing a Breeders' Futurity winner in Wacker Drive, a Kings County Handicap winner in Bargello, also False Colors, Irish Holiday, Dress Ship, Nursery Rhymes, Bunt-'is, Green Flag, Capt. Lawton, Tiger Flowers, Na Zdar, Lillian Tobin, Lady Fingers, River Forest, Miss Marnie, &c. A splendid breeder, he gets everything a thoroughbred stallion should sire and his offspring mature readily. Thirteen winners represented him in the 2-year-old racing of 1927, seven in 1928 and six have won for him this year. One yearling by Bunting brought $13,500 at Saratoga in August, another $8,100. Three Upset yearlings brought $12,000, $3,100 and $4,500.

Upset, a son of Whisk Broom II and Pankhurst, enjoys the high distinction of having administered the only defeat Man o' War sustained in 21 races. He licked the superhorse in a revival of the Sanford Stakes at Saratoga in 1919. In 1920 he, himself, won a Latonia Derby after all but running Paul Jones down in a Kentucky Derby.

Besides Misstep, Upset has sired Dowagiac, the colt that licked Misstep and Sun Beau in the Stars and Stripes Handicap inaugural at Arlington Park in July; also Dinah Did Upset, All Upset, Comrade, Cadilla, Disturb, Upset Lad, Valdosta, Grecian Beauty and a couple of score of other winners. Like the sons and daughters of Bunting, the sons and daughters of Upset have foot and carry it brilliantly.

Va. Episcopal Eleven Lists Nine 1929 Games

Lynchburg, Va., Sept. 10.—Nine games, five of which will be played at home, are on the schedule for Virginia Episcopal School, which opened its 1929-30 session today.

The schedule:

Macks Beat Tribe; Rain Halts 2d Game

Philadelphia, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—Although rain broke up proceedings at Shibe Park here today after the Athletics had nosed out the Indians by 6 to 5 in the first game of a double-header, the pennant-bound Macks stepped three notches nearer mathematical assurance of their first pennant in fifteen years. The Yankees got only an even break against the Tigers in New York. This combination of circumstances reduced the needs of the Athletics from nine victories to six, as the game with Cleveland cannot be played off and is just as valuable to Mr. Mack as a game won.

The second game was halted in the fourth with the Macks ahead by 2 to 1.

NEW TACKLES STAND OUT AT W. VA.

Beall, Martin Giving Scott and Nixon a Battle.

Special to The Washington Post.

JACKSON'S MILL, W. Va., Sept. 10. When the West Virginia University football training camp opened here one week ago, it was more or less a foregone conclusion that the veterans, Julian Scott, 194 pounds, and George (("Butch") Nixon, 202 pounds, would land the tackle berths on the starting Mountaineer team.

Nixon, a year ago, seemed to have the right tackle job clinched, despite the fact that Walter Brewster was a candidate for his position. An attack of typhoid fever swept Nixon out of the picture and Brewster stepped in to put on one of the best exhibitions of tackle play that any Mountaineer ever flashed.

Scott, who along with Nixon, is playing his third year of varsity football, was a regular last season until injuries laid him low for a time. With this pair of competent veterans available, the tackle situation was apparently a closed one at the outset of the present season.

However, undaunted by the competition offered by Nixon and Scott, Laurence (("Dally") Beall, a 200-pound junior, and Paul Martin, a 204-pound sophomore, have forced themselves into the limelight by their determined and consistent play.

Both Newcomers May Play In Opening Game.

If they continue to "come along" as fast this week as they did last, Head Coach Ira Rodgers may give one or both the call in the opening game of the season with West Virginia Wesleyan, September 21. Martin, especially, has proved to be a rugged defensive man and has developed a fast, hard charge on the offense.

Fred Morgan, 196 pounds, and Mac Arnold, 185 pounds, are also in the thick of the fight. Arnold reported to camp 15 pounds underweight and this handicap is affecting his play. Morgan, a junior, will have to step on "the gas" if he is to rate ahead of either Beall or Martin, let alone Scott and Nixon. Both Beall and Martin have furnished a pair of agreeable surprises for Coach Rodgers.

The Mountaineers apparently will be well fortified at the tackles with this array of material, despite the loss of Brewster—a loss which was felt to be irreparable when he graduated.

NAVY SQUAD DRILLS IN RAIN

Coaches Welcome the Chance of Using Wet Ball

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 10.—Rainstorms set in to interfere with practice of Navy football players this afternoon. Two storms broke in an hour's interval. While hampering the program of work in a marked extent, yet at the same time it gave the gridders their first opportunity to accustom themselves to handling a wet spheroid and jog about on a soggy turf.

The corps of coaches took their charges off in groups—the back field mentors and line instructors—giving them special pointers in both offensive and defensive tactics. Later on, two combination elevens were formed for a drill in signals and formation. No heavy work was attempted.

There is no question but that the entire squad is in better shape generally for this early in the season than for many years past. This is ascribed to the fact that all hands kept themselves in condition during the summer. The first and second class men who went on the practice cruise engaged in work on shipboard, while those of the second class who remained at the academy for aviation instruction also put in some good licks.

Commander Jonas H. Ingram, director of athletics and general director of football, representing the Navy Athletic Association, was in Baltimore most of the day holding conferences to plan for the Navy-Notre Dame game to be staged there on October 12.

While discussing football generally, Ingram mentioned that it would be a good thing for Eastern football to have a big East-West game played there, such as a game between Navy and University of California. Ingram, who returned to Annapolis tonight said no negotiations for such a game either for this year or next had been opened. It has been one of Ingram's big desires for Navy to clash with a West Coast team on an Eastern gridiron ever since his regime as athletic director began more than three years ago, but in the schedule-making the way to bring this about has not been found.

COLLEGE TWIRLER WORKS WITH NATS

playing under the dome of the Capital. His name is being withheld because the rookie is afraid trying out here will affect his amateur standing at college in case he decides to finish his education before taking a fling at the pro game. He has a date to talk things over with President Clark Griffith this morning.

Pitcher Garland Braxton, who has been confined to his bed since Sunday recovering from a minor operation on his left ankle, is expected to rejoin the Nationals today. His layoff has not been long enough to throw his arm out of condition and he is sure to get the starting assignment in one of the games against the Clevelanders.

Joe Engel is getting into condition for another scouting trip to the Pacific Coast. He worked out in uniform before rain halted activities yesterday and the players saw to it that he was given plenty of chasing. Engel, by the way, also will represent the Washington Club at the baseball draft meeting to be held in Chicago on the morning of October 8, the first day of the world's series.

While fielding bunts yesterday, Pitcher Fred Marberry could not get his right shin out of the way of a hard one and had to retire temporarily to Trainer Mike Martin's sanctum where ice packs were applied. The hurt will not prevent the big pitcher from taking his turn on the hill today.

Browns Twice Beat Red Sox by 6-1, 1-0

Boston, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—The St. Louis Browns took both ends of a double-header from the Boston Red Sox here today, 6-1 and 1-0, behind the airtight pitching of Collins and Coffman.

Collins held the Red Sox to four hits in the first game, forcing in their only run with a pass in the ninth inning. His mates fell on Russell for four runs in the opening frame and Ray Dobens, former Holy Cross star, finished.

Russell attempted a comeback in the second game and held the Browns to six hits and a single run, scored on successive errors by Rhyne and Regan, Sox infielders. Those fielding lapses cost Russell the game, for Coffman scattered Boston's six hits to gain a shut-out.

Loaded with 200 Negro excursionists bound to Notley Hall, the steamer River Queen collided with a lumber barge four miles below Washington and was beached in order to save her. No one was injured or drowned. The boat had her starboard sponson torn out from the bow to the wheel. The lumber barge lost about 40,000 feet of lumber. The River Queen was used as a dispatch boat during the Civil War.

Judge Woodford G. McDowell died at his home at 1420 R street northwest after an illness of five months.

Turned back by the pitching of Dineen, a former Senator, Washington lost to the league-leading Bostonians by the score of 7 to 0. New York won the first game of a double-header with the Athletics by the score of 6 to 4. The second game was called in the fifth on account of darkness. The attendance was 1,844, although it was Sunday.

Prof. and Mrs. Alexander Graham Bell are in town to attend the congress of the International Geographic Society.

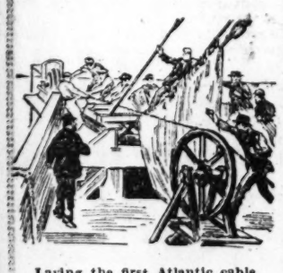
III. THE TELEGRAPH

HAVE you ever watched a telegraph operator sending a message? There is a "key" which the operator presses down, and "clicks" go forth over the wires for long distances.



Laying the first Atlantic cable.

The clicks are carried by the power of electricity. When heard at a distant station, they spell out words. Unless you know the code, you could not guess the message.

A century ago there was no telegraph. If you wanted to send a message you had to send it by ship, train or horseman—or carry it yourself!

In 1832 an American—Samuel F. B. Morse—started on a voyage from France to New York. He was 41 years old. His work was that of an artist, and he did not expect to become an inventor.

On board the ship was a man who told about recent discoveries in electricity, which had been made by scientists in Europe. The passenger described an electro magnet, and showed Morse a small model of the invention.

"How long does it take electricity to pass around the coils of the electro-magnet?" one of the others asked.

"The current flows instantly, no matter how long the wire may be!"

When Morse heard that, it set his mind to working. Why could not signals be sent over wires by means of electric currents? During the rest of the voyage, he thought over the problem.

Arriving at port, Morse set to work to build an electro-magnet and to make it send messages over wires. After trials which lasted several years, he was ready to make a public test.

In 1843 the American Congress gave Morse $30,000 to build a telegraph line from Washington to Baltimore. Poles were set up and a wire carried a message with success.

In 1865 a cable was laid across the Atlantic Ocean. This cable carried messages between the United States and Europe. No longer was it necessary to wait for weeks before news could be transferred from one continent to another—the cable carried news in a few minutes!

RIGGS BANK SHARES SOAR TO NEW HIGHS

Stock Scores Third Advance in Three Market Sessions, Rising to 610.

BOND PRICES IMPROVE

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Another brisk rise of Riggs National Bank stock to 610, a new high record and the third in the last three sessions, featured a slowly improving market on the Washington Stock Exchange yesterday. Following declaration by this bank's directorate Monday of an extra dividend of 2½ per cent, two shares of the stock sold yesterday at 610, a 12½ point advance from the previous session, a 19½ point rise over Friday's trading and a 29½ point increase over Thursday's. The stock closed at a 610 bid and 625 asked.

There was the usual heavy trading in the small priced issues, 200 shares of National Mortgage & Investment preferred selling at 4½, fractional gain, and 80 of Real Estate Mortgage & Guaranty preferred, at 7⅜, last sale price. Forty shares of Mergenthaler Linotype changed hands at a point gain. All other trading was in small lots.

The bond market improved slightly, aggregate sales of $5,200 representing a $1,200 increase over the prior session. Sales of $2,000 D. C. Paper Mfg. at 90, five point recession, and $2,000 Capital Traction 5s at 95, half point advance, were recorded.

Reserve Board Action Unlikely.

Although brokers' loans are still climbing to new record marks, regulative action on the part of the Federal Reserve Board is not anticipated as immediate, it being generally conceded that the corrective plan laid by the system in August will need longer time to demonstrate its effectiveness.

The raising of the New York Federal Reserve Bank's rediscount rate from 5 to 6 per cent in August and the lowering of the bill rate was decided, it is believed, with the idea that it eventually would result in a reduction of brokers' loans. While this has not happened, the plan is not yet considered as an unsuccessful one.

Lower call rates were anticipated after the August decision with the idea that such would cause a gradual withdrawal of money from the call market for purposes of investment; the digression of securities to powerful concerns; a decrease of the floating supply and in turn, a recession in the loan total. Instead of this, securities have reached new highs.

Should the present situation continue, it is probable that the Federal Reserve Board may have to devise other means of meeting it; but it is not believed that a crucial position has as yet been reached. There will be no concern over the fact that New York Federal Reserve Bank rediscounts went upward with the loan totals unless this state of affairs keeps up. Opinion also is freely expressed that the advance in borrowings of member banks very probably was caused by the requirements of customers for the end of the month.

Seaboard Air Line Plans.

With $21,146,000, representing more than 84 per cent of the Seaboard Air Line Railway Co. 5 per cent adjustment bonds, deposited under the road's proposed recapitalization plan, the company and the bondholders' committee will proceed toward the consummation of the plan, it was announced yesterday by Robert L. Nutt, chairman of the railway company, and Charles S. McCain, chairman of the bondholders' committee.

Pending the completion of the necessary further preliminaries, the joint statement added, the company and the committee will continue to accept further deposits until September 30. After that date the opportunity to deposit will either be completely withdrawn, or, if continued, will be modified so that the terms will be less favorable than originally outlined.

The company has applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission for approval of the plan, involving a debt reduction of $17,500,000 through the substitution of $12,500,000 first and consolidated bonds for $25,000,000 principal amount of adjustment bonds plus $5,000,000 accumulated unpaid interest and the raising of at least $7,500,000 through the sale of additional common stock.

Completes Fourth Business Year.

The Security Finance Corporation of this city has just completed its fourth year in business and has mailed checks to stockholders covering the eighth consecutive semiannual dividend upon its preferred stock at the rate of 8 per cent per annum.

New Peak for Sales.

A new peak for August domestic sales was reached during the last month by the Ford Motor Co. A total domestic sales figure of 165,847 Ford cars and trucks tops all previous August records. Coupled with record sales during July, the Ford Motor Co. announces a total of 336,528 Ford cars and trucks sold in the United States in the last two months period.

This is the largest total of sales for the corresponding two-month period in the history of the company. It is announced that the prospects for September indicate another record-breaking month.

New Stock Offering.

A group consisting of the Harris Forbes Corporation, Lee, Higginson & Co., Kidder, Peabody & Co., Brown Brothers & Co., E. H. Rollins & Sons, Edward B. Smith & Co., and Schoellkopf, Hutton & Pomeroy, Inc., is offering today a new series of 150,000 shares of no par $6 cumulative convertible preferred stock, Series B, of General Gas & Electric Corporation, priced at $99 per share and accrued dividend, yielding 6.06 per cent.

Each share of this stock is convertible into 1.1 shares of the common stock, Class A, of the corporation after May 1, 1930, and up to May 1, 1935. The common stock, Class A, is entitled to a noncumulative priority dividend of $1.50 per share per annum and after payment of a like amount on the common stock, Class B, fully participates in additional dividends. An extra cash dividend of 50 cents per share was declared in 1928, which it is expected will be continued annually thereafter.

G. E. Fleming Leaves for Europe.

Louis Rothschild, director, Washington Better Business Bureau, will address the convention of the national organization at Los Angeles.

William Spaid, son of W. W. Spaid, partner in W. B. Hibbs & Co., has left for Los Angeles, where he will enter the law school of the University of Southern California.

New Stock Issue Offered.

Offering of a new issue of $15,000,000 of 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock, par value $50, of the Starrett Corporation, with common stock purchase privilege, is being made today by G. L. Ohstrom & Co., Inc., Brown Brothers & Co., Edward B. Smith & Co., Janney & Co. and Graham, Parsons & Co.

The offering is priced at $51 per share and accrued dividend, and the holder of each share of this preferred stock will be entitled, subsequent to April 30, 1930, and subject to previous redemption, to purchase one share of common stock of the corporation at $29 per share up to and including April 30, 1931; at $35 per share thereafter to and including April 30, 1933, and at $50 per share thereafter to and including April 30, 1935, after which date the stock purchase privilege will be void.

LEGAL NOTICES

WILLIAM W. BRIDE and ALEX. H. BELL, Jr., Attorneys.

IN THE SUPREME COURT OF THE DISTRICT of Columbia, holding a District Court. In re condemnation of land in squares 413 and 439 as a site for a junior high school to replace the present Jefferson Junior High School in the District of Columbia. District Court, No. 1989. Order of citation and publication: Upon consideration of the petition of the Commissioners of the District of Columbia, filed in the above entitled cause, and on motion of counsel for the said Commissioners, it is, by the Court, this 6th day of September, A. D. 1929, ordered that the clerk of the court issue citations to Johnson & Wimsatt, Inc., Mary T. Burke, Bessie Ann Springman, Clarence M. Springman, Jas. H. Springman, Robert Hurley, John D. McPherson, Mary Ann McPherson, trustees; Ellen C. Wildmeyer, Annie R. Hickey, Sarah C. Hickey, Correne Cooper, John H. Weisenborn, Chas. Weisenborn, Carter E. Keene, William M. Clark, William A. Smith, Robert Henry Phillips and American Security & Trust Company, executors and trustees, and all other parties in interest in the land to be condemned herein, particularly described in the aforesaid petition, to appear in this court on the 25TH DAY OF SEPTEMBER, A. D. 1929, at 10 o'clock a. m., to answer the said petition, and to show cause, if any they have, why the prayers thereof should not be granted, and why the land in squares 413 and 439, as shown on the plot filed with the petition in said cause, should not be condemned as a site for a junior high school to replace the present Jefferson Junior High School in the District of Columbia. It is further ordered that a copy of said citation be served by the United States Marshal for the District of Columbia upon such owners of the land sought to be condemned herein, and found by the said marshal or his deputies within the District of Columbia; and it is further ordered that all persons having any interest in these proceedings be, and they are hereby, warned and required to appear in this court on or before the said 25th day of September, 1929, to answer the said petition, and to continue in attendance until the court shall have made its final order ratifying and confirming the award and report of the condemnation jury to be appointed by the court to appraise the value of the respective interests of all persons concerned in the land and premises mentioned and described in the aforesaid petition. It is further ordered that a copy of this order be published once in the Washington Law Reporter, The Washington Post, the Washington Evening Star and the Washington Herald, newspapers published in the said District, before the said 25th day of September, 1929. By the Court: D. L. SIMMONS, Justice. A true copy. Test: (Seal.) FRANK E. CUNNINGHAM, Clerk. By JOHN W. GARDNER, Assistant Clerk.

PROPOSALS

DEPARTMENT OF INTERIOR, Washington, D. C., August 29, 1929.—Sealed proposals or bids will be received at the department, until 2 o'clock p. m., OCTOBER 10, 1929, and then publicly opened for the construction, equipment and furnishing of Women's Dormitory Building, No. 1, at Howard University, Washington, D. C., in accordance with plans and specifications, copy of which, with form of proposal may be had upon application to chief clerk of the department. A certified check for $200, payable to Secretary of Interior, will be required as a guaranty of the safe return of plans loaned. Itemized proposals as detailed under Building No. 1, page 3, of standard form of bid covering construction, equipment and furnishing of building will be received. Proposals may also be submitted for the construction and equipment of Buildings Nos. 3, 4 and 5, but no contracts can be awarded for these buildings, however, until and when Congress makes adequate appropriation. Proposals will be considered only from individuals, firms or corporations possessing satisfactory financial and technical ability, equipment and organization to insure speedy completion of the contract, and in making awards the records of the bidders for expedition and satisfactory performance on contracts of similar character and magnitude will be carefully considered. The right is reserved to reject any or all bids, waive technical defects, accept one part and reject the other as the interest of the Government may require. Proposals must be sealed, marked, envelope addressed for the construction and equipment of a Women's Dormitory, Howard University," and be addressed to the Secretary of the Interior, Washington. JOHN H. EDWARDS, Assistant Secretary. 11

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, Bureau of Public Roads, Washington, D. C., August 27, 1929.—Sealed bids, subject to the conditions contained herein, will be received until 11 o'clock a. m. September 28, 1929, and then publicly opened, for furnishing all labor and materials and performing all work for that part of unit 1 of the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway included in Contract No. 8, Unit 1 is located in the District of Columbia, partly in Alexandria, Va., and partly in Arlington and Fairfax Counties, Virginia. Contract consists of the construction of the "Hydraulic Fill" and the "Special Hydraulic Fill," and subsidiary items or items as shown in the bid schedule for Contract B. The bids will be publicly opened in the office of the Chief, Bureau of Public Roads, U. S. Department of Agriculture. Information for bidders, together with questionnaires, may be obtained at the Office of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, Willard Building, Washington, D. C. Bidders will be required to show experience and qualifications satisfactory to the contracting officer. Each proposal shall be accompanied by such a showing on forms furnished by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads. The length of the unit to be constructed or improved is approximately 2.288 miles and the items of work are approximately as follows: 1. Hydraulic Fill, 1,327,120 cubic yards; 2. Special Hydraulic Fill, 161,020 cubic yards. Where copies of plans are requested, a deposit of $10.00 will be required to insure their return. All checks should be made payable to A. Zappone, Disbursing Clerk, U. S. Department of Agriculture. If within 15 days after opening bids, plans are not returned, the deposit will be forfeited to the Government. Guarantee will be required with each bid as follows: (See paragraph 8 of Instructions to Bidders.) In the sum of not less than 20 per cent of the total amount bid for the entire work. If certified check is furnished it should be made payable to A. Zappone, Disbursing Clerk, U. S. Department of Agriculture. Performance bond will be required as follows: In the sum of 100 per cent of the total amount bid for the entire work. Liquidated damages for delay will be the amount of $200.00 for each calendar day of delay until the work is completed. Partial payments will be made as stipulated in the specifications. (See Article 16 of contract.) Article on patents will be made a part of the contract. (See directions on back of contract.) Bids must be submitted upon the Standard Government Form of Bid and with the Transfer Agent. Bidder will be required to execute the Standard Government Form of Contract for Construction. The right is reserved, as the interest of the Government may require, to reject any and all bids, to waive any informality in bids received, and to accept any part of any item of any bid unless such bid is qualified by specific limitation. Envelopes containing bids must be sealed, marked C. B. addressed as follows: Bid for Coachway, unit 1 Mt. Vernon Memorial Department of Public Roads, Washington, D. C. Bureau of Agriculture. Washington September 26, 1929. F. ST. J. WILSON. To be opened at 11:00 a. m. Acting Chief of Bureau. 11.18

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—The cotton market was lower today under selling which was evidently inspired by disappointment over the failure of yesterday's Government crop report to create a better sustained demand, relatively easy Liverpool cables, and a possibility that recent rains will improve the crop outlook in the Southwest. December contracts sold off to 19.09, or 71 points below the high price touched on the crop figures yesterday, and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 35 to 45 points.

The market opened easy at a decline of 13 to 25 points under selling of much the same character as that which developed on the advance following the publication of the official crop figures yesterday.

More or less conflicting opinions were expressed as to the effect of these rains, but a feeling that good weather from now on might add to the ultimate crop was rather more frequently expressed. This may have accounted for some of the selling, while liquidation of old accounts was attributed partly to disappointment over the failure of the market to respond more importantly to the unexpectedly low Government crop figures of yesterday.

According to some of the local brokers the buying on the decline included some demand from the Southwest, but hedging was said to be heavier than recently, and the outlook for clearing weather in the interior of the Western belt following recent rains was considered favorable.

Liverpool reported hedging and Bombay selling together with liquidation by disappointed bulls in that market.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—Dwindling transatlantic demand for breadstuffs and to almost a hunger-strike basis for corn and wheat prices here suffered a further downturn. How much longer European abstinence from buying will continue, or becoming a prime puzzle, but the setbacks in quotations are limited seemingly apparent likelihood that some improvement of export call for wheat from North America would of necessity appear is now not far off. The United States Government crop estimate this evening as to wheat was slightly in excess of trade expectation, whereas the corn figures showed the biggest curtailment since 1901, with in August, barring only two other instances.

Closing prices on wheat today were unsettled, ½ to ¾ cent under yesterday's finish. Corn closed ¼ cent off to ¾ cent up, and oats unchanged to ¾ cent higher, with provisions varying from 7 cents decline to an equal advance.

At first the wheat market today showed itself responsive to rain reports from Argentina, but later advices said moisture was inconsequential where most needed. The course of prices then showed dependence mostly on evidences of export business. By far the bulk of transactions seemed to be in the nature of evening up of accounts so as to prepare for the Government crop report from Washington due after the day's trading was ended. Meanwhile some transient rallying power developed, owing more or less to the fact that a prominent Chicago expert telegraphed from Canada reiterating an estimate of 200,000,000 bushels for the crop of wheat in the prairie provinces, an amount decidedly under latest previous figures from Canadian crop authorities.

Advices at hand indicated that for at least the time being Europe is obtaining sufficient supplies because of liberal offerings of wheat from Argentina at relatively cheap prices. Export demand at the North American seaboard today was described as "very slow." with prospects no interest whatever shown regarding domestic hard winter wheat and with Canadian exporters also admitting that overseas trade was virtually at a halt. Furthermore, domestic receipts of wheat continued fairly liberal, although arrivals at winter-grain terminals were decidedly smaller than was the case a year ago.

Frost reports from Iowa and Nebraska with more frost looked for tonight served to give firmness to the corn market. No serious damage.

OCTOBER 10, 1929, and then publicly opened for the construction, equipment and furnishing of Women's Dormitory Building, No. 1, at Howard University, Washington, D. C., in accordance with plans and specifications, copy of which, with form of proposal, may be had upon application to chief clerk of the department. A certified check for $100, payable to Secretary of Interior, is required as a guaranty of the safe return of plans loaned. Itemized proposals as detailed under Building No. 1, page 2, standard form bid covering construction, equipment and furnishing of building will be received. Proposals may also be submitted for the construction and equipment of Buildings Nos. 2, 3, 4 and 5. No contracts can be awarded for these buildings, however, until and when Congress has made adequate appropriation. Proposals will be considered only from individuals, firms or corporations possessing satisfactory financial and technical ability, equipment and organization to insure speedy completion of the contracts, and in awards the records of the bidders for expedition and satisfactory performance on contracts of similar character and magnitude will be carefully considered. The right is reserved to reject any or all bids, waive technical defects, accept one part and reject the other as the interest of the Government may require. Proposals must be securely enveloped, marked "Proposals for the construction and equipment of a Women's Dormitory, Howard University," and be addressed to the Secretary of the Interior, Washington, D. C. JOHN H. EDWARDS, Assistant Secretary. 11

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, Bureau of Public Roads, Washington, D. C., August 27, 1929.—Sealed bids, subject to the conditions hereinafter stated, will be received until 11 o'clock a. m. September 26, 1929, and then publicly opened, for furnishing all labor, materials and performing all work for that part of unit 1 of the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway included under Contract B. Unit 1 is located in the District of Columbia, partly in Alexandria, Va., and partly in Arlington and Fairfax Counties, Virginia. Contract B consists of the construction of the Hydraulic Fill and the "Special Hydraulic Fill," and subsidiary item or items as shown in the bid schedule for Contract B. The work will be publicly opened in the office of the Chief, Bureau of Public Roads, U. S. Department of Agriculture. Information for bidders, together with questionnaires, may be obtained at the Office of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, Willard Building, Washington, D. C. Bidders will be required to show experience and qualifications satisfactory to the contracting officer. Each proposal shall be accompanied by such a showing on forms furnished by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads. The length of the unit to be constructed or improved is approximately 2.286 miles and the items of work are approximately as follows: 1. Hydraulic Fill, 1,337,120 cubic yards; 2. Special Hydraulic Fill, 161,020 cubic yards. Where copies of plans are requested, a deposit of $10.00 will be required to insure their return. All checks should be made payable to A. Zappone, Disbursing Clerk, U. S. Department of Agriculture. If within 15 days after opening bids, plans are not returned, the deposit will be forfeited to the Government. Guaranty will be required with each bid as follows: (See paragraph 8 of Instructions to Bidders.) In the sum of not less than 20 per cent of the total amount bid for the entire work. If certified check is furnished it should be made payable to A. Zappone, Disbursing Clerk, U. S. Department of Agriculture. Performance bond will be required as follows: In the sum of 100 per cent of the total amount bid for the entire work. Liquidated damages for delay will be the amount of $200.00 for each calendar day of delay until the work is completed. Partial payments will be made as stipulated in the specifications. (See Article 16 of contract.) Article on patents will be made a part of the contract. (See directions on back of contract.) Bids must be submitted upon the Standard Government Form of Bid and the successful bidder will be required to execute the Standard Government Form of Contract for Construction. The right is reserved, as the interest of the Government may require, to reject any or all bids, to waive any informality in bids received, and to accept or reject any items of any bid, unless such bid is qualified by specific limitation. Envelopes containing bids must be sealed, marked, and addressed as follows: Bid for Contract B, Unit 1, Mt. Vernon Memorial Highway, Bureau of Public Roads, U. S. NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—The cotton market was lower today under selling which was evidently inspired by disappointment over the failure of yesterday's Government crop report to create better sustained demand, relatively easy Liverpool cables, and a possibility that recent rains will improve the crop outlook in the Southwest. December contracts sold off to 19.09, or 71 points below the high price touched on the crop figures yesterday, and closed at that figure, with the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 35 to 45 points.

The market opened easy at a decline of 13 to 29 points under selling of much the same character as that which developed on the advance following the publication of the official crop figures yesterday.

More or less conflicting opinions were expressed as to the effect of these rains, but a feeling that good weather from now on might add to the ultimate crop was rather more frequently expressed. This may have accounted for some of the selling, while liquidation of old accounts is attributed partly to disappointment over the failure of the market to respond more importantly to the unexpectedly low Government crop figures of yesterday.

According to some of the local brokers the buying on the decline included some demand from the Southwest, but heading is said to be heavier than recently, and the outlook for clearing weather in the interior of the Western belt following recent rains was considered favorable.

Liverpool reported hedging and Bombay selling together with liquidation by disappointed bulls in that market.

Port receipts today, 65,292 bales. United States port stocks, 177,219. Exports, 31,172, making 442,624 so far this season.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Sept. 10 (A.P.).—Dwindling of transatlantic demand for breadstuffs, and to almost a bunger-strike basis for cash and wheat prices here suffered a severe downturn. How much longer European abstinence from buying will continue is a puzzle, resulting in sharp setbacks in quotations are limited during any apparent likelihood that some improvement of export call for wheat from North America would of necessity appear. Liverpool now not far off. The United States Government crop estimate this evening as to wheat was slightly in excess of trade expectation, whereas the corn forecast showed the biggest curtailment over 1928 with in August, barring only two other instances.

Closing prices on wheat today were unsettled, ½ to ¾ cent under yesterday's finish. Corn closed ¾ cent off to ¾ cent up, and oats unchanged to ¾ cent off, with provisions varying from 7 cents decline to an equal advance.

At first the wheat market took a bearish tilt responsive to rain reports from Argentina, but later advices said the moisture was inconsequential where most needed. The course of prices there showed evidence mostly on evidents dearth of export business. By far the bulk of transactions seemed to be in the nature of evening up of accounts so as to prepare for the Government crop report from Washington due after the day's trading was ended. Meanwhile some transient rallying power developed, owing more or less to the fact that a prominent Chicago expert, telegraphed from Canada reiterating his estimate of 200,000,000 bushel less production of wheat in the prairie provinces, as against decidedly under latest previous figures from Canadian crop authorities.

Advices at hand indicated that for at least the time being Europe is obtaining sufficient supplies because of lessened offerings of wheat from Argentina at relatively cheap prices. Export demand at the North American seaboard today was described as very slow, with no interest whatever shown regarding domestic hard winter wheat and with Canadian exporters also admitting that export trade was virtually at a standstill. Furthermore, domestic receipts of wheat continued fairly liberal, although arrivals at Winter-crop terminals were somewhat smaller than was the case a year ago.

Frost reports from Iowa and Nebraska, with more frost looked for tonight, helped corn. Save firmness to the corn market. No serious damage.

ALEXANDRIA CLUB TOLD OF SESSIONS

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Mrs. Mary W. Troth, president, and Mrs. Otis H. Hullings, treasurer, of the local Business and Professional Women's Club, gave their reports of the convention on Mackinac Island of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs, held the past July, at the first meeting of the Alexandria club since the summer recess, held last night at the George Mason Hotel.

Mrs. Troth presented the general convention business and Mrs. Hullings the social side of the meeting.

The program outlined by the federation designated this week as the period for publicity programs at club meetings, and Miss Bertha Allison, program chairman, had four speakers for this occasion: Miss Kroes Ficklin, on "The History of Printing;" Miss Florence A. Long, on a short history of the local paper, the Alexandria Gazette, established in 1784; Miss Margaret Germond, on "The Newspaper Work as a Field for Women," and Mrs. C. M. Shepperson on "The Trend of the Modern Newspaper."

Mrs. McMoreland Sings.

Mrs. E. E. McMoreland, teacher of voice at St. Agnes' Episcopal School and soloist at Ascension Church, Washington, gave a group of three songs, accompanied by Mrs. D. C. Book.

Miss Corinne Reardon, editor, and Miss Mary Moore, business manager, of the State federation publication, Let's Go, tendered their resignations, effective immediately upon report to the State executive committee.

Mrs. Troth announced the presentation through the club by one of the members, Mrs. Elizabeth Keegan, of a radio to the Anne Lee Memorial Home for the Aged, the cost of installation to be borne by the club, and appointed a committee composed of Mrs. Keegan, Miss Alice Gronau and Mrs. Irva Simpson to arrange for an entertainment at the home when the radio is ready for use, in the nature of an informa reception of the residents at that institution.

The question of the annual Red Cross roll call being conducted by the club again this year was brought up, as the local Red Cross chairman, Robert S. Jones, had requested Mrs. Troth to present it, and lad over for action at the October meeting, as the roll cal is to be held in November.

Entertainment Planned.

The president announced that the Clarendon Business and Professional Women's Club will have an entertainment in this city on September 28, when the State president, Mrs. Laura Penn, of Norfolk, will present their charter, and local club members are invited. The affair will be a subscripton dinner at the George Mason Hotel. Tentative plans were made for the annual emblem breakfast of the local body, to be held September 29, to take advantage of te presence of the State president, and Miss Lillian Hoffman is chairman of a committee to complete arrangements.

Miss Eleanor Watkins reported on the picnic held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Reed, Wellington Villa, in August.

Plans have been practically completed for the Kernahan survey and evangelistic campaign, which will be held here for the two weeks beginning next Sunday, under the auspices of the Alexandria Ministerial Association. The committee in charge of arrangements is composed of the Rev. Ernest M. Delaney, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church Tyson Janney, Frank Woolford, Ward Boswell and Miss Virginia Schofield.

Dr. A. Earl Kernahan will deliver tthirteen addresses in various Sunday schools and churches of the city in the interest of the campaign, speaking at both morning and evening services for 15 minutes, outlining objectives of the campaign. At 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon he will speak at the First Baptist Church, addressing the campaign workers and the general public. Immediately after this service he will issue instructions to the workers who will assist in the survey, which will be formally launched at 9 o'clock Monday morning.

Every church in the city—Protestant, Jewish and Catholic—is cooperating in some manner toward the success of the movement, and Sunday school superintendents, officers and teachers, church officers and ladies of all organizations of the several churches of the city have been asked to function through their respective pastors or their appointed assistants. The movement was started by the Federation of Men's Bible Classes, and has been fostered by the Ministerial Association.

A meeting in the interest of the foundation of Boy Scout troops will be held in the Methodist Episcopal Church South, at 7:30 o'clock Friday evening, by William L. Leith, assistant Scout executive of the Virginia area district, which includes this city, Loudoun, Faquier, Fairfax and Arlington Counties. Mr. Leitch has organized fifteen troops in Alexandria.

Announcement has been made that the Government is now making available boats for instruction in seacraft scouting, and each troop upon its organization will become eligible to use one of the boast for this purpose. Arrangements have also been made with Fire Chief James M. Duncan, Jr., for instruction in fire fighting to be given the Scouts. This work will consist principally of demonstrations of how to enter burning buildings, how to prevent panics and the spread of fire, the use of hose, unrolling and joining up, connecting the hose to hydrant, use of the nozzle, &c.; the use of fire escapes, ladders and other apparatus, and many other phases of a fireman's duties.

Saturday night, September 28, a public court of honor will be held in the armory, before which about 30 Scouts of the city will appear for recognition and advancement into the higher ranks of scouting, as well as to receive some merit badge awards. The public has been invited to attend this meeting.

Members of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, accompanied by the Citizens band, will leave tomorrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock for the Fairfax County Fair, that day having been designated as Chamber of Commerce day. The Alexandria organization expects to carry between 150 and 200 members, some of whom, however, will leave in the morning instead of going with the caravan at 1:30 o'clock.

At a meeting of the board of directors of the local chamber, Edmund R. Allen, president of the Fairfax County chamber, appeared and urged that the local body take part in the fair on Thursday. The time for leaving was then set, and all members have been asked to notify Secretary James T. Preston, so that arrangements may be made for utilizing the automobiles of members who have them.

Montgomery Ward & Co., J. M. Cover, manager, and the Express Spark Plug Co., W. H. Langhorn, sales manager, have been elected members of the local body.

Miss Evelyn Crowder, who occupies an apartment in the Brawner Apartments on Prince street, narrow escaped being seriously burned late Monday night when an overstuffed davenport in her apartment caught fire.

Miss Crowder was asleep and unaware of the fire, when smoke issuing from her apartment attracted W. J. Craig, who occupies an apartment on the same floor, and he broke down the door and rescued Miss Crowder, who was partially overcome by smoke. The fire department was summoned and extinguished the fire with chemicals.

Damage to the apartment was estimated at $200.

Members of Baltimore Legion, No. 10, Loyal Order of Moose, who live in this city, have been notified by the Great North Moose, Robert P. Whitestone, that a special bus will be provided for members who desire to go to Baltimore for the bicentennial celebration that day. The bus will leave at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon, and members who wish to make the trip have been asked to communicate with Mr. Whitestone.

Labosseur L. Johnson, 31 years old, giving his address as Clarendon, when arraigned before Justice W. S. Snow in police court yesterday, charged with the larceny of a quantity of meat valued at $37.50 from F. M. Bradley, of the Peoples' Market, 1004 King street, asked that he be sent back to a government hospital, claiming that he is in need of medical attention. Justice Snow ordered that the man be held until an examination can be made by a physician.

Johnson was arrested by Policeman Miller and Curtis, and the meat restored to the owner. Johnson is understood to have been employed at the meat store.

Elizabeth Brown, colored, who gave her age as 77 years, was fined $1 and costs, or $21.50, and sentenced to 30 days in jail in police court yesterday, on a charge of violating the prohibition ordinance. The conviction, according to the court, was based on a previous offence. Sergt. Sims testified that he purchased two bottles of beer from the aged colored woman before making the arrest.

Hit-and-Run Case Puts Two in Jail

Speedy Arrests Are Made in Fredericksburg After Man Is Felled.

Speedy work on the part of headquarters detectives last night resulted in the apprehension of two alleged hit-and-run autoists in Fredericksburg, Va.

Charles Tucker, 40 years old, 1440 New York avenue northwest, was felled at Fourteenth and Water streets southwest by an automobile driven by a colored man. The machine, witnesses said, failed to stop.

Armed with a description of the car, police notified Virginia police, and the pair was captured. They gave their names as James and Samuel Gaines. They told Virginia police they were from Massachusetts.

Tucker was treated at Emergency Hospital for an injury to his back. His condition was reported not serious. The official police report declared Tucker was "drunk," but he was not booked for it.

New Hospital Wing Has Busy Inaugural

Two Attempted Suicides Claim Attention of Officials.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Sept. 10.—The new accident, receiving, dentention and isolation departments of Cumberland's new Memorial Hospital had a busy first day, following inauguration today. Two would-be suicides, a man and a woman, served to keep the staff busy.

Depressed as the result of continued ill health, Joseph M. Bean, 68, employed for a number of years at the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad timber preserving plant at Green Springs, shot himself in the abdomen at the home of Mrs. D. A. Riggleman, a relative, 146 Thomas street, where he boarded. He was found lying face downward on the floor by W. V. T Ritchie, a roommate. Dr. Arthur H Hawkins performed an operation in the hope of saving Bean's life. His condition is serious. One son, Clifton Bean, was killed in France in the World War.

Mrs. Idella Brown, 1308 Virginia avenue, was admitted to the hospital suffering from cyanide of potassium poisoning. According to members of the family, the woman swallowed the poison following family dissention. Mrs. Brown has a daughter, Norma, aged 8.

HUNT CLUB FORMS IN FAIRFAX COUNTY

CAPITAL DRIVER IS HELD

FAIRFAX COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Phone Clarendon 919-J-1.

Preliminary plans are now being launched for the establishment of a large hunting club and game preserved in Fairfax County, Va., which will cater to wealthy sportsmen and society folk of Washington and New York.

A. Smith Bowman, wealthy country gentleman of Sunset Hills, Va., is the prime mover in the proposed organization and his Sunset Hills Farm will form the nucleus of the extended hunting grounds.

At a recent meeting held at Bowman's home, the old Herndon Hunt and Saddle Club was reorganized for the purpose of enlarging its activities and its membership, and the name of organization was changed to the Fairfax County Hunt and Saddle Club. Subsequently invitations have been extended to all hunters and lovers of the chase in Fairfax and Arlington Counties, Alexandria and the District of Columbia to affiliate with the organization.

It is announced that the club already has secured hunting rights on about 40,000 acres of land and expects in a few weeks to increase it to about 60,000 acres, which will be one of the largest hunting areas in the State. The general area will extend from the Lee-Jackson Highway to the Potomac River and this territory is said to be the natural breeding place of fox, both red and gray. The tract under lease is already being paneled for jumps and hazards.

Another meeting of the reorganized club will be held at Bowman's home next Tuesday evening for the purpose of perfecting a permanent organization, adopting measures of procedure and further expansion of the club. It is announced that sportsmen in adjoining counties and the District of Columbia are invited to attend this meeting. It is also announced that one of the New York Hunt clubs already has signified its intention to cooperate in the organization and participate in the sport which the club will provide.

Under the preliminary plans, a 30-room old sanatorium building on the Bowman estate will be converted into an elaborate club house while servant quarters and stables will be provided by remodeling and rebuilding out houses on the old sanatorium grounds.

The hunting grounds of the club will be about 16 miles from the District line by highway and about 17 miles over the Washington Old Dominion Railway, which passes the Bowman estate.

The Bowman Farm, which will be the central part of the hunting grounds, is part of the old Lord Fairfax estate which remained in the possession of that family until about 1850 when the heirs sold it to Dr. Max Weihle, a wealthy German. Dr. Weihle improved the estate and finally built the sanitarium, which is constructed of brick. After Dr. Weihle's death his heirs sold the estate to Dr. H. B. Hutchinson in 1890, and the latter attempted to convert the sanitarium and estate into a pleasure resort. Owing to the inaccessibility of the place his venture failed to succeed, and about four years ago Bowman bought the entire estate. He improved the place and equipped the sanitarium building with modern conveniences.

It is reported that the old building will be made an ideal clubhouse. Because of the proximity of the hunting grounds to Washington, sponsors of the movement say it will afford an especial appeal to Washington people as well as New York sportsmen.

Although the primary sport of the club will be fox hunting in English style, a golf club probably will be built for members who do not enjoy the fox chase.

Fred Wallace, colored chauffeur of Lieut. E. A. Mitchell, U. S. N., of 1010 Sixteenth street northwest, was arrested and lodged in the Fairfax County Jail on a charge of reckless driving after he was alleged to have sideswiped a car driven by Anna Brand Hunter, director of the social service bureau of the Children's Hospital, near Oakland, yesterday afternoon.

In the collision between the two cars a wheel was torn off Lieut. Mitchell's car, which Wallace was driving, and a fender was ripped from Miss Hunter's automobile. The woman's car caromed into the fence, while the car Wallace was driving plunged into a ditch and tipped over. Although both cars were practically demolished, Bessie Gibson, colored, one of the two passengers in Wallace's car was the only person injured.

Lieut. Mitchell said last night that he loaned Wallace his car to drive to Anacostia yesterday afternoon. Wallace, who said he lives at 348 E street southwest, will be given a hearing on the reckless driving charge at Fairfax today.

T. P. Mullahey, of 4727 Ready avenue, Baltimore, last Tuesday was lodged in the Fairfax County Jail to await grand jury action on a charge of driving while drunk.

Highway Patrolman A. W. Mills arrested Mullahey near Accotink for being drunk. About 1:15 p. m., Mullahey was released after paying a $14 fine assessed by Judge Shepherd. Forty-five minutes later Mills again arrested Mullahey near Woodbridge for driving while drunk. This proved his undoing and he was lodged in jail. When searched $550 was found on Mullahey.

ARLINGTON PLANS FOR SCHOOL YEAR

FIRE SITE IS UP AGAIN

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

With plans being rapidly completed for the opening of the public schools of Arlington County, Monday, September 16, Fletcher Kemp, county school superintendent, announces that there will be a meeting of the teachers at the Washington Lee High School Friday and Saturday.

Friday morning at 10 o'clock the principals of all the county white schools will meet in the Washington Lee High School auditorium. In the afternoon teachers of the county colored schools will meet at Kemper schoolhouse.

Saturday morning at 9 o'clock there will be a meeting of elementary teachers and principals of all white schools in the Washington Lee High School auditorium. At 10:30 o'clock the high school teachers will meet.

Investigation developed yesterday that the Clarendon Fire Department is laboring under the wrong impression when it still waits for information from the county engineer for a better location for the new firehouse, as it was learned that County Engineer C. L. Kinnier has had no instructions, as far as he knows, for the county board of supervisors to look for a better site for the new building.

Discussing the matter, Engineer Kinnier said that he knows nothing about looking for another site. Meetings have been held and much opposition has developed regarding the present location, but nothing has come to his attention regarding a proposed new site.

Supervisor B. M. Hedrick, from Arlington District, in which district the firehouse is to be located, said that as far as he knew there was nothing new on the subject and the fire department will have to await developments at the meeting of the board on Saturday.

The fire department has sent a letter to the board asking for definite information as to what they can expect at the meeting Saturday.

According to an announcement given out yesterday by the county water department, water service in Rosslyn, Radnor Heights, Fort Myer Heights and Washington avenue, east of the Wilson boulevard, will be cut off today from 8 a. m. to 6 a. m. tomorrow morning. The service is being cut off to allow for extensions and connections to be made on Wilson boulevard, in connection with the improvement now going on on the boulevard.

According to a letter received from E. R. Combs, State Comptroller, by Ashton C. Jones yesterday and released last night, pensions to all Confederate soldiers have been increased over that of 1925. In 1925 pensions received by Confederates in Arlington County ranged from $60 to $140. They now all receive $200 a year. Those totally blind receive $320, and those totally deaf receive $300 a year. All widows receive $100 a year except those totally blind, who receive $170.

Jones is a member of the county board of pensions. Other members are Fletcher Kemp and Bryn Gordon.

Deeply concerned over what the county proposes to do on the roads in the vicinity of Aurora Hills, the Aurora Hills Civic League at its meeting last night appointed the following committee, who will appear before the county board of supervisors at its meeting Saturday morning and ask for some consideration: President John C. Gall, E. J. Skidmore, J. F. Gregory, B. S. Kidwell and H. Meade.

The executive committee of the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County, meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. Meta Broaddus, at Mount Ida, completed plans for the luncheon meeting to be held in Arlington District Wednesday, September 25, at 1 o'clock. The place of the meeting will be announced later.

All candidates for both State and local offices will be invited to attend.

The president, Mrs. Julian Simpson, has been requested by the committee to invite Mrs. Sara Lee Fain, former member of the House of Delegates from Norfolk.

H. C. Bates was elected president of the Livingston Heights Citizens Association at its meeting held last night in St. Mary's Episcopal Church on the Glebe road. Other officers are: James W. Trick, vice president; Mrs. Clair T. Willison, secretary-treasurer. Members of the board of trustees are: P. T. Wright, Mrs. A. F. Williams, W. R. Coppage and W. M. Terrell.

There will be a meeting of the Cherrydale Council, No. 11, Daughters of America, in the Boulevard Bakery at Clarendon Friday night at 8 o'clock. Plans for the State visitation in October will be completed at this meeting.

The Arlington Rotary Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock at the Washington Golf and Country Club.

Announcement was made last night of the appointment of Mrs. Mary E. Lockwood, of Clarendon, as chairman of the department of education of the State Federation of Women's Clubs.

The county Democratic committee, according to an announcement made last night by County Chairman William L. Bragg, will hold an executive session tomorrow night in the Clarendon Community Hall. The meeting has been called for 8 o'clock.

The Arlington County Monarch Club holds its weekly luncheon meeting tomorrow in the Boulevard Bakery at 12 o'clock. President Walter U. Varney will preside.

The Clarendon Citizens Association held its meeting last night in the community hall with the president, Charles R. Taylor, presiding.

Herbert F. Smith was elected delegate to the Arlington County Civic Federation, filling the vacancy of Harry N. Douthitt, who has moved from the county.

The Jefferson District Boys Band, under the direction of Claire Bressler, will meet tomorrow night in the auditorium of the Jefferson District Firemen's Hall.

George Frank Allwine was elected chief last night at a meeting of the Jefferson District Fire Department. Other officers are E. S. Kidwell, assistant chief; Lester Neales, captain; Lee Allwine, first lieutenant; L. Marks, second lieutenant; G. Welch, third lieutenant, and John S. Ford, superintendent of machinery.

The executive officers are Fred Lyon, president; John C. Gall, vice president; F. A. Koh, secretary, and Raymond Bearse, treasurer. Trustees are O. W. Reynolds, four years; E. J. Skidmore, three years; W. G. Bixler, two years, and B. S. Kidwell, one year.

Counties Back Man For Road Vacancy

Gov. Byrd Will Appoint Successor to Sproul in Few Days.

Special to The Washington Post.

Harrisonburg, Va., Sept. 10.—Nearly every county in the Staunton highway district, embracing mainly the Shenandoah Valley, has a candidate for the vacancy on the State highway commission made vacant by the death of Hugh B. Sproul, of Staunton, it was learned today.

Appointment of Sproul's successor will be made by Gov. Byrd, subject to confirmation by the Legislature next January.

Rockingham County, it was stated today, will present two candidates. They are J. N. Swank, a farmer and cattle dealer, and J. T. Helbert, member of the Rockingham Board of Supervisors and a farmer. Former State Senator George B. Keesell will leave here tomorrow with two petitions in his pocket to present Gov. Byrd in behalf of Swank and Helbert.

C. M. Shannon, Shenandoah County business man, is being advanced by some of his friends for the appointment. Waynesboro, in Augusta County, is pushing forward J. Frank Harper, of that city, for the berth.

Gov. Byrd has given no indication as to whom he has in mind for the appointment. It is expected that he will make the appointment in the next few days.

SPROUL WILL AIDS SIX INSTITUTIONS

FAMILY PROVIDED FOR

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., Sept. 10.—Six institution, educational, religious and humane, eventually will share in the $500,000 estate of Hugh B. Sproul, coal operator, banker, fair promoter, agriculturist and churchman, who fell dead here on the fair grounds last Thursday. His will was recorded in Augusta County Circuit Court here today. Due to its extensiveness, an accurate appraisal of the estate has not been completed. Mr. Sproul was a member of the State highway commission and food administrator in Virginia during the World War.

Fifty thousand dollars from proceeds of life insurance policies, is placed in trust and the net income is to be paid to the widow, Mrs. Agnes E. Sproul, during her lifetime. At her death this trust estate is to be divided as follows:

Three-tenths to trustees of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the United States to be used at their discretion for the Agnes Erskine Evangelical College at Pernambuco, Brazil; one-fifth to the trustees of Mary Baldwin College, Staunton; one-tenth to the trustees of Union Theological Seminary, Richmond; one-fifth to the trustees of Washington and Lee University; one-tenth to the Kings Daughter's Hospital, Staunton; one-tenth to the Young Mens Christian Association of Staunton, to be invested with the annual income devoted to furnishing memberships to worthy poor boys.

The Rev. Dr. A. M. Fraser, Mr. Sproul's pastor, was left $1,000; his brother, W. W. Sproul, is the beneficiary of a $1,000 life insurance policy which the deceased carried.
